This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS

PUERTO RICO AND ITS RESOURCES.

A book for travellers, investors, and others, containing full accounts of natural features and resources, products, people, opportunities for business, etc. By FREDERICK A. OBER, author of "Camps in the Caribbees," "Crusoe's Island," etc. With maps and illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The aim has been to produce a work that will answer all questions likely to arise in connection with the acquisition and occupation of this new tropical possession of ours. The book is not a sketch for the casual visitor, or impressions of a traveller in search of the picturesque, but it is a comprehensive, informing, and interesting account of the people, land, and products, with the full explanations of the actual conditions and opportunities which are needed by visitors and intending investors.

CANNON AND CAMERA.

Sea and Land Battles of the Spanish-American War in Cuba, Camp Life and Return of the Soldiers. Described and illustrated by J. C. HEMMENT, War Artist at the Front. With over 100 full-page pictures taken by the author, and an index. Large 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

"It is a history of the war that will become more valuable as time passes, for it is, in its pictures, an unimpeachable record of events."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE HISTORY OF THE WORLD.

From the Earliest Historical Time to the Year 1898. By EDGAR SANDERSON, M.A., sometime Scholar of Clare College, Cambridge, author of "A History of the British Empire," "The British Empire in the Nineteenth Century," "Outlines of the World's History," etc. Uniform with "Natural History," "Astronomy," and "The Historical Reference Book." Small 8vo, half leather, $2.00.

PLAYTIME AND SEEDTIME.

By FRANCIS W. PARKER and NELLIE L. HELM. Illustrated. Appletons' Home-Reading Books. 12mo, cloth, 32 cents, net.

This is the first volume of Uncle Robert's Geography, consisting of six books, graded for school use as well as for the home. Colonel Parker begins his lessons in geography and the phenomena of Nature by relating the experiences of a family of children upon a farm. He gives them free scope to extend their observations and investigations with the aid of their parents and "Uncle Robert," whose visit is described in the third book. Dr. Harris says: "If these books are read by the school children, they will suggest a great variety of ways in which real mental growth and increase of practical power may be obtained."

LATITUDE 190.

A Romance of the West Indies in the Year of Our Lord 1820. Being a faithful account and true of the painful adventures of the Skipper, the Bo's'n, the Smith, the Mate, and Cynthia. By Mrs. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

DAVID HARUM.

A Story of American Life. By EDWARD NOYES WESTCOTT. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Mr. Westcott has created a new and interesting type. . . . The character sketching and building, so far as David Harum is concerned, is well-nigh perfect. . . . The book is wonderfully bright, readable, and graphic."—New York Times.

A HERALD OF THE WEST.

An American Story of 1811–1815. By J. A. ALTSHELER, author of "A Soldier of Manhattan" and "The Sun of Saratoga." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"'A Herald of the West' is a romance of our history which has not been surpassed in dramatic force, vivid coloring, and historical interest."—San Francisco Chronicle.

LATEST ISSUES IN

Appletons' Town and Country Library.

Each, 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

No. 255. THE KEY OF THE HOLY HOUSE. A Romance of Old Antwerp. By ALBERT LEE.

This is a stirring romance of Holland's struggle for liberty against the Spaniards in the latter part of the sixteenth century, when Don Luis de Requesens succeeded the Duke of Alva as Viceroy of the Netherlands. The story pictures the terrors of the Inquisition and thrilling episodes of the gallant war for liberty waged by William, Prince of Orange, on the land, and the "Water Beggars" on the sea. The destruction of a Spanish fleet, after a fashion repeated at Manila, is among the dramatic chapters of this fascinating romance.

No. 254. BELINDA—and Some Others. By ETHEL MAUDE.

"The great charm of the book lies in the fact that most of the troubles and most of the joys shared by this family are common to us all, and yet they are told in so witty a way that the ordinary actions of life become subjects of real amusement. We wish there were more books of this sort."—London Literary World.

Valuable Booksellers' Aids.

The Annual American Catalogue, 1898

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE for 1898 will contain:

(1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1898.

(2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author alphabet, of all books recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 1898.

(3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet.

(4) Publishers' annual lists for 1898.

This volume forms the FOURTH ANNUAL SUPPLEMENT to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1890–95.

One volume, if ordered before date of publication, half leather, $3.00; in sheets, $2.50.

After publication the price will be raised to half leather, $3.50; in sheets, $3.00.

The edition, as usual, is a limited one. The volumes for 1890 to 1893 are all out of print, and orders for those of 1894, 1895, 1896, and 1897, to ensure supply, should be promptly filed. THE ANNUAL ENGLISH CATALOGUE, for which we have the American market, now includes full title entries, after the manner of the American volume, instead of the previous abbreviated entries. It will be furnished at $1.50 paper, or bound with the American in one volume, half leather, at $5.00, net.

The Annual Literary Index, 1898

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc.; with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology, and Index to Dates of principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books, published each year, by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published during the year of its issue; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies; (5) authors deceased; (6) dates of principal events during the year. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

"Of great value to all who would keep advised of the topics and writers in the periodical literature of the day."—Universalist Quarterly.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & CO. will publish shortly "The Cruise of the Cachelot Round the World after Sperm Whales," a story of the life and adventures of a crew of a South Sea whaler, by Frank T. Bullen, first mate. They have in press "A History of Japanese Literature," by W. G. Aston, late Japanese secretary to the British Legation; also, "Windyhaugh," a new novel by Graham Travers, the author of "Mona Maclean, Medical Student."

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & CO. have in press: "Municipal Monopolies," by M. N. Baker, John R. Commons, Edward W. Bemis, Max West, and Frank Parsons; an authorized translation, by Mary D. Frost, of "Contemporary French Novelists," by Rene Doumic; "Between Cæsar and Jesus," by George D. Herron, author of "A Plea for the Gospel," etc.; also, "How Count Tolstoy Lives and Works," by P. Sergyeenko, translated by Isabel F. Hapgood; fully illustrated.

THE CENTURY CO. will publish shortly "The Life and Letters of Lewis Carroll, the author of 'Alice in Wonderland,'" by S. Dodgson Collingwood, a nephew of Lewis Carroll. The book consists in great part of Carroll's letters to children, which are most delightful reading, resembling "Alice" itself, and running over with the drollest nonsense. The volume will be profusely illustrated with portraits of Carroll and his friends, and with reproductions of a number of his drawings.

THE MACMILLAN CO. will shortly publish an American edition of "The Statesman's Year-Book" for 1899, edited by Carroll D. Wright, U. S. Commissioner of Labor. Heretofore, this year-book contained but few pages of matter relating to the United States. It is now proposed completely to revise and enlarge the chapters on the United States so as to include all official information. Among the data there will appear the personnel of Congress and of the Federal and State Governments, finances, army and navy, insurance, and political and civil and religious topics. They will publish this month "The Story of France," by Thomas E. Watson; also, "Letters from Japan," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser, author of "Palladia," etc., the wife of the British Minister to Japan, who in this book deals mainly with events and persons connected with the different aspects of life in the capital where most of the years of her visit were passed, and which is pre-eminently the centre of Japan's vitality to-day. They have in preparation a "Life of Henry A. Wise," the famous Governor of Virginia, by his grandson, Barton H. Wise.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish on the 14th inst. Rev. Dr. Charles A. Briggs's new theological work entitled "The General Introduction to the Study of Holy Scripture," in which the author considers the principles, methods, history, and results of its several departments and of the whole; "The Kingdom (Basileia)," by Dr. George Dana Boardman, whose purpose is "to explain the frequent and profound New Testament formula, 'The Kingdom of God,' to rescue the formula from radical misconceptions, to define its nature, state its laws, describe its method, unfold its symbols, and to set forth its issue." On the same date they expect to have ready James H. Hyslop's work on "Democracy," which is thought to be notable because it is an attack by a native American upon democracy without accepting monarchy as an alternative. It is not merely a destructive piece of writing, however, but is an attempt at a thorough reconstruction of American political institutions. The work is also said to bear out in its arguments a new policy offered in the light of territorial expansion. They will publish before the end of this month E. Récéjac's important work on "The Bases of Mystic Knowledge," translated from the French by Sara Carr Upton. In this work the subject of mysticism has, for the first time, been treated from a scientific and psychological point of view. They have also nearly ready a work entitled "The Puerto Rico of To-day—pages from a correspondent's note-book," by Albert Gardiner Robinson, who in his capacity as a newspaper correspondent travelled over the length and breadth of the island, studying the people and their manners and customs, the trade conditions, the agricultural and commercial situation, the means of transportation and communication.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 7, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

TYPE-WRITTEN MATTER NOT COPYRIGHT.

THE recent decision in Chicago of Judge Grosscup, of the United States District Court, that only printed matter can be regarded as copyrighted, unless overruled, will cause loss to the hundreds of dramatists and managers who filed type-written manuscript copies of their plays instead of copies printed from type. Judge Grosscup, in the case in question, in which Lee Beggs, an actor dramatist, was on trial under the penal provision of the present copyright law for having produced a pirated version of "Lynwood," under the name of "The Volunteer," held that in a criminal case the letter of the law requiring a printed copy of a play to be filed with the Librarian of Congress should guide the decision of the court. The text of "Lynwood," like that of thousands of other plays, had been filed in type-written form. Judge Grosscup's decision, therefore, affects the rights of every author, owner, and dealer in plays who has neglected to comply with the literal provisions of the law as construed in this case.

As it is, great excitement prevails among playrights, and the decision is denounced in unmeasured terms. Especially strong are the demands for amendments to the existing law so that valid copyrights may be secured by the filing of type-written manuscripts of the dramas. Much of the comment is intemperate, even childish. So, for instance, the assertion that "the decision sweeps away entirely the rights of the owners of plays," and "practically nullifies the copyright law as it now stands." It is difficult to see how these assertions could be justified. The decision puts no new construction upon the law. The law now, as before, demands that the author, if he wishes protection, must literally print his production (according to the wording of the law of 1891, section 4956, 25th and 26th lines,) "from type set up within the limits of the United States, or from plates made therefrom," etc. The same provision applies, as he has been warned on more than one occasion, to the work of the dramatist. Only a few months ago Judge A. J. Dittenhoefer advised the members of the Dramatists' Club that inasmuch as the question "whether type-writing is printing within the meaning of the law," has not yet been finally decided by the courts, it is therefore safer to file printed copies in the Librarian's office. The warning, it seems, was not heeded, and of the hundreds of plays registered at Washington, it is said, comparatively few are printed from type.

Judge Grosscup's ruling, that in a criminal proceeding the letter of the law must be followed, implies that in a mere civil action type-written manuscript might possibly be regarded as printed matter. And yet, it was by this very penal clause now construed against the dramatists that they hoped to secure their rights. While piracy involved simple lawsuits, there seemed to be no redress in most cases, as the managers who produce stolen plays would be found usually without available assets. It was by the urgent request of the American Dramatists' Club and of the American managers that Congress, in 1877, amended the law by adding the penal clause, making it an offence, punishable by imprisonment not exceeding one year, to perform any dramatic or musical composition unlawfully.

We trust that the representatives of the dramatists may discover some modus by which the rights of their constituents may be secured. In the meantime we would point out to the playrights, as well as to the carping critics who raise their voices against the copyright law on such occasions, that the law, with all its manifest and acknowledged defects, does, nevertheless, afford protection to all authors—both foreign and American—who consider it worth while to conform to its provisions.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S VIEW OF COPYRIGHT IN AMERICA.

We make room for the following editorial from Literature, for December 10. as an antidote against the effects of the many ill-natured and ignorant comments recently bestowed by English as well as American writers upon Mr. Daldy's proposition that the "Manufacturing Clause" of the United States Copyright Bill of 1891 be repealed:

It has recently been urged by authorities whose opinion is entitled to respect that the Anglo-American Commission now sitting in Washington should procure the repeal of the "Manufacturing Clause" of the United States Copyright Bill of 1891. This clause, which is regarded as a hardship by many authors and publishers in England, provides, as is well known, that a book must be reset in type in the United States in order to obtain copyright there. Mr. Daldy, the secretary of the Copyright Association, who deserves the gratitude of everyone interested in the question, has particularly expressed, in the columns of The Times, the view that now is the moment to press for repeal. It may be worth while suggesting that the matter is not really so urgent that it cannot wait until the copyright question in England is a little more settled than it is at present. Whether the Commission has included international copyright in its programme is doubtful, and it is equally doubtful whether it would be useful or prudent to utilize a moment of particularly friendly sentiment for settling a question of dollars.

What is the working of the Act as it stands? An author who produces a work which Americans wish to read can arrange without difficulty for the despatch of advance sheets or a typewritten copy from which the book can be set up in type by an American printer. Mr. Daldy says that "four-fifths" of English books are thus debarred of copyright. Is not this a large estimate? There are six thousand books published every year in London; four thousand eight hundred of them, it is said, lose American copyright. In order to get American copyright, with this clause or without it, there must be found for every book an American publisher. Are the public or publishers of the United States eager to read and to buy at any price the four thousand eight hundred books containing a large proportion of our failures of the year? They do not, in fact, take, even on their own terms, one-half of the remaining fifth. We forget, when we talk about four-fifths of English publications losing American copyright, that we have to compete with American literature and that this competition grows continually more severe. All her theology, all her science, all her scholarship, all her history, a great part of her fiction and poetry are her own. What she wants of us is a comparatively small proportion; she does, indeed, take from us a good deal—far more than we take from her—but she does not want any more than a small proportion of the entire English output. But, it is said, there ought to be reciprocity: we give the American author the right to publish here, and to secure copyright by simultaneous publication. Why can we not get the same privilege? But do not let us exaggerate the wrong done. America agrees to take a small part of our current literature on conditions that mean a second setting of the type—a charge on the American edition, say, of £30 altogether. In the case of a successful book this is not any great hardship; and, though both countries should stand on the same footing, authors, who are in other respects fairly treated, are not likely to consider this tax as an intolerable burden.

The case has been advanced of a young and unknown writer losing his copyright of a work which might afterwards turn out very valuable. It is quite possible. But are we to blame the Manufacturing Clause for such an error of judgment? Suppose the clause repealed. The interesting but unknown young man sends his typewritten copy to New York. The same error of judgment happens, with the same unfortunate result; and this without any Manufacturing Clause at all. Observe that, even with the same facilities as those which we offer on this side, there must be a publisher; and this simple fact acts, and will always act in New York, against the reception of "four-fifths" of our publications. The present working of the Act shows a very curious piece of by-play. There are certain books, by English writers, published in the States every year without any reference to the Manufacturing Clause. They are sent over in sheets; they are not set up over there; they do not ask for copyright; and they are published in this naked, lawless, unprotected condition. What does this mean? It means that there are many books—technical and scientific books, philosophical, pathological, legal—books certain to find a very limited circle of readers—which do not want copyright at all. They are protected by the fact that so few want them. They might be pirated if it were worth the trouble and the expense, but it is not. The wrong done by the Manufacturing Clause is really no more, as far as the author is concerned, than the setting up of the type a second time. For the publisher it is certainly more: he loses the profit he would otherwise gain by the sale of the sheets to the American publisher. But the only way to make it impossible for anyone, author or publisher, to lose copyright is to make the mere publication and registration in this country carry copyright, not only here but also in America.

So much for the working of the Act. The matter is not urgently pressing. Those English authors whom America wants can arrange for their copyright with perfect ease. Those whom America does not want will not save their copyright even if the clause is repealed. But, apart from these considerations, the present moment is far from being opportune. The Committee of the Lords on Copyright have not yet presented their report; it is understood that a Copyright Bill is now being drafted by an "eminent" Parliamentary hand. Whether the drafting of the Bill will be followed by the introduction of the Bill into the House remains to be seen. One thing is quite certain: that the Bill is to be Imperial. All the component parts of the Empire must be bound by this Bill; we cannot endure that a single Colony, for the sake of its own printers, should upset the Copyright Bill for the whole Empire. When that Bill is passed, and we can point to it, and rely upon it, and take our stand upon its provisions, then will be the opportunity for approaching the Americans on their Manufacturing Clause.

ANOTHER PAPER-MILL CONSOLIDATION.

FOX, SHIBLEY & BARSTOW, representing Dean & Shibley, of Springfield, Mass., announce that the prospects for the combination, to embrace about forty plants, which turn out writing paper, bond paper, wrapping, ledger, envelope, and news paper, are excellent. The firm is the one which engineered the combination of envelope manufacturers. The plan of organization has not been fully matured, but the large manufacturers have signified their willingness to enter the combination when the details are fully perfected.

The general plan of the organization as now contemplated is to form a new company which shall absorb all the others, taking the mills, water power, right, etc., of the different companies at a given price, to be agreed upon by the individual companies and the promoters of the deal. It is understood that most of the writing paper mills in New England will join forces with the combine.

The purpose of the consolidation is to eliminate competition, stop overproduction, and make a condensation of the lines of manufacture so that the mill best adapted to make a certain grade of paper may restrict its attention to that specialty and thus, by utilizing all the machinery and capital invested to the best advantage, get the best results.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THE REV. LEICESTER AMBROSE SAWYER, author of "Sawyer's New Testament," etc., died at Whitesboro, N. Y., December 29, aged ninety-two. Nearly all his life had been spent in making translations of the Bible, and he actually completed all the books but Genesis. Several years ago he published his translation of the Gospel of St. John.

COL. C. W. DAVIS, well known in the Chicago book trade, died December 15, aged sixty-five. Colonel Davis was first connected with S. C. Griggs & Co. When the firm of Jansen, McClurg & Co. was formed Colonel Davis associated himself with them, and remained with its successors until his death. Colonel Davis served in the Civil War, and was also Commander of the Loyal Legion.

THE REV. DR. BARTHOLOMEW PRICE, Master of Pembroke College, Oxford, and Canon of Gloucester, died in London, December 29, aged eighty. He was born at his father's rectory, Colne St. Dennis, Gloucestershire, Eng., in 1818. He wrote an important work on the Infinitesimal Calculus, including separate treatises on Differential Calculus, Integral Calculus, Statics and Dynamics, published at the Clarendon Press, 1854–1889. He was appointed Sedleian Professor of Natural Philosophy at Oxford, and was for many years secretary of the Clarendon Press.

JOSEPH NORTON IRELAND, at one time a well-known figure in New York literary and dramatic circles, died in Bridgeport, Conn., December 29. He was born in New York City, April 24, 1817, and was engaged for a number of years in mercantile pursuits, but found time to indulge in literary work to a considerable extent, paying special attention to matters pertaining to the stage. He published several books, among them being "Records of the New York Stage from 1750 to 1860," "Memoirs of Mrs. Duff," "A Memoir of the Professional Life of Thomas Apthorpe Cooper," and "Actors and Actresses of Great Britain and the United States." All of Mr. Ireland's work was written in a simple and straightforward style, and gave evidence of deep and painstaking research.

THE HON. FREDERICK CARROLL BREWSTER, one of the most noted members of the bar of Philadelphia, died suddenly December 30, at Charlotte, N. C., on his way to Florida. Judge Brewster was born in Philadelphia, May 15, 1825. He was admitted to the bar Sept. 20, 1844. He was made City Solicitor in 1862, and was confronted by an effort of the heirs of Stephen Girard to overthrow the will of the philanthropist, who bequeathed his vast estate to the city in trust for charitable purposes. Judge Brewster won a victory in the Supreme Court, which set at rest any future doubt as to the validity of Girard's will. He was elected a Judge of the Courts in 1865, and in 1869 he was appointed Attorney-General of Pennsylvania by Gov. John W. Geary. Since 1871 he had devoted himself to private practice. He wrote two or three text-books on law, also, "Molière in Outline," and the "Life and Novels of Benjamin Disraeli."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

RUDYARD KIPLING, with his family, will sail for America on the 25th inst.

CLARK RUSSELL is writing a new story entitled "The Ship, her story."

CLEMENT SCOTT is writing the history of the English stage during the past forty years.

M. ELLIOT SEAWELL, the author of "The Loves of the Lady Arabella," is engaged upon a longer novel of somewhat the same class.

SIR WALTER BESANT has just published privately a little guide to the profession of letters, including journalism, entitled "The Pen and the Book."

GEORGE LAYARD will write a life of Mrs. Lynn Linton, in which will be quoted a number of letters from Walter Savage Landor, Charles Dickens, and other notable persons.

THE DUC DE MORNY intends to compile a biographical memoir of his father, the half-brother and confidant of Napoleon III., and to that end is classifying a mass of documents.

MRS. M. K. HARRISON (Lucas Malet), the youngest daughter of Charles Kingsley, is preparing an edition of her father's novels, for which she will write biographical introductions.

THE author of "I Am the King," recently published by Little, Brown & Co., is Mrs. Sheppard Stevens. She resides at St. Louis, and is he daughter of Bishop Pearce, of Little Rock, Ark.

MR. CROCKETT describes his new story "Little Anna Mark," published serially in the London Christian World, as the "David Copperfield" of his books, meaning that it contains a large amount of autobiography.

MISS ELIZABETH ROBINS has published a long letter, in which she exhibits a deep resentment of the revelation of her identity with "C. E. Raimond," the author of the novel "The Open Question."

MR. MALLOCK, it is stated, is publishing a novel, not over his own name, but under that of "Wentworth Moore." The novel in question is "The Individualist," now running in The Fortnightly Review.

SIR WILLIAM V. HARCOURT, according to the New York Times, will employ his new leisure to complete a "Life of Henry St. John, First Viscount Bolingbroke," a work upon which he has been engaged for a long time.

FREIHERR VON GLEICHEN RUSSWURM, a great-grandson of Schiller, was recently invited to visit Vienna by the German-Austrian Literary Society of that capital. He delivered a lecture on "The Influence of Women."

MR. LECKY the other day remembered an amusing little item about Carlyle as a reader. When in his reading the Chelsea Sage came upon a passage of high-flown eloquence, he would sometimes put a mark against it—a pair of small but well-drawn donkey's ears.

A NEW novel by Ernest Daudet will shortly appear as a serial in the Revue des Deux Mondes. It is to be entitled "Les Victimes de Paris." M. Daudet is also preparing a work on "L'Ambassade du Duc Decazes à Londres." This will begin in the January number of the Revue.

ROBERT H. SHERARD has been commissioned to write a short life of Emile Zola, without reference, however, to the Dreyfus case, for the Curtis Publishing Company, of Philadelphia. He has just completed a biographical and critical notice of Henryk Sienkiewicz for the McClure Company.

EARLY this year Dr. Sven Hedin, the author of "Across Asia," just published in this country by Harper & Brothers, proposes to start on another three years' solitary exploration in the interior of Asia. He will cross the Taklamakan desert twice and thoroughly explore one of the largest rivers of Turkestan, and the north and interior parts of Tibet. The return journey from India will be taken over Himalaya, Karakoram, and Kashgar. Just now Dr. Hedin, since his return to Stockholm, is engaged in preparing a detailed account of his journey from Kathgar to Khotan for Petermann's Mittheilungen.

DR. WEIR MITCHELL has sailed for the Mediterranean on a trip that will include the ascent of the Nile and a visit to the Holy Land. Dr. Mitchell's career affords a curious parallel to that of his father, a Philadelphia physician of high standing, who turned his pen lightly from the composition of medical essays and addresses to the production of poetry and verse. But while the father died at sixty, the son achieved his greatest success at sixty-eight, his story of the American Revolution having seen the light only two years ago in The Century Magazine. Equal versatility and fecundity are shown by his having followed up "Hugh Wynne" so promptly with an equally striking romance of the French Revolution, "The Adventures of François," and this with a series of strong and beautiful poems, published in the same magazine.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The School Weekly is the title of a new educational journal, edited by Harry A. Armstrong, formerly city editor of the Chicago Record, and published from the Schiller building, Chicago.

Bird Lore is the title of a new popular bimonthly journal to be published next February by the Macmillan Company. Its editor will be Frank M. Chapman, the well-known ornithologist. Among those interested in birds who have already been asked to contribute articles to the periodical are Henry Van Dyke, Bradford Torrey, and Olive Thorne Miller. The illustrations will be made from photographs, many of which will be obtained by means of the telescope lens. One important fact concerning Bird Lore is that it will be the official organ of the Audubon societies for the protection of birds. Mrs. Mabel Osgood Wright will have charge of a department in the magazine devoted to the work of the societies.

THE fourth special "Winter Number" of The International Studio, published by John Lane, at 140 Fifth Avenue, New York, is entitled "Modern Book-Plates and their Designers." The subject is divided into the following sections: British Book-Plates, by Gleeson White; American Book-Plates, by Jean Carre; Belgian Book-Plates, by Fernand Khnopff; French Book-Plates, by Octave Uzanne; German Book-Plates, by H. W. Singer; and Austrian Book-Plates, by W. Scholermann. The articles are illustrated with a large number of designs, for the most part reproduced for the first time. A limited edition is issued upon fine paper, printed on one side only. These numbers must be ordered specially as they are not included in the yearly subscription.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ADAMS, N. Y.—W. W. Warriner has moved his bookstore to the room formerly occupied by the Citizens' Bank.

CALAIS, ME.—Joseph H. Meredith has bought the "Old Corner" bookstore carried on for years by O. P. Treat, and will conduct a first-class bookstore and stationery stand. Special attention will be given to legal blanks and lawyers' supplies.

FARMINGTON, KY.—W. S. Walker, bookseller, has been succeeded by W. A. Hendley.

HUTCHINSON, KAN.—C. E. Campbell succeeds F. T. Altswager, bookseller and stationer.

IOWA CITY, IA.—Lee Brothers & Harrat, booksellers, have sold out.

LOCK HAVEN, PA.—W. F. Satterlee has sold his bookstore to W. C. Bauman. Mr. Satterlee has been in the bookstore business for twenty-five years. He will engage in other business in the future.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Century History Company has been incorporated to publish a history of the State of New York, entitled "The Empire State in Three Centuries." Capital, $30,000. Directors: Lewis A. Williams, of Peekskill; William B. Gay and Omie T. Vedder, of New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—The eastern branch of Rand, McNally & Co. will remove in February to the New building at 142 Fifth Avenue, northwest corner of Nineteenth Street, where they have secured quarters nearly twice as large as those now occupied by them. C. S. Hammond opened the eastern branch in 1885, in a small office at 13 Park Row. A year after he was obliged by increasing business to remove to larger quarters at 323 Broadway, where he remained until 1893. Then the branch was removed to still larger quarters at 61 East Ninth Street, and now increasing business again necessitates removal.

UTICA, N. Y.—E. S. Betts has opened a bookstore at 244 Genesee Street.

WARRENSBURG, MISS.—C. H. Harrison has bought William A. Wood's book business.

WARSAW, N. Y.—L. S. Walker & Sons, booksellers, etc., are closing out their stock at auction. It is understood that William A. Walker is going into the school-furnishing business.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, will shortly publish a book entitled "New Climbs in Norway," by C. E. Oppenheim, of the Alpine Club.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish shortly "Baumbach's Waldnovellen," six easy little stories adapted for early reading, with notes and vocabulary by Dr. Wilhelm Bernhardt.

H. INGALLS KIMBALL, The Cheltenham Press, 25 West Eleventh Street, New York, has published a volume of short stories entitled "Red, White, and Blue Days," by Ruth Louise Sheldon.

COPELAND & DAY will publish in the spring a new volume by Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford, entitled "The Godmother, and other stories." They have also in preparation a new volume of poems by Miss Louise Imogen Guiney.

PRESTON & ROUNDS CO., Providence, R. I., has just published an interesting contribution to the literature of the American Revolution, entitled "Esek Hopkins, commander-in-chief of the Continental navy 1775 to 1778, master mariner, politician, brigadier-general, naval officer and philanthropist," by Edward Field.

JOHN MURRAY, the publisher, recently stated that his father and grandfather collected a large mass of material concerning Byron which has not been used in the new edition of Byron's works, as the facts and details do not arise directly from the poems and letters. This may suggest a subsequent biography.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, will publish shortly an English edition of Jusserand's "Shakespeare in France Under the Old Régime." It will contain sixty plates of unique interest; for example, old prints of scenery with which "The Winter's Tale" was performed in the early part of the seventeenth century.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish this month Part I of a work by Sir George Trevelyan, entitled "The American Revolution," covering the period from 1766 to 1776. This is practically a continuation of Sir George's biography of Fox, whose story, the preface says, is inextricably interwoven with the story of that immense event.

GINN & Co. have nearly ready a German reading-book, entitled "Altes und Neues, ein Lesebuch für Junge Anfänger," edited by Karl Seeligmann, teacher of German in the Hand School at Chicago. While prepared originally for the use of young beginners, this book will be found equally useful for rapid reading in beginning classes consisting of older pupils.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY will publish this month "That Gay Deceiver," by Albert Ross. This will be his twentieth volume. The sale of Mr. Ross' novels is reported by the publishers to exceed 1,500,000 copies. The Dillingham Co. will also soon issue "Not on the Chart," by Algernon Sydney Logan; "Van Hoff, or, the New Faust," by Alfred Smythe, and "His Own Image," by Alan Dale.

F. TENNYSON NEELY has in press a volume of poems by Rosa A. T. Bliss, entitled "Labor's Daughter"; and the following novels: "By Sunlit Waters," a Tampa story, by Thomas M. Shakleford and W M. De Hart; "His Brother's Crime," by J. R. Musick, of Columbian Historical Novels fame; "The Treasure of the Ice," by Eugene S. Bisbee; and "The Gold of Ophir," by D. H. Gwinn.

THE book about the last days of Shelley, which Dr. Biagi has just published, according to the New York Tribune, tells nothing new except a few unimportant facts about the disposal of the poet's remains. The author discredits some of Trelawny's most picturesque statements, especially that in which he represents himself as snatching Shelley's heart from the flames during the cremation of the body.

AT a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Academy of Political and Social Science at Philadelphia, Professor E. J. James presented his resignation as a member of the editorial board of the "Annals." The committee reluctantly accepted the resignation and elected Professor Henry R. Seager to fill the vacancy. Dr. James T. Young was, by vote of the committee, placed in charge of the Book Department.

GOUPIL & Co., Paris, will publish in the spring—which will mark the tercentenary of the Protector's birth—a book on Cromwell, by Rawson Gardiner. The book will be uniform with the same publishers' "Mary Stuart" and "Queen Elizabeth." They have also in preparation "The Life of Sir Thomas Lawrence," by Lord Ronald Gower, which will contain reproductions of many famous portraits at Windsor Castle and in other private collections.

THE G. & C. MERRIAM COMPANY, of Springfield, Mass., filed a bill in the United States Circuit Court at Chicago, Ill., December 28 last, in which they ask an injunction and accounting against John E. Potter & Co., of Philadelphia and New York, on the ground that the defendants are publishing the Webster Dictionary without authority. The complainant company claims to have suffered $10,000 damages because of the defendants' alleged imitation of the trade-mark.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. will shortly publish a limited edition of a small book which is to serve as the memorial of an interesting day at Dublin, N. H., last summer. It is in Dublin that Joseph Lindon Smith has made his private out-of-doors theatre—the "Teatro Bambino"—and upon its stage the miracle play of "Théophile," by Henry Copley Greene, was acted on the 18th of last July. In the cast were Col. T. W. Higginson, T. R. Sullivan, and others whose laurels, according to the Book Buyer, "are not primarily Thespian."

ONE of the most important of the series of articles soon to be sent out by McClure's syndicate is entitled Stories of Successful Men Told by Themselves. It will include articles by Andrew Carnegie, Thomas A. Edison, Charles Emory Smith, Frank Thomson, Joseph Jefferson, John Claflin, and other well-known Americans of the same stamp. Another unique group of articles will consist of stories about remarkable financial operations, under the general title of Business Romances. Still another series will be called Great Achievements of the Century, and will include such articles as "How I Invented the Electric Light," by Thomas A. Edison; "The Story of the Telephone, by Alexander Graham Bell, and many others.

HARDY, PRATT & CO., Boston, announce The Versailles Historical Series, to consist of memoirs and correspondence of noted persons belonging to the different European courts, giving graphic descriptions of court life. Arrangements have been made for issuing eight volumes, translated by Miss Katharine Prescott Wormeley, who has rendered into English the writings of Molière and Balzac. These eight volumes will consist of Chéruel's "Memoirs of the Duc de Saint-Simon," on the times of Louis XIV. and the Regency, in four volumes; the "Memoirs, Letters, and Miscellaneous Papers of the Prince de Ligne," in two volumes; "The Correspondence of Madame, Princess Palatine," in one volume, to include also the correspondence of Marie-Adelaide de Savoie, Duchesse de Bourgogne, and of Mme. de Maintenon; and "The Book of the Ladies," by Pierre de Bourdeilles, Abbé de Brantôme, in one volume. The books are to be illustrated with photogravures of portraits and paintings.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation a comprehensive study of Dante by Prof. E. Wilson, entitled "Dante Interpreted." It is particularly designed for youthful students. Besides many episodes in the life of the great Florentine and a description of the times in which he lived—political, literary, and architectural—translations of the text of "La Divina Commedia" will be freely cited, drawn from the renderings of Longfellow and of Prof. Charles Eliot Norton. They will add to their Heroes of the Reformation series a volume on "Thomas Cranmer (1489–1556,") the author of which and that on "John Knox (1505–1572,") has not yet been made known. The volume entitled "Huldreich Zwingli (1484–1531,") the reformer of German Switzerland, is to be by Dr. Samuel Macaulay Jackson, the editor of the series. Other volumes announced are: "John Calvin (1509–1564,") the founder of Reformed Protestantism, by Williston Walker; also, "Theodore Beza (1519–1605,") the counsellor of the French Reformation, by Henry Martyn Baird, Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in New York University and author of "The Huguenots."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in preparation an International Edition of the complete works of Count Tolstoy, translated direct from the Russian, and issued under the supervision of Nathan Haskell Dole, who has himself made most of the translations. The twenty large volumes will be illustrated with photogravures after drawings by artists specially selected for their knowledge of Russian life. They announce in the same series an edition of the complete works of Charles Dickens. One feature of the new edition of Dickens is worth noting. At the time the drawings were made by Cruikshank, Phiz, and the other illustrators of the first editions of those stories, the etched plates were made in duplicate, and one set was stored away. The illustrations for the present edition are made from that duplicate set of plates; consequently the prints have the full delicacy and strength of the originals. In a few instances single pictures have been re-engraved, but the great majority of the plates thus have a distinction almost entirely lacking in the countless prints which have been made after the original cuts, in all the years since the "Pickwick Papers" established the reputation of Charles Dickens.

ON the occasion of their jubilee last month, the firm of Lemcke & Buechner presented to each of their employees a substantial token of their appreciation of his services. An exception was made in the case of their manager, Franz V. Koehler, for whom a surprise was reserved. On New Year's Eve Mr. Lemcke, in behalf of the firm, informed Mr. Koehler that, in recognition of his services and devotion to the interests of the firm, he would be admitted to partnership with the beginning of the New Year, with authority to sign. The junior partner and Mr. Koehler's colleagues gathered about him and offered congratulations, to which we add ours on behalf of the trade. Franz Victor Koehler was born in Breslau, Silesia, in 1858. He entered the Baedeker'sche Buchhandlung in Barmen in 1877, and served his apprenticeship there and later with Gosohorsky in Breslau. He came to this country in December, 1880, and on January 16, 1881, entered the employ of B. Westermann & Co. Mr. Koehler has for years enjoyed the confidence of his employers, and has been entrusted with most important work. His specialties are the departments of medicine and classical literature. It may interest some of the younger men in the trade to learn that Mr. Koehler, though he was well posted on medical literature, so far as mere titles were concerned, considered it necessary, in order to serve the patrons of his firm more intelligently, to acquaint himself also with the subject-matter of the books. In order to acquire this knowledge he read medical literature with a practising physician several nights each week for years. He is also well acquainted with modern French and German literature, and for a number of years has prepared the select French and German list for THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. His promotion has been well earned, and reflects as creditably upon the sense of justice and appreciation of Messrs. Lemcke & Buechner as it does upon the excellent conscientious and unremitting services of Mr. Koehler.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

IN PREPARATION.

The Annual American Catalogue, 1898

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE for 1898 will contain:

(1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1898.
(2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author alphabet, of all books recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 1898.
(3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet.
(4) Publishers' annual lists for 1898.

This volume forms the FOURTH ANNUAL SUPPLEMENT to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1890–95.

One volume, if ordered before date of publication, half leather, $3.00; in sheets, $2.50.

After publication the price will be raised to half leather, $3.50; in sheets, $3.00.

The edition, as usual, is a limited one. The volumes for 1890 to 1893 are all out of print, and orders for those of 1894, 1895, 1896, and 1897, to ensure supply, should be promptly filed. THE ANNUAL ENGLISH CATALOGUE, for which we have the American market, now includes full title entries, after the manner of the American volume, instead of the previous abbreviated entries. It will be furnished at $1.50 paper, or bound with the American in one volume, half leather, at $5.00, net.

The Annual Literary Index, 1898

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc.; with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology, and Index to Dates of principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books, published each year, by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published during the year of its issue; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies; (5) authors deceased; (6) dates of principal events during the year. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

"Of great value to all who would keep advised of the topics and writers in the periodical literature of the day."—Universalist Quarterly.

"Good indexing could no further go."—The Nation.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & CO. announce a new edition of Tolstoi's "What is Art?" which has been out of print for a few weeks.

R. F. FENNO & CO. will publish on the 16th inst. a new story by John Strange Winter, entitled "Wedlock"; "Golden Age in Transylvania," by Maurus Jokai, a new volume in their Select Series; and "Vicomte de Puyjoll," by Jules Claretie. On February 1 they will publish "Brown, V. C.," by Mrs. Alexander.

BANGS & CO. announce that their "Remainder Sale" of books and stereotype plates for the trade, which they have held annually for the last five years, will be held on February 14, and continue until the consignments are disposed of. Invoices, with full descriptions for the printer, must reach the auctioneer by the 20th inst.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have arranged for the early publication of an important text-book by Charles G. Wheeler, entitled "Woodworking for Beginners." It is both for the industrial school and for home use, and tells how to construct tables, boxes, shelves, cases, sleds, and simple gymnastic apparatus. They have in preparation for their Heroes of the Nation series a volume on Bismarck, by James W. Headlam.

DODD, MEAD & CO. have in preparation "Ruskin's Letters to Rossetti and Others"; a new volume of poems by Paul Lawrence Dunbar; "Thou and the Other One," by Amelia E. Barr; "The Enchanted Stone," by Lewis Hind; "The Silver Cross," by S. R. Keightley; "The Song of the Rappahannock," by Ira S. Dodd; "Mari Sienka," by K. Waliszewski; and "Joubert's Thoughts," by Katherine Lyttelton. They will publish late in the year the sixth and final volume of Prof. James Schouler's "History of the United States."

D. APPLETON & CO. will publish shortly a striking romance by Albert Lee, of Holland's struggle for liberty against the Spaniards in the latter part of the sixteenth century, entitled "The Key of the Holy House," with scene laid in old Antwerp; "General Sherman," by General M. F. Force, a new volume in the Great Commanders series; a revised edition of "The Scapegoat," by Hall Caine, which has been altered to correspond with the author's change of thought; and a Spanish version of A. R. Conkling's "City Government in the United States."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish shortly Carl Schnabel's well-known "Text-Book of Metallurgy," translated by Prof. Henry Louis, of the Durham (England) College of Science; "The Principles of Agriculture," a text-book for schools and rural societies, by Prof. L. H. Bailey, of Cornell University; "The Foundations of Zoölogy," by Prof. W. Keith Brooks, of Johns Hopkins, a new volume in the Columbia University Biological Series; "Three Studies in Literature," by Prof. Lewis Edwards Gates, of Harvard University; "The Story of Old Fort Loudon," a narrative of the life of the pioneers of Tennessee and of their fortunes at the hands of the Cherokees in the uprising of 1760, by Charles Egbert Craddock, which forms a new volume in the series of Stories from American History; "My Lady and Allan Darke," a romance of Virginia, by Charles Donnel Gibson, a comparatively new name to readers of fiction; and "Ben Comee, a tale of Rogers' Rangers," a stirring tale for boys, of the wars waged against the French in Kentucky in 1758–1770, by M. J. Canavan.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE will give its monthly dinner at the French Restaurant, J. B. G., 111 W. 25th Street, New York, on the evening of the 18th inst., at 6.30 sharp. The entertainment for the evening will be a "Story-teller's night," and prizes will be awarded to the three who, by a majority vote, may be said to have told the best story, serious or humorous—but not too archaic. The story-telling contest will be open to all, and members are requested to come prepared to take part. It is not necessary that the story be original. Those who wish to attend must notify J. N. Wing, of Charles Scribner's Sons, not later than the 16th inst. Extra tickets may be had for sixty cents. The annual meeting of the League will take place on March 3, and the annual banquet has been set down for March 15.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted: if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

The beginning of modern music is found in the efforts made by the mediæval priests of the Roman Catholic Church to arrange a liturgy for their service. The descent of the Roman chant is traced from the Kithara songs of the Romans and thence from those of the Greeks. The subject is continued in chapters entitled: Harmony, notation, and measure; The birth of counterpoint; The evolution of the piano and of piano playing; The sonata; Evolution of the orchestra; Classic and romantic orchestral composers; The development of chamber music; The birth of oratorio; Work of Handel and Bach; Haydn and Mendelssohn; The birth of opera; Wagner and the music drama, etc.

Micheli, Horace. State purchase of railways in Switzerland; tr. by J: Cummings. N. Y., published for the American Economic Association, by The Macmillan Co., [1899.] c. '98. 6+354-420 p. D. (Economic studies, v. 3, no. 6.) pap., 50 c. [68

The account here given of the recent purchase of the railways of Switzerland by ten states was prepared for The Musée Social of Paris, by Horace Micheli, its Swiss correspondent, and was published as circular no. 18, Series B, of the Musée. The interest and significance of the movement, and the difficulty of securing well-arranged information regarding it, seemed to the Publication Committee to justify the presentation to the members of the American Economic Association a translation of this excellent study.

Modern English interiors; illustrating the acknowledged style in furniture and decoration in the English home of the present time; 50 gelatine prints. N. Y., Bruno Hessling, 1899. f°, cl., $20. [69

Ober, F: Albion. Puerto Rico and its resources. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. '98. 8+282 p. il. map, D. cl., $1.50. [72

Mr. Ober's acquaintance with the West Indies dates from 1876, his first book on those islands appearing in 1879. He visited Puerto Rico so long ago as 1880; in 1892 was there as Exposition Commissioner, and has kept in touch with the island through all its vicissitudes. His aim has been to produce a work that will answer all questions likely to arise in connection with the acquisition and occupation of this new tropical possession of ours, and to this end he has availed himself of every opportunity for adding to his stock of information acquired during the past eighteen years.

Dr. Stimson believes that the faith of the first century is to be the faith of the twentieth century, and that one evidence of this is that the Apostles' creed, the oldest extant Christian confession, is rapidly and widely finding a new acceptance. It is the writer's purpose to show in what measure modern religious thought agrees with the declarations of the creed. He accordingly defines after his individual interpretation the seventeen affirmations contained in the articles of the Apostolic version.

A drama of the Symbolist's school. "The dawn" is the better day for "the brotherhood of man" when the bolts of sin and misery that held it in prison-walls are burst, and a new order of things has taken their place. Man's deliverance through ideas is worked out through the form of a play in which beggars, workmen, farmers, soldiers, women, old men, boys, the seer, and others take part.

The private library from the late residence of C. Bentley Matthews, Edgecliffe, East Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio, and the law library from his office are to be sold at auction at an early date by The Ezekiel & Bernheim Co., 334 Main Street, Cincinnati. The general library embraces a large number of works in the various branches of literature, especially History, Travels, Political Economy, Art, Belles-Lettres, Science, Philosophy, etc. The law library is complete in all departments. Descriptive catalogues are now being prepared of both libraries and will soon be ready for the press, after which copies may be had free upon application to the auctioneers.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 14, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

OBJECTIONS TO HIGHLY CALENDERED PAPER.

THE baneful effect of highly calendered or glazed paper on the eyesight is again occupying the attention of oculists. Fifteen or twenty years ago, when this class of printing paper came into general use, the voice of the medical faculty was raised in warning against its evil effects—with what result we need hardly point out. Recently a German authority examined the causes of the changes in the general reading and writing habits of his countrymen. He explains that in the earlier part of the century the old rag papers then in use, both for writing and printing purposes, were mostly of a dull gray or blue color, and were coarse grained, so that thick letters had to be used by writers with quill pens or by printers on their old slow presses; with the introduction of more modern fibres, however, paper received a smoother surface, steel pens could be employed, and the paper could travel over quicker printing presses. The fashion for brilliant colors and elaborate type-setting has been carried to such a state of perfection that a reflection is often created on the printed surface that could never arise from the former rougher surface. The effect upon the reader's eye may be imagined.

In the old books, or letters, with a mild and soothing light, the surface contrasted easily from the thicker and darker type or writing characters; now the highly calendered surface offers reflections of the light, which, with the more elaborate and thinner type, produce a variety of shades and lights most trying to the eye. The book or magazine often has to be turned in various directions to be seen more clearly in order to distinguish the gray or other shades of the type from the shining white of the paper. The effect is similar to that of trying to decipher writing in the dark. This can easily be proven by taking an edition of some old book and a new magazine printed on highly coated paper, and comparing the sensation in the eye after half an hour's reading. A visit to any public school will give the observer object-lessons enough of the evil effects of glazed paper on the eyesight. This, much more than bad light, is held responsible for increasing myopia among children under ten years of age.

It is recommended that for school use all papers with glazed or highly polished surface should be avoided, and the colors chosen should rather be grayish or light blue, but not white, nor of any other brilliant color. The type should be clear and simple, and not condensed. Children whose eyes require protection, and through them their parents, should be taught to avoid all books and magazines printed on excessively glazed papers. It is claimed by oculists and other medical authorities that a few years of such policy would much improve and correct the average eyesight.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

TWENTY-FIRST ANNUAL MEETING.

THE annual meeting of the Stationers' Board of Trade was held at the board-room in the Bennett building on the 3d inst. The meeting was a disappointingly small one, but thirty members being present in person or by proxy. The election of trustees for 1899 resulted in the choice of the following: Henry C. Bainbridge, (Charles T. Bainbridge's Sons;) Geo. C. Boorum, (the Boorum & Pease Company;) James C. Aikin, (Aikin, Lambert & Co.;) Chas. Watson Allen, (Little, Brown & Co.;) C. A. Appleton, (D. Appleton & Co.;) F. E. Hafely. (E & J. B. Young & Co.;) William C. Horn, (Koch, Sons & Co.;) C. S. Kiggins, (the Kiggins & Tooker Company;) Eberhard Faber, Patrick Farrelly, (American News Company;) Samuel A. Maxwell, (National Wall Paper Company;) Chas. McLoughlin, (McLoughlin Brothers;) Theodore B. De Vinne, (Theodore L. De Vinne & Co.;) Franklin Weston, (the Byron Weston Company;) Frank W. Wood, (the J. B. Lippincott Company;) J. Walker Spalding, (A. G. Spalding & Brother;) Frank Squier, (Perkins, Goodwin & Co.;) and Robert Gair.

After the election of the Board of Trustees President Henry C. Bainbridge delivered the following address:

"Gentlemen and Members of the Stationers' Board of Trade—We are to-day assembled at the twenty-first annual meeting of the Stationers' Board of Trade. The year 1898, which has just closed, will be long remembered as an eventful one in the history of our country. The importance and vastness of our resources have surprised the world. The products of our mills are forcing their way into all markets, and prosperity is with us. Future prospects are bright, and we have much cause to be thankful.

"This past year, however, has not been all sunshine to this board and its officers. Our secretary, Mr. Wm. W. Davis, a man whom we respected and in whom we placed every confidence, proved false to his trust and misused the funds. Your officers acted promptly to protect your interests, and were successful in effecting a settlement with Mr. Davis, such as, we believe, will in time reimburse the board. The cashier and bookkeeper, Mr. Dunham, was also involved, but for a smaller amount. No way was found to recover the amount stolen by him, and your officers did not deem it advisable to take any action against him.

"In the information given out on the subject we do not seem to have made it plain that by the peculations of these clerks members of the board have sustained no loss. All claims collected have been paid over to them promptly. While at times some of our attorneys have been derelict—and this, it seems, cannot be avoided, notwithstanding the great care used in selecting correspondents—it has never occurred in the history of the board that money coming into the office has not been paid over promptly to members for whom it was received.

"All bills against the board have been regularly audited and passed by the Finance Committee, but have not as regularly been paid. However, all bills are paid to date, so that we start the next year without any indebtedness. To do this we have had to use a portion of our reserve fund, but it is my belief that the amount so used will be replaced at an early date.

"From the treasurer's report you will see that the disbursements for the year are in excess of receipts. This is due to the fact, as stated, that while the bills were regularly audited and passed by the Finance Committee, it has been the secretary's custom to carry them over from month to month, and at the end of the year 1897 bills so audited and passed to the amount of about $1000 went over and were paid out of the receipts of 1898.

"It will be the duty of the Executive Committee of the new board of trustees to see that the system of bookkeeping in use at present shall be materially changed—in fact, abolished—and a more comprehensive system adopted.

"At the present time our membership numbers less than it has for years, but this is due to several causes, and not to any dissatisfaction on the part of those who have withdrawn during the past two years. Some have gone out of business, others have been consolidated, and some, it is true, have failed in business. A few years ago we lost at one time, because of consolidation, some twenty members, and it was not, as you will understand, an easy matter to add new members to that number. Therefore the present membership is due solely to the fact that we have not taken in new members as often as one has withdrawn.

"Since the organization of the board it has been of great benefit to its members, and its good work is readily admitted by many; but it is not appreciated by others, who do not use the board as they might to their own benefit.

"The information department is fully appreciated by those who make use of it. Prompt and reliable information, based upon actual experience of members dealing with parties in the trade, upon their own statements, and upon information obtained from reliable correspondents, is furnished them. The expense of conducting this department is the only increased expense to the office in some years. As has been stated before, we have now to pay for mercantile information, whereas, in former years, it was furnished gratis by correspondents. To this increased expense and the falling off in membership is due the advance in quarterly dues. Still, I believe the board gives its members very satisfactory returns.

"Another important department is the collection department. If our members would send to this office for collection all their past-due accounts, it would be to their interest, and the office would be benefited by the increased amount received from collection fees. Our rates of fees are as low as any, and the schedule of office fees on collections made through the office without the assistance of an attorney is the minimum. I cannot too strongly urge upon the members that the office is conducted for their interest alone, and not for profit to be distributed among those conducting its affairs; consequently, they receive as good service, and at a lower price, than can be had elsewhere. But it should not be expected of this board to give them for $60 per annum more than they receive from other sources for $150, or even more.

"The passage of the bankruptcy law, which the interests of the country for a number of years have generally demanded, is a step in the right direction. It removes temptation from the dishonest debtor to fail at the expense of others. A consolidation of claims such as the board can usually obtain—and now more effectually since the law has been enacted—carries weight, and will facilitate the prompt and economical adjustment of such matters.

"During the past year we have lost by death two of our old members, Mr. John George Bainbridge and Mr. Byron Weston.

"On November 18 Mr. Edwin H. Loveless, who has been in charge of the collection department for over seventeen years, was appointed by me temporary secretary, and he has rendered most efficient service at a very trying period.

"The duty of electing a permanent secretary will devolve upon the new board of trustees. Its importance will, I have no doubt, be fully appreciated.

"I feel deeply grateful to the officers and employees for their valued assistance to me during the year, and particularly during the past two months."

The treasurer's report was then ordered read. In the absence of A. J. C. Foye, the treasurer, his report was read by acting secretary Loveless:

Respectfully submitted,

ANDREW J. C. FOYE,
Treasurer.

Following the report of the treasurer, chairman James C. Aikin read the report of the Executive Committee. It was as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Stationers' Board of Trade—Your Executive Committee takes pleasure in submitting the following report for the year ending December 31, 1898:

INFORMATION BUREAU.

In this department we have on our records to December 31, 1898, the names of 63,176 firms and individuals doing business with members. We have reports of the standing and credit of 46,018 dealers. Of these, 2082 were new names, added during the year 1898, and the balance revised reports of those already on our books. There has been furnished to members during the year 17,179 reports.

INFORMATION (REPORTS) APPLIED FOR.

Inquiries of members and agencies	8,818	5,897
Inquiries of dealers for statements	3,184	5,411

INFORMATION (REPORTS) RECEIVED.

Reports from correspondents and agencies	8,670	5,456
Statements received	2,320	1,585

There has been sent to members during the year 5445 inquiries for information as against 7697 in 1897.

During the year 590 letters were written in this department, and 8640 weekly circulars have been furnished to members.

The department has been used by 142 members during the year, as against 157 in 1897. A number of members have obtained reports in excess of the number limited to the amount of 926.

COLLECTION DEPARTMENT.

In the collection department there have been received for collection during the year 3072 claims, amounting in the aggregate to $141,656.57. Of this amount $49,745.30 was collected through the office.

1607 claims have been closed by collection, either in full or by compromise.

Of the claims received during the year 1950 were sent to attorney.

716 settled direct with members, aggregating $45,776.17.

158 transferred to bankruptcy department.

11 claims have been put in judgment, making a total of 2034 claims disposed of.

There are at present open in this department 3889 claims, including those holding over from previous years, and of which 1061 are in judgment.

There have been written 28,152 letters and 17,634 received.

FAILURE AND ASSIGNMENT DEPARTMENT.

In this department 320 cases were received for adjustment in 1898. The claims included in these cases number 1392, aggregating $205,490.04.

On January 1, 1898, there were 877 cases (2375 claims) unsettled, which, with 330 received during the year, makes a total of 1207 cases.

Of these 28 cases (106 claims) have been closed by payment in full, amounting to $6793.00.

70 cases (355 claims) have been closed by assignee.

1 case (23 claims) has been closed by extension.

9 cases (54 claims) have been settled direct with creditors, aggregating $6278.25.

45 cases (348 claims) have been settled by compromise.

70 cases (335 claims) have been closed as worthless.

31 claims have been put in judgment, making a total of 156 cases (1224 claims) disposed of, leaving in process of settlement 1207 cases, or 3117 claims; of these 168 cases (307 claims) are in judgment.

There has been paid to creditors through this department $45,632.78, not including the amount paid direct to members.

There have been written during the year 10,207 letters, and 9066 were received, and 8178 circulars sent to creditors.

In addition to the work of the several departments, there have been 637 general letters received and 662 written.

We close the year with a balance of $418.29 in the treasurer's hands, and with all bills paid and interest for the year on redemption fund due us from savings banks.

The committee, through its chairman, earnestly requests all members to co-operate with it in its effort to make the coming year more satisfactory in every respect, which will be a benefit to all. Respectfully submitted,

J. C. AIKIN,
Chairman of Executive Committee.

Before the close of the meeting President Bainbridge justly censured the action of a number of the members of the board, who, after putting the board to considerable expense of money and time evade paying for such service. It appears that many of the claims that are put in the hands of the board for collection and that through its efforts are brought to the point of collection, are then settled direct with the creditors By this action the board gets nothing after having spent time, money, and energy in bringing the delinquents to time. Last year $45,776.17 was so settled. The President thinks that in the future the board should be credited with its commission on such claims.

At the meeting of the trustees on the 10th inst., the following officers were re-elected: President, Henry C. Bainbridge; First Vice-President, James C. Aikin; and Second Vice-President, Charles McLoughlin. G. C. Boorum was elected Treasurer. Owing to press of routine matters that could not be laid over, the election of Secretary was postponed, and will be taken up at a later meeting. In the meantime Mr. Loveless will continue to act as secretary.

AUGUST BRENTANO INSANE.

A COMMISSION to inquire into the mental condition of August Brentano, of the firm of Brentano's of Union Square, New York, was issued by Justice Truax of the Supreme Court on the 9th inst. to J. D. R. Baldwin, Dr. Charles Phelps, and David Gilbert. The application was made by Mr. Brentano's sister, Laura Brentano. It was stated that Mr. Brentano has been for some time in the Stanford Hall Sanitarium at Flushing, L. I. Dr. Edwin A. Goodridge, of this institution, made affidavit that Mr. Brentano is hardly able to articulate, and is so deranged that he is unable to care for himself or his affairs.

The petitioner says that she cannot tell the amount of the estate of her brother, which consists of an interest in the firm of Brentano's, in which proceedings are pending for a voluntary dissolution. The assets of the firm are in charge of William R. Rose as receiver, and an accounting has not been had as yet. The other members of the firm are Simon Brentano and Arthur Brentano, brothers of the alleged incompetent, who is the senior partner. Besides his wife, Jennie H. Brentano, the alleged incompetent's nearest relatives are his mother, the two brothers, and two sisters.

Mr. Brentano was married several years ago to Miss Jennie H. Kaufmann, a daughter of Alphonse G. Kaufmann, of 49 East Sixty-sixth Street, New York. Soon after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Brentano went to Europe. Returning last spring, they took a house in Yonkers, N. Y. Mr. Brentano had been in ill health for some years, but no marked aberrations were noticed until about two months ago. It was then that he was sent to the sanitarium, and Mrs. Brentano returned to her father's house.

THE LOUD BILL REPORTED AGAIN.

CHAIRMAN LOUD, of the House Post-Office Committee, on the 4th inst. submitted, as directed by the committee, a favorable report on his bill to amend the postal laws relating to second-class mail matter. A similar bill passed the House in 1897, but failed in the Senate. It provides that books or reprints of books in serial form shall pay one cent for two ounces instead of one cent per pound; publications of institutions of learning are placed on the same footing as other periodicals, instead of being privileged. The report submitted with the former bills is made to apply to this one.

THE SONG BUSINESS IN THE UNITED STATES.

ACCORDING to the New York Sun, at least five big houses in this country are interested heavily in the popular song business, with offices in New York and several other cities, and they give employment to hundreds of persons. There are several printers who print songs almost exclusively; more paper is consumed in a year in the business than is used by many newspapers, and many thousands of dollars are spent yearly for advertising. Few good songs come to-day from England, which once practically supplied the market, but American songs are sold there in large numbers and thousands of copies go every year to Germany. All this is a comparatively recent development. Fifteen years ago there was little money in the popular song business, but to-day there is a fortune in it for a man with two or three catchy songs, a little money, and brains.

"The man who wrote the words and music of 'Break the News to Mother' is credited with having made $20,000 out of it. He is his own publisher, and has his headquarters in a Western city and offices in New York and two other cities. He writes three or four songs a year, publishes half a dozen or so of the songs of other writers, and is in receipt of an income that is very close to $35,000. Yet hardly six years ago, when he wrote 'After the Ball,' he was unknown and poor. He is said to have offered that song for almost nothing to several firms, and at last could only get it published by borrowing money and printing it himself. It became very popular and its success made its author.

"The oldest firm in the business started a dozen years ago in a little store in which there was scarcely standing room for a desk and a piano. The father and sons who composed the firm worked hard for success and got it, and to-day occupy a three-story building and do yearly a business of $100,000. A few years ago two young men wrote a tearful song entitled 'My Mother Was a Lady,' and published it with success. They have written four songs since then, but the publishing of other people's songs keeps them so busy now that they have little time to write themselves. Lately they have removed into new and larger quarters and apparently are making a good deal of money. Yet only a few years ago they were unknown men with a few hundred dollars of capital.

"About eighteen years ago the man who is now perhaps the most popular song writer in the country had his first song sung by a minstrel company. Its success encouraged him to stick to the business, and he has written since that time nearly a hundred songs. After having made the fortunes of two publishing houses, he became associated about four years ago with two young men with enterprise and some capital and the success of the three partners is amazing. One of its rivals is a man who writes as well as publishes. He started out for himself about the time his "Rastus on Parade' was written, and has followed up that great hit with 'A Georgia Camp Meeting,' which, arranged as an instrumental piece, is a success, and will probably be played for years. The man whose name has been mentioned in connection with the management of one of the newer boxers is in the popular song business, and has managed to score a hit with each of the six songs he has written. He was not so well known three years ago, and he also had very little money then to back fighters with. To-day it is different, and his income from songs is a handsome one. The newest firm of publishers has been in business hardly a year, but it has issued several hits and will end the year with a big profit.

"The position to-day of the song writer is far better than it used to be. There was a time when he sold his songs outright for ten or fifteen dollars, and was glad to get so much, for if they were published on royalty he seldom saw a cent of what was due to him. Now there are few irresponsible publishers, and a writer receives so many cents a copy on all copies sold of his songs. There are, perhaps, twenty men who make every year at the present time more than $2000 by writing songs, and a few of them average $7500."

IS ROSTAND A PLAGIARIST?

S. E. GROSS, a real-estate dealer of Chicago, filed a bill in the United States Circuit Court at Chicago, on the 5th inst., asking for an injunction against A. M. Palmer and Richard Mansfield, restraining them from producing the play "Cyrano de Bergerac." Gross claims that the play is stolen from a play written by him twenty years ago under the title "Merchant Prince of Cornville." He declares that some years ago he sent a copy of his play to Messrs. Mansfield and Palmer, but never heard anything from them. Now Gross asserts they are producing a play founded upon his work. Mansfield denied all knowledge of Mr. Gross and his play.

In the last act of the play written by Mr. Gross there are said to be certain similarities to the same act in the play written by Rostand, both in language and situations. Mr. Gross's play was filed for copyright in London in 1896. M. Rostand has declared that he does not intend to take notice of the libel.

A NEW CANADIAN CUSTOMS REGULATION.

THE following copy of Certificate of Value Form went into effect on the 1st inst.:

"J."

Form of certificate prescribed for invoices of merchandise SOLD to importers in Canada and exported thereto—to be signed by a partner, official or employee of the exporter having a knowledge of the facts certified to and to be written, printed, or stamped on the face or back of the invoice, viz.:

This invoice is true and correct; and where there is a difference between any of the prices shown therein and the ordinary credit prices at which the same articles are now sold bona fide by the exporter in like quantity and condition at this place for consumption in this country the latter prices are shown on the margin or elsewhere on such invoice.

Exporter.

The certificate applies to goods sold for entry under the General Tariff of Canada, and not to goods for Entry under the Preferential tariff until otherwise ordered. On its uselessness it is not necessary to dilate, but its publication may save some trouble to both exporter and importer.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM ALLEN MAYHEW, member of the firm of William Ware & Co., of Boston, died suddenly on the 1st inst., at Dorchester, while visiting friends. Mr. Mayhew was sixty-five years old, and from his youth was connected with the book trade.

EZRA OTIS KENDALL, LL.D., former professor of mathematics and astronomy at the University of Pennsylvania, died at Philadelphia on the 5th inst. He was born at Wilmington, Mass., May 17, 1818. He published a work on "Uranography," with an atlas of the constellation, and from 1855 to 1882 contributed the results of his computations of the Ephemerides of Jupiter and his satellites and Neptune to "The Nautical Almanac."

MRS. WILLIAM FEARING GILL, an elder sister of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, died in Paris on the 9th inst. Mrs. Gill had lived in the French capital for several years. Her death was not wholly unexpected, as she had been ailing for some time. She was the author of several novels. Her best known book is "Sweet Scented Grass." Mr. Gill was formerly connected with the book business, and is also known as the author of a "Life of Edgar Allan Poe," and as compiler of a number of collections. Mrs. Gill's maiden name was Edith Gwynne.

HOWARD E. PLIMPTON, of the bookbinding firm of H. M. Plimpton & Co., and of the Holliston Mills Co., and superintendent of the bindery of the Athenæum Press in Cambridge, Mass., died at Norwood, Mass., on the 3d inst. He was born in 1863. After working in a knitting mill for several years, he became a bookbinder in his brother's shop. He mastered every detail of the business and made many valuable inventions. The fact that the books of to-day can be opened without cracking is due to his invention of glutino, a flexible glue. Most of the holiday books and other attractive publications are bound in the Holliston cloths, which were his invention, and which he manufactured. Had he lived, he would have perfected a gathering machine, and various other labor-saving devices. He was identified almost from the very start with the manufacture of the books of Ginn & Co.

MRS. CLARA JESSUP MOORE, most of whose literary work was published under the pseudonym of Mrs. Clara Moreton, died in London on the 5th inst. She was born in Philadelphia, February 16, 1824. Her father, Augustus E. Jessup, was the scientist of Major Stephen H. Long's expedition of 1816. In 1842 she married Bloomfield H. Moore, who, shortly after his marriage, associated himself with his father-in-law, an extensive manufacturer of paper, under the firm name of Jessup & Moore, still in existence as The Jessup & Moore Paper Company, of which Mrs. Moore's son, Clarence B. Moore, is the President. During the early part of her married life Mrs. Moore occupied herself industriously with literary labors. Her first published book was "Frank and Fanny, a rural story." This was followed by "The Diamond Cross; or, Tight Times," "Miscellaneous Poems," "On Dangerous Ground," "Sensible Etiquette of the Best Society," "Gondaline's Lesson," "Slander and Gossip," "The Warden's Tale," and other poems, etc. In later years her whole life was devoted to endeavoring to interest influential people, especially scientists, in the late Mr. Keely and his motor. While she made few converts, her faith and enthusiasm won many friends. She was considered to have a remarkable amount of scientific information, for a woman, as evidenced by her book on Mr. Keely's projects, written five years ago. For the past ten years, Mrs. Moore had been a resident of London, England.

ALFRED W. SMITH, the popular superintendent of the New England News Company, died on the 3d inst., at Brookline, Mass. The cause of his death was syncope, from which he had been a sufferer for the last three years. Mr. Smith was born in Roxbury, February 21, 1852. In 1860 his father, John Smith, removed to Plymouth, where he established himself as a newsdealer. There young Smith also learned the trade of a cabinetmaker, which he followed for three or four years. Determining to strike out for himself, he went to Boston. In 1870 he obtained a position as a clerk in the New England News Co. By painstaking attention to detail, and perseverance, he rose steadily in the estimation of his employers until he reached the post of superintendent. Though a terrible sufferer from physical pain, Mr. Smith bore up with great fortitude, and though he knew that death was only a question of a short time, he was cheerful up to the day when his sufferings came to an end. Mr. Smith's position in the company was a peculiar one in relation to the hundreds of small dealers, all of whom are supplied with periodicals, magazines, and daily and Sunday papers by the company. It would have been the easiest thing in the world for the superintendent to incur the displeasure of the small dealer. Yet it is freely admitted by all of them that Mr. Smith was the highest type of a business man, steadfast, loyal, and one with whom it was a pleasure to deal. So high was he held in their regard that in September of 1897, while he was already wasting away from disease, fifty-two representative men of Boston and other cities, many of whom were newsdealers, presented him with a gold watch and chain, sending along with the gift a memorial bearing the names of all of the contributors and the following letter:

"Dear Mr. Smith: Your many friends, whose names are here affixed, desiring to give expression in some manner to the high esteem in which you are held by them, and their true sympathy for you during the many weeks you have been unable to be with them, have selected as a testimonial to give expression in part to their feelings, a watch and chain, which they trust may always remind you that although the ills of this life may separate for a time, the strong band of friendship but draws you and them closer each hour. We trust you will accept the gift as an added tie of friendship."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

M. P. SHIEL, the author of "The Yellow Danger," has written another sensational romance dealing with the men and times of Henry VIII.

J. E. C. BODLEY is at work upon the continuation of his "France." He is now on the Basque coast, and is said to be investigating the religious creeds of Frenchmen.

WE regret to hear that it has been found necessary to inaugurate a fund to provide for the widow and children of the late Harold Frederic. There are two boys, aged ten and twelve, and two daughters, both some years older, and the need of the family is urgent. According to a circular issued by several of Frederic's friends, it appears that "by the terms of Mr. Frederic's will the English royalties and copyrights of his works are left to his widow, but this possible source of revenue is so heavily mortgaged that it must be some considerable time before any income, however small, can be looked for from this source." A committee has been formed, including a number of men well known in literature and public life, and W. J. Fisher, 88 St. George's Square, London, S. W., Eng., is honorary secretary. All donations should be sent to Mr. Fisher at the address given.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

CHARLES DEXTER ALLEN has resigned his position as literary editor of The Hartford Post to devote his entire time to In Lantern Land, the literary journal recently referred to in these columns.

A "new series" of Book Reviews is announced by The Macmillan Company. A large number of special articles will form a feature of the monthly for the coming year. There will also be a number of papers from the greater colleges of the country, which will show what the seats of learning are doing in the literary or the artistic line.

PAUL LEICESTER FORD'S new novel will first be published in Collier's Weekly, beginning January 28. The tale is called "Janice Meredith, a story of the Revolution." It deals with the life and times of Washington, a subject with which Mr. Ford is specially familiar. The illustrations will be by Howard Pyle. The tale deals with the perplexities of a maiden's heart between two lovers, one being an aide-de-camp of General Washington and the other a Tory in the service of the King.

BEGINNING with the first January issue, Literature will appear as an American periodical. Hitherto it has been published in this country, so far as the reading matter was concerned, exactly as it appeared in England—in fact, the English sheets were bound up here with American advertising matter and in special cover. According to the new plan the American edition will be printed in this country by Harper & Brothers. Some of the matter in the English edition will be used, but reviews of American books by American writers, and contributions from American writers on subjects of particular interest to readers in this country, will form the main feature. A number of prominent American writers have already been secured as contributors.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—John F. Murphy, for many years the proprietor of the news and periodical stands on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., has secured control of the news-stand in the new southern station.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Chicago School Publishing Company has been incorporated by Charles A. Denison, H. A. Riley, and H. S. Derby. Capital stock, $10,000.

FLORENCE, COL.—The Florence Book and Stationery Company has been succeeded by Frueauff Brothers.

LIMA, O.—T. A. Robinson, bookseller, has sold out.

OTTUMWA, IA.—Miss Bowker has retired from the Mowatt & Bowker bookstore, and Miss Mowatt will run the business alone hereafter.

ST. JOHNSBURY, VT.—Don C. Stiles has opened his new bookstore in the Avenue House Block.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA.—Wilhelm & Sheffer, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTES.

SOME interesting examples of artistic and original binding are shown in the "Catalogue of an Exhibition of Bookbindings by the Guild of Women Binders and the Hampstead Bindery," issued by Karslake & Co., 61 Charing Cross Road, London. The guild, which was only organized in the summer of 1898, has already won a place for itself among the fine binderies of the day, and examples of its work have been shown in various American exhibitions, notably by Messrs. Putnam, in New York. The exhibition described in the catalogue was opened Dec. 1, 1898, to extend to Jan. 30, 1899. All the examples shown are fully described; there are several facsimiles of special designs, and an interesting sketch of the guild and its aims is also given. The inclusion of portraits of various members of the guild is perhaps what might have been expected of a Guild of Women Binders. The items described in the catalogue would indicate that the work of the guild possessed considerable originality, conception, and delicacy of sentiment, but also, perhaps, that it lacked simplicity and dignity. Many of the books listed contain illuminations and illustrations colored by hand by Miss Gloria Cardew.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Francis Edwards, 83 High St., Marylebone, London, Eng., Historical, first editions, fine arts. LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly an elaborately illustrated work on Rome by Reinhold Schoener.

CASSELL & CO. will publish shortly Augustine Birrell's lectures on the law and history of copyright in books.

GEORGE SULLY, formerly representative of DeWolfe, Fiske & Co., has joined the travellers' staff of Little, Brown & Co.

HENRY ALTEMUS will publish shortly "The Cross Triumphant," by Florence M. Kingsley, of whose first work, "Titus," nearly two million copies have been sold.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish next month "The Open Question," by C. E. Raimond (Elizabeth Robins). The novel is having a great run in England and is spoken of by the reviewers in the highest terms. It is an American story, and the open question is whether the hero and heroine, who are consumptives, shall have children.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY, Cleveland, gave a Christmas Dinner to its employees on December 28 last, at the Hollenden Inn. The attractive menu prepared specially for this occasion was in imitation of an old-style document. A town crier with bell holds up a poster on which the announcement of the dinner is made in archaic form. A seal is duly affixed according to ancient usage.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK CO., New York, will publish shortly Frederic G. Kitton's work on "Dickens and His Illustrators." The special features of this work will be the illustrations, none of which has been previously submitted to the public. A number of unpublished letters relating to the illustrations, by Dickens and the various artists engaged upon the novels, will be included. Chapters will also be devoted to the illustrators of the cheap editions and to the "extra illustrations" produced from time to time since the publication of "Pickwick."

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will shortly publish a work entitled "Great Books as Life Teachers," by Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, whose name is now mentioned in connection with the pastorate of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. The books on which the studies are based are Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," Ruskin's "Seven Lamps of Architecture," George Eliot's "Romola," Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," Browning's "Saul," Emerson's "Conduct of Life," Thoreau's "Walden," Channing's "Symphony of Life," and the personality of James Russell Lowell as the Prophet of the New Era of Social Sympathy and Service.

R. H. RUSSELL has just ready a book of verse by Ingram Crockett, entitled "Beneath Blue Skies and Gray," which shows excellent imaginative work and a strong, true voice. Mr. Russell has had encouraging success with his Color Prints, prepared by Pamela Colman Smith, notwithstanding the fact that this charming art novelty was placed upon the market rather late in the season. Five subjects have been chosen thus far: "Recess," a charming scene of children at play out-of-doors; "Macbeth," "Twelfth Night," "Christmas Carol," and "The Land of Heart's Desire." Each is distinct in composition and scheme of color treatment and rich in tone, recalling the subdued colors of the old masters of painting and enamelling, and all happily suggesting life and movement. The designs are printed on Japan paper, colored by hand in water-color and retouched by the artist. The prints are admirably adapted as gifts for the Valentine, Easter, and Christmas seasons.

HENRY HOLT & CO. will publish this month Prof. Henry A. Beers' most important work, "A History of English Romanticism in the Eighteenth Century." While of value to scholars, it is said to have the same engaging style, with its quiet undercurrent of humor, that made the author's "Ways of Yale" and other works in higher vein so popular. Its main theme is the reaction against eighteenth century classicism, and the author is said to show much skill in conveying the spirit of various books under discussion into a few pages in a way that reminds one of Taine. The principal writers treated are Thomson, Collins, Shenstone, Akenside, Dyer, Gray, Mason, Thomas and Joseph Wharton, Hurd, Beattie, Percy, Walpole, Clara Reeve, Anna Radcliffe, "Monk" Lewis, MacPherson, Chatterton, and Scott. They expect to issue at once the American edition of Eighteenth Century Letters, under the general editorship of R. Brimley Johnson. Each volume will contain Lemercier gravures of the various letter-writers, and will be bound in half vellum with gilt top. The letters of Swift, Addison, and Steele are selected and edited with an introduction by Stanley Lane Poole, in one volume, and George Birbeck Hill has performed the same offices for those of Johnson and Lord Chesterfield, in another volume. "God's Prisoner," a story by John Oxenham, is announced for immediate publication. It is said to be full of exciting episodes. The title-page bears the following lines:

> "The Lord despiseth not his prisoners;
> He brought them out of darkness
> And the shadow of death
> And brake their bands in sunder."

THE Merchants' Association of New York has secured reduced passenger rates covering the entire spring buying season. These reduced rates are not only from all the territory hitherto covered by previous excursions, but they also extend into the Southwest on more favorable conditions than have yet been allowed from the last-named section. This Southwestern territory for which reduced rates have already been granted comprises the whole of the State of Texas. The dates on which reduced rates will be effective therein, and on which tickets will be sold at the rate of one fare and one-third for the round trip, are January 27 to 30, inclusive, and February 13 to 17, inclusive. Each ticket will have a return limit of thirty days from date of sale. This concession is a most valuable one, as it affects favorably a territory at great distance from New York. Other concessions granted to New York and return are as follows: Central Passenger Association, which takes in all the territory west from Buffalo, Pittsburg, and Wheeling, W. Va., running as far south as the Ohio River and west to Chicago and St. Louis, February 13 to 17, inclusive, and March 1 to 4, inclusive, the rate of fare being one fare and one-third for the round trip, the time limit to return on each ticket being thirty days from date of sale. Trunk Line Association, which takes in all the territory east of the cities above named as far south as Baltimore and Washington and east to the New England States, exclusive of places within one hundred miles of New York, March 16 to 21, inclusive, and April 3 to 6, inclusive, the rate of fare being one fare and one-third for the round trip, the time limit to return on each ticket being fifteen days from date of sale. The Merchants' Association will at once issue official circulars with full details, which will be mailed to all merchants in the territory concerned, and copies of which will be furnished to members for mailing to their customers in each of their respective territories.

FOREIGN NOTES.

C. ARTHUR PEARSON, London, will publish a volume of impressions of America, written by T. C. Porter, the Science Master of Eton College.

ARCHIBALD CONSTABLE & CO., London, have just ready a work entitled "French Literature of To-day," by Mlle. Blaze de Bury, who treats the subject in a partly personal, partly critical manner.

LAURENCE GREENING & CO. have just published a realistic novel entitled "The Green Passion," by Anthony P. Vert. And yet it is by no means a green book by a green author, published by a green firm, though it looks that way.

HUTCHINSON & CO., London, have just ready a novel by Florence Bright and Robert Machray entitled "The Vision Splendid," which is said to give a faithful picture of the inner life of the English stage. Miss Bright was for a number of years an actress.

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON & CO. will publish at once a "Treatise on Photographic Optics," by R. S. Cole. The object of this treatise is to provide an account of the principles of optics as far as they apply to photography, in a form which is of scientific value, while not of too abstruse a nature to place it beyond the reach of all but the professional mathematician or physicist.

THE recent meeting of the Harmsworth shareholders, according to the London Academy, "was a full-blown rose in the way of company meetings. The young lion of Tudor Street was in the chair, and he said: 'Ladies and Gentlemen: The net results of our year's trading are that we have sold no fewer than two hundred and twelve millions of copies of our periodicals, and that our net profits were £177,643 9s. 11d.' The thrill must have extended even to the eleven pence. Mr. Harmsworth then begged the consent of the shareholders to declare a dividend of 25 per cent. for the last half-year, making 22½ per cent. for the year. Public curiosity in the meeting naturally centred in any statement which Mr. Harmsworth might make respecting the foundation of the Harmsworth Magazine. The cost of establishing the magazine has been—on the first four numbers—£20,000."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

PUBLISH TO-DAY:

GENERAL INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF HOLY SCRIPTURE.

The Principles, Methods, History, and Results of its Several Departments and of the Whole. By CHARLES A. BRIGGS, D.D. 8vo, $3.00, net.

Dr. Briggs' new book covers the whole ground of Biblical study; gives a history of every department, with ample illustrations from the New Testament as well as from the Old; states the results thus far attained, the present problems, and the aims for the future. The work takes the place of the author's "Biblical Study," which has been extraordinarily successful and which has been here revised, enlarged to double its former size, and entirely reset, so that it is essentially a new book.

DEMOCRACY.

A Study of Government. By JAMES H. HYSLOP, Ph.D., Professor of Logic and Ethics in Columbia University. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

The present work is an attack upon Democracy by a native American who does not accept Monarchy as a necessary alternative. It is not merely a destructive piece of writing, but is an attempt at a thorough reconstruction of our political institutions. The work is destined to arouse wide discussion, especially in view of the bearing of its arguments upon the new policy of territorial expansion.

THE KINGDOM.

An Exegetical Study. By GEORGE DANA BOARDMAN, D.D. 8vo, $2.00.

The purpose of this book is to explain the frequent and profound New Testament formula, "The Kingdom of God": to rescue this formula from radical misconceptions; to define its nature; to state its laws; to describe its method; to unfold its symbols; to set forth its issue. Its purpose is irenic. Its method is exegetical, the study including substantially every important Scripture which contains the phrase, "Kingdom of God." The author deals with principles, and applies his principles to living issues, the treatment being marked by thoroughness, knowledge, enthusiasm, and sterling common sense. His style is individual and vigorous.

A SHORT HISTORY OF FRANCE.
A SHORT HISTORY OF GERMANY.

By MARY PLATT PARMELE. Each, 16mo, 60 cents, net.

The Review of Reviews, speaking of Mrs. Parmele's "Short History of the United States," says: "Its value does not lie in the multitude of facts which it contains, but rather in the lucid, natural way in which a few really important facts are presented and grouped, and in the stimulus which it imparts to a rational study of our country's history."

TO BE PUBLISHED SHORTLY:

THE PORTO RICO OF TO-DAY.

Pages from a Correspondent's Note-Book.

BY ALBERT GARDNER ROBINSON.

With Maps and 24 Illustrations. 12mo, $1.50.

In his capacity as a newspaper correspondent Mr. Robinson travelled over the length and breadth of Porto Rico, studying the people and their manners and customs, the trade conditions, the agricultural and commercial situation, the means of transportation and communication, and other serious problems that await solution. The distinguishing note of his book is the clearness and sanity with which this detailed picture of the Porto Rico of to-day is presented. From it one can get an admirable idea of this new possession of the United States, and of the business prospects which it holds out.

"This is a witty book. All George Paston's work has been clever, but 'A Writer of Books' is a distinct advance upon her previous books."—London Academy.

"A thoughtful and interesting book. . . . Brightly written and cleverly constructed. It will more than pay perusal."—London Literary World.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY, 72 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Two Valuable Booksellers' Aids.

The Annual American Catalogue, 1898

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE for 1898 will contain:

(1) Directory of American Publishers issuing books in 1898.

(2) Full-title Record, with descriptive notes, in author alphabet, of all books recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 1898.

(3) Author-, title-, and subject-index to same, in one alphabet.

(4) Publishers' annual lists for 1898.

This volume forms the FOURTH ANNUAL SUPPLEMENT to the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1890–95.

One volume, if ordered before date of publication, half leather, $3.00; in sheets, $2 50.

After publication the price will be raised to half leather, $3.50; in sheets, $3.00.

The edition, as usual, is a limited one. The volumes for 1890 to 1893 are all out of print, and orders for those of 1894, 1895, 1896, and 1897, to ensure supply should be promptly filled. THE ANNUAL ENGLISH CATALOGUE, for which we have the American market, now includes full title entries, after the manner of the American volume, instead of the previous abbreviated entries. It will be furnished at $1.50 paper, or bound with the American in one volume, half leather, at $5 00, net.

The Annual Literary Index, 1898

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc.; with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology, and Index to Dates of principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books, published each year, by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published during the year of its issue; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies; (5) authors deceased; (6) dates of principal events during the year. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

"Of great value to all who would keep advised of the topics and writers in the periodical literature of the day."—Universalist Quarterly.

"Good indexing could no further go."—The Nation.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. will publish, February 10, the long-expected novel by S. Levett Yeats, entitled "The Heart of Denise." They have in press a new story by Mrs. L. B. Walford, the author of "Baby's Grandmother," to be entitled "The Archdeacon."

THE CENTURY CO. will issue shortly "The Maine," a personal narrative of the destruction of the battleship, written by her commander, Capt. Charles D. Sigsbee; "Campaigning in Cuba," the story of the capture of Santiago, by George Kennan; "The Two Standards," by the Rev. Dr. William Barry; and "Prince Little Boy and Other Tales from Fairy Land," a new edition of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell's popular juvenile.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "Wessex Poems and Other Verses," written and illustrated by Thomas Hardy, a miscellaneous collection of verse, of which only four pieces have before been published though many were written long ago. The poems are in a large degree dramatic and personative. The sketches have, most of them, been recently made. Frederic Remington has written and illustrated a volume of short stories which is just issued under the title of "Sundown Leflare." This is the name of the Indian hero who is the central character of the tales. The January volume in the Biographical "Thackeray" is "The Virginians." They expect to publish in April Justin McCarthy's "Reminiscences." His recollections of London go back to 1852. Among his notabilities are Brougham, Bismarck, Garibaldi, Louis Blance, and Brigham Young.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN & CO. will issue in March for The Timrod Memorial Association, of South Carolina, a Memorial edition of "The Poems of Henry Timrod," the entire net profit of which will go to the erection of a worthy public memorial to Henry Timrod, one of the sweetest singers of the South. He was born in Charleston in 1829 and died in October, 1867, and during the thirty-eight years of his life went through most every trouble that can fall to man. In 1873 a volume of his poems was edited by his friend, Paul H. Hayne, and published by E. J. Hale & Son, of New York City. Several of the poems written during the war appealed at once even to those whose sympathies were with the other side, and the book very soon went out of print. Later a new edition was issued, but for twenty years past the volume has been out of print. The new edition will contain a number of poems not included in the former volume, will have an exhaustive memoir of the author and a fine portrait never before published. The Century for April, 1898, gave an article on Timrod by L. Frank Tooker, with a portrait drawn from a painting by P. P. Carter, owned by William A. Courtenay, a member of the Timrod Association. THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of February 13, 1873 (vol. 3, no. 57,) contained a long review of the first issue of "Timrod's Poems."

THE MACMILLAN CO. have just ready the third and concluding volume of Dr. Ratzel's "The History of Mankind," translated by A. J. Butler, which has been highly praised by such men as Professor Virchow, of Germany, and Dr. D. G. Brinton, of the University of Pennsylvania; also, "The Dawn of Reason," by Dr. James Weir, Jr., and a supplement to the abridged edition of Bryce's "American Commonwealth," under the title "Outlines of Civil Government," which is the work of F. H. Clark, of San Francisco. Among their earliest spring publications will be: "Jesus Delaney," a novel by Joseph Gordon Donnelly, dealing with Catholic and Methodist missionaries in certain parts of Mexico; the second edition of Seligman's "The Shifting Incidents of Taxation"; "An Introduction to the Works of Milton," by Professor Corson, of Cornell University; "The Development of English Thought," by Simon W. Patten, of the University of Pennsylvania; "The Lesson of Popular Government," by Gamaliel Bradford; "Life and Philosophy of Spinoza," by Sir Frederick Pollock, of Oxford; and "Friendly Visiting Among the Poor," a handbook for charity workers, by Mary E. Richmond. The announcements for young readers include "Bible Stories," in two volumes, edited by Richard G. Moulton, a children's version of The Modern Readers' Bible; and "The Evolution of Plants," by Douglas Houghton Campbell, a work intended specially for students of botany.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted: if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.: translations, c. tr.: n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

In preparing this version of the Gospels it has been the translator's aim throughout to make use of idiomatic English as far as the character of the New Testament and the style of the original text permit. He has endeavored to represent our Lord and the Apostles, as speaking not in an antique style, but in the language they would speak if they lived among us now. Contains a harmony of the three synoptic Gospels, with marginal notes and references.

Defines extemporaneous speaking from a personal standpoint, and suggests and compares methods of oratory. The pervading idea, according to the author's exordium, is that every man must be his own final authority. The suggestions contained therefore may be modified to meet the requirements of the individual. Some of the subjects dealt with are words and their proper use, thought preparation, ideas, anecdote, similes, and illustrations, reminiscences, the voice, pronunciation, gesture, debate, etc. Index.

with chronological index and appendices. Bost., Lamson, Wolffe & Co., 1898. c. 20+431 p. por. il. maps, O. cl., $2.50. [109

A detailed account of Washington's campaigns and an estimate of his qualities as a soldier and commander. Together with the account of Washington's military career is included a brief synopsis of the careers of his generals. Many valuable maps, a glossary of military terms, a chronological and biographical index and appendixes containing special statistics and facts complete the work.

Egerton, G:, [pseud. for Mrs. Clairmonte.] The wheel of God. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1898. 4+364 p. D. (Hudson lib., no. 34) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [115

A study of a woman's life, divided into three parts: a precocious, poetic child in sordid surroundings; an energetic, hopeful, aspiring girl whose ideals are shattered one by one; a disillusioned woman who has become philosophical, who is sure she is but the smallest atom in the scheme of the world. The author reasons that all woman's efforts for equality with man are useless, that only "unadulterated femininity is a deadly weapon if wisely directed against the male."

Hyslop, Ja. Hervey. Democracy: a study of government. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 10+300 p. O. cl., $1.50. [131

The author is Professor of Logic and Ethics in Columbia University. The theories of Lecky's "Liberty and democracy," and of Godkin's "Unforeseen tendencies of democracy," are reviewed and approved or refuted. The solution of the problems of democratic government, the author reasons, must rest in the character and responsibility of office-holders. To insure unselfish public spirit he proposes the following measures: 1, The universal adoption of civil-service reform; 2, The appointment of legislative commissions with powers of investigation and report; 3, The establishment of a court of impeachment and removal in municipalities, with an increase in the mayor's powers of appointment; 4, The limitation of the franchise for the election of municipal officers.

Lee, Sidney. Dictionary of national biography. V. 57, Tom–Tytler. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 6+461 p. 8°, cl., net, $3.75. [134

Library Journal. General index to the Library Journal: official organ of the American Library Association, chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. V. 1–22 (September, 1876–December, 1897). N.Y., Office of The Publishers' Weekly, 1898. c. 4+130 p. O. pap., $2.50; hf. leath, $3. [135

This index is chiefly the work of Mr. F. J. Teggart, who has kept for years, for his private use, a general index to the Journal. It has been carried through the latest volume by Miss H. E. Haines. It is primarily a topical index, with author references to the papers, descriptive articles, communications, reviews, and editorial comments during the first twenty-two volumes of the Library Journal. In printing, the method adopted for the "A. L. A. list of subject-headings" has been followed, giving on the right-hand side of the page opportunity for indexing on the same scale the later volumes of the Journal, and for making references to other sources of library information, or for inserting corrections and omissions.

McManus, S. B. Rural rhymes. Cin., O., Curts & Jennings, 1898. c. 157 p. il. S. cl., $1. [136

Poems of the country, childhood; dialect poems, and poems of sentiment, love, and devotion.

Martin, H: Newell. The human body: a textbook of anatomy, physiology, and hygiene; with practical exercises. 5th ed. rev., by G: Wells Fitz. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1898. c. '83, '98. 14+408 p. D. (American science ser., briefer course.) cl., $1.20. [137

"The revision of this book was undertaken with the idea of bringing it into accord with the later developments of physiology, of simplifying the treatment of some parts, of expanding that of others, and of enriching the text with additional illustrations. Every effort has been made to avoid injuring those features of Prof. Martin's work which have made the book so favorably known. The changes in the first nine chapters are largely verbal; in the tenth, and in some succeeding chapters, however, considerable alterations and additions have been made. Chapter XX. has been entirely rewritten, and chapters XXIII. and an appendix on emergencies have been added."—Preface. The chapter on narcotics, transferred to appendix, is as written in the original edition, excepting the omission of certain drugs.

Maver, W:, jr. American telegraphy: systems, apparatus, operation. 3d ed. N. Y., W: Maver & Co., 1898. c. '96. 600 p. il. 8°, cl., $3.50. [138

New York. Commissioners of Statutory Revision. Draft of the education law; prepared by the Commissioners of Statutory Revision (to be summitted to the legislature of 1899). N. Y. and Alb., Wynkoop, Hallenbeck, Crawford Co., 1898. 312 p. O. pap., n. p. [139

"The education law is intended to embrace all general provisions relating to the subject of education, including the two great departments, namely the university and the department of public instruction, and also miscellaneous provisions relating to educational institutions which are directly or indirectly under the supervision of either or both of these departments. The whole law on this subject has been substantially rewritten and rearranged, and an effort has been made to make a scientific classification of the subject. Many new provisions have been added, which seemed necessary to produce harmony in the scheme, and also to supply defects in former laws."—Preliminary note.

Newcomer, Alphonso G. Elements of rhetoric: a course in plain prose composition. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1898. c. 9+382 p. D. cl., $1. [140

This book differs from most treatises upon rhetoric in two particulars, arrangement and proportion. The common order is reversed, and the study of words instead of being put first is put last, while at the outset attention is centred upon methods of gathering and ordering material. The author says: "I have kept in view constructive or applied rhetoric rather than critical, the art rather than the science, enlarging upon whatever bears directly on practice, and reducing to a minimum all else."

Newton, Rev. Reginald Heber. Christian science: the truths of spiritual healing and their contribution to the growth of orthodoxy. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1898. c. 9+78 p. D. pap., 25 c. [141

A chapter of a book, now in preparation, upon "The contributions of modern heterodoxes to the growth of orthodoxy." It is issued in advance of the volume because "of the rapid spread of the new movement of which it treats." It deals especially with what Dr. Newton considers are the truths which are making Christian science a vital movement in our day.

Nicholson, Reynold A., ed. Selected poems from the Divani Shamsi Tabriz; ed. and tr., with an introd., notes, and appendices, by Reynold A. Nicholson. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1889. 4+307 p. 8°, net, price changed to $3.50. [142

Pryer, C: The "Neutral ground." N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, [1899.] c. '98. 1+409–443 p. D. (Half moon ser., 2d ser., v. 2, no. 12.) pap., 10 c. [146

The County of Westchester in New York, and particularly the lower towns (now forming the Borough of Bronx), was during the War of the Revolution the prey of the foraging parties of both armies, as it lay directly between them and was permanently occupied by neither. It was therefore called the "Neutral ground." This little pamphlet gives an account of the campaign of the "Neutral ground," preceding it with a sketch of the capture of New York and Brooklyn Heights.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

GENERAL SHAFTER'S own story of the Santiago campaign is to appear in the February Century.

THE PEARSON PUBLISHING CO., 114 Fourth Avenue, New York, will begin with the March issue to publish an American edition of Pearson's, to retail for eight cents a copy.

H. G. WELLS has completed another story of a fanciful nature, which, like "Looking Backward," will picture life as it may be, in this case, a couple of hundred years hence. It is being published serially in Harper's Weekly, under the title of "When the Sleeper Wakes."

IN the January issue of The Boston Book Company's Bulletin of Bibliography Frederick W. Faxon, under the title of Magazine Perplexities, gives an interesting account of the differences between the American and English editions of The Strand. The series is to be continued.

A NEW review, which is said to be intended particularly for persons suffering from the rheumatism, has just been started in Paris. It is entitled La Revue des Rhumatissants. It is a fact not generally known that Frenchmen of letters, to a remarkable degree, are sufferers from this malady. But it is not known, however, whether the following writers, who have contributed to the initial number, be in sympathy with their readers, through personal experience: François Coppée, Alexandre Hepp, Jules Clarétie, Marcel Prévost, Aurélian Scholl, Émile Bergerat, Léon Daudet, Ernest Reyer, Gen. du Barrail, and M. Poincaré.

THE bound volumes of The Century, May–October, 1898, and of St. Nicholas for 1897–98, are full of artistic treasures, many of which were overlooked as they appeared from month to month. The text of the volumes is also very valuable, but the resources of the Century Co.'s art department are always a new marvel as year by year the collected numbers appear in their handsome bindings. The Century volume contains six more of Cole's full-page wood engravings of "Old English Masters," and Wolf and Aitken have reproduced four of Gilbert Stuart's "Portraits of Women." The Spanish-American War led to descriptive papers on Porto Rico and the Philippines, all lavishly illustrated, and the political articles and new fiction were of unusual interest. St. Nicholas leaned towards instructive articles as well as amusing reading for young people. The problems occupying their elders were laid before them also, and the boys and girls who have the new volumes to pore over during the year will know many new things about far-off places, and also understand how much hardship the soldiers encountered in the short, sharp war with Spain. The comical pictures and pages upon pages of puzzles make the St. Nicholas always cheering and always full of happy home evenings.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 21, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SHIPPERS MUST PAY THE TAX.

THE book trade has its fair share of interest in the question whether a shipper of freight by an express company is to pay for the stamp on bills of lading demanded by the United States under the act of Congress for raising revenue, or whether it shall be paid by the express companies. The section of the act covering this tax reads:

"It shall be the duty of every railroad or steamboat company, carrier, express company, or corporation, or person whose occupation is to act as such, to issue to the shipper or consignor, or his agent, or person from whom any goods are accepted for transportation, a bill of lading, manifest or other evidence of receipt and forwarding for each shipment, and there shall be duly attached and cancelled to each bill of lading and duplicate thereof a stamp of the value of one cent. Any failure to issue a bill of lading or manifest as therein provided shall subject the carrier to a penalty of $50 for each offence; and no such bill of lading or manifest shall be used in evidence unless it is duly stamped."

The method of cancellation, according to section 9 of the act, is "by the person using or affixing the stamp writing or stamping thereon the initials of his name and the date when used." The act does not declare who shall pay for the stamp; all that the act requires is that "the carrier shall issue a bill of lading or receipt, with a stamp attached and cancelled."

This law admits of two constructions, and the question who ought to pay the tax has been agitated from Maine to California with excellent arguments for both sides, and varying results in different localities. The question is not a Federal question, as it does not involve the validity of any law of the United States. It is rather a question of construction of the power of the express companies to regulate their charges by imposing an additional charge for the stamp. The Superior Courts of Illinois and Michigan decided this question in favor of the shipper. On the other hand, the United States Circuit Court for the Southern district of New York, the United States District Court for the Western district of North Carolina, and the United States District Court for the Southern district of California have ruled adversely to the shipper.

The suit of Charles M. Biddle, of the Biddle Hardware Company, of Philadelphia, against the Adams Express Company, has been so decided by Judge Arnold. In making his decision, Judge Arnold claimed that for the purposes of uniformity he followed decisions of United States Courts rendered in other jurisdictions against the shipper, instead of following decisions of State Courts elsewhere against express companies. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Attorney-General of the United States have decided that the act of Congress does not furnish any solution of the question, and that it is a matter entirely between the shipper and the company. But the judges recognize the necessity for "consistency of decision," and to insure it Judge Arnold said he would adopt, without inquiry, the law of the Supreme Court of the United States as a common standard, not because he deemed the Court superior to the State Court in legal wisdom, but because its decision would be more readily followed by common consent than the decision of a Court of any particular State. His example will no doubt be followed, and in future the book trade will pay its quota of internal revenue and the express companies will save a tax they could well afford.

A MOST extrordinary attack on the integrity of trade journalism is made the subject of a "Trust Extra" of the India-Rubber World for this week. It is worth while for those interested in preserving the independence of journalism and the public honor to acquaint themselves with this issue. We mention it in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY because it concerns trade journalism, and because the threatened suit for libel years ago by Mr. H. K. Thurber and his associates, when THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY criticised the methods of the printing company with which they were identified, presents some analogies with the present case.

PRINTING BY X-RAYS.

GEORGE IZAMBARD, who has been experimenting in Paris with the Roentgen rays in the hope of adapting them to commercial use in the printing industry, according to the New York Sun, "announces that he has succeeded in producing a machine for the purpose. He reasoned that if the X-rays would penetrate oaken logs they ought to penetrate piles of paper, and that as photographs could be taken with X-rays it ought to be possible to reproduce a picture or printing through every sheet of a pile of paper. The invention is so far matured that M. Izambard is able to expose a pile of paper between two Crookes tubes and print both sides of all the sheets in the pile at the same time. He can also place a series of piles of paper around a Crookes tube, making use of the X-rays by radiating them from a centre.

"It was suggested many years ago that the printing of the future would be done by electricity, operating, not on single sheets, but on all the sheets of a pile at the same instant. Various inventions have made some approach to a solution of the problem, but none of them has been successful in producing satisfactory printing. M. Izambard's first success was obtained by sensitizing the paper on the side that was to be printed, with a gelatino-bromide emulsion, such as is commonly used in photography. A pile or block of paper thus prepared was placed in a position of exposure to the X-rays. On top of the paper was placed a copy of the thing to be printed. This copy being proof to the X-rays, in a trice the thing was done, and on developing the pile of paper the inventor found a copy clearly printed on each sheet.

"To print in this manner it is necessary that the copy or original shall be nearly impervious to the Roentgen rays and that it shall be placed between the Crookes tube and the pile, where the rays may be directed to it. The copy is preferably first printed or written in what is called radiographic or X-ray proof-ink, composed of a material calculated to intercept the rays. A few seconds' exposure is sufficient to effect the printing through the entire pile of paper, but it is at first invisible and requires to be developed or fixed after the method of a photographer. The piles of exposed sheets are trundled into a red-light room and suspended in vats, where the developing and fixing liquids are applied. Rinsing and drying follow, and the latter may be hurried by mechanical and chemical means. It is apparent that the process is really a sort of wholesale method of photography with the X-rays, and is printing only in the photographic sense of the term.

"The inventor admits that there is a difficulty in printing on one side only of the paper, owing to the tendency of the print to show through on the reverse side. He proposes to overcome this by sensitizing the paper in stripes, printing the lines on the stripes, and causing the lines on one side of the paper to fall opposite the spaces between the stripes on the other side. Until he can improve upon this method the process must be limited by these restrictions. To offset this drawback, there are peculiar advantages in the process. It is just as easy to print in white on a black ground as is black on a white surface. Typewritten matter can be reduced in size and reproduced, thus saving the expense of composition.

"For printing very large sheets such as newspapers, M. Izambard uses several Crookes tubes, which are shut off from one another by partitions of a metal not easily penetrated by the rays. Thus the tubes send their rays through the paper in nearly straight lines. The limit of thickness of the pile that can be printed at one exposure is reached when the rays are so distributed as to distort the image. Probably no pile of more than a couple of inches in thickness could be impressed at a single exposure with satisfactory results.

"The X-ray proof-ink used is made in part of finely divided metallic or calcareous powder. Bronze, copper, white lead or white zinc may be used. As a writing ink white lead in a solution of gum has been found most satisfactory. When the matter to be printed is first typewritten the metallic powder is mixed with boiled linseed oil.

"A peculiarity of this X-ray printing is that it affords opportunity for printing copies of private or secret matter, without the printer's being able to see or read what he is printing. A customer desiring copies of private matter may deliver his copy written in the X-ray proof-ink and securely sealed in an envelope. He may also see that the paper on which the copies are to be printed is securely sealed. Then the printing may be done by the X-rays and the developing executed without once breaking the seals, so that no one through whose hands it passes can know the contents. If desired, the envelopes may even be made of stout canvas or leather and securely locked."

A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF ILLUSTRATED BOOKS OF THE XVIIITH CENTURY.*

BIBLIOGRAPHY has become almost an exact science during the century, and almost every branch of knowledge has had its literature collected and annotated by competent hands. Of books with embellishments, now so much in vogue and so deservedly coveted by the intelligent amateur, the record as yet was almost barren. To supply this long outstanding want was the primary motive of J. Lewine in collecting the material which has now been offered in book form, and is itself a book with embellishments. This great work will furnish a key to the treasures so eagerly looked for by the connoisseur, who as yet lacked adequate guidance to supply him with prudence and knowledge. A secondary object of the compiler was to bring into harmony the productions of English and French literature of a parallel period, and to demonstrate that they are not only not imitative, but that each in his own sphere is creative. Mr. Lewine has had the advantage of attending sales all the year round in England and on the Continent for the last two decades, and is qualified to give with precision and authority the details which are essential to collectors. The marketable value of average copies is affixed, and the causes of extra prices often obtained at auction are carefully noted. The work is further enriched with thirty-five full-page plates from designs by distinguished artists; among these are reproductions of the eight rare engravings privately printed at the beginning of last century, purporting to depict the ceremonies observed among the Free Masons at the reception of masters and apprentices. In selecting the specimens of illustrations the compiler has been guided by the principle of reproducing either those endowed with the charm of beauty or possessing some intrinsic merit. This work is one that will be of absolute necessity to every collector of art books. He may trust to its information and be guided by it against acquiring spurious copies of valuable editions, and by it may also be informed of the exact marketable value of treasures already in his possession. The publishers have turned out Mr. Lewine's invaluable material in a book that is almost perfect typographically.

* LEWINE, J. Bibliography of eighteenth century art and illustrated books. Being a guide to collectors of illustrated works in English and French of the period. With thirty-five plates, giving specimens of the work of the artists of the time. London, Sampson Low, Marston & Company, Limited, 1898. xvi-615 p. il. 8°.

A NOTE ON LIFE.

Life, vol. 27, ended with no. 704, dated June 25, 1896. According to the Boston Book Company's Bulletin of Bibliography, no. 705 is however registered as part of vol. 27, and the paging of that volume is continued through the whole number. Not until vol. 28 was completed and its title and index issued was it made plain that no. 705 was to form the first number of vol. 28, and not the last of vol. 27. Therefore, unless a binder were unusually careful, and examined the index of vol. 27 very minutely, it is probable that many a library now has the two volumes bound wrong, or has had the trouble of rebinding on account of this careless slip by the publishers. This note may be of service to some persons who have not yet bound up the volumes in question.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG, Librarian of Congress, died at his home in Washington, D. C., on the 17th inst., after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Young was born in Downington, Chester Co., Pa., November 20, 1841, but during his boyhood lived with his parents in Philadelphia, where his education was begun. Later he was taken to New Orleans, La., where he attended the High School. In 1856 he returned to Philadelphia, and was apprenticed to the printing business. A year later when The Philadelphia Press was started he obtained a position as copy boy, and later became proofreader. He then became reporter, and was sent by Col. John W. Forney, in 1861, to Washington and Virginia as war correspondent. In Washington he did editorial work for The Chronicle of that city. In 1864 he returned to Philadelphia to assume the editorial charge of The Press. In 1865 he began the publication of The Morning Post, which failed. In 1866 he came to New York and started The Standard, which also met with failure. He then joined the staff of the New York Tribune, and was its managing editor until 1869. Having studied law for the prescribed term, he was admitted to the bar. In 1871 he went to Europe as correspondent for the New York Herald, writing letters about the Franco-Prussian War. In 1874 he returned to New York to do editorial work for The Herald. In 1877 Mr. Young was invited by General Grant to accompany him on his famous tour around the world. Mr. Young wrote many articles describing the scenes and incidents of the tour, and afterward recast and published them in two volumes, under the title of "Around the World with General Grant." Returning to New York in 1879, he resumed his position on the editorial staff of The Herald, which he retained until 1882, when, by the appointment of President Arthur, he became Minister to China. After his return from China Mr. Young was not attached to any journal except the Philadelphia Evening Star, in which he had a proprietary interest, but he was a frequent contributor to other publications. On June 30, 1897, Mr. Young was appointed Librarian of Congress. His appointment was made just before the Library of Congress was removed from its cramped quarters in the Capitol to its magnificent new building. This removal has been followed by the broadening of the scope of the library, so that it is now truly a national library. At the time of Mr. Young's appointment some fears were expressed that his journalistic success might not necessarily fit him to be a successful librarian. But Mr. Young was a man of fine executive ability and broad culture. For heads of departments he chose in in many cases the best men in the field. To reorganize a library of nearly a million volumes and pamphlets, to make it perfectly accessible to legislators and students at Washington, and still further to extend its usefulness to the whole country, was a great task. Judging from the results accomplished up to the time of his death, that was Mr. Young's purpose, and in his year and one-half of service he did excellent work toward that end.

REV. CHARLES PASCHAL TELESPHORE CHINIQUY, better known as "Father Chiniquy," died in Montreal, January 16. He was born at Kamouraska, in the province of Quebec, in 1809, was ordained a priest in 1833, and for a quarter of a century was a prominent figure in the Roman Catholic Church. In 1850 Father Chiniquy, with 5000 French-Canadians, founded a Catholic colony at St. Anne, Kankakee County, Ill. Success attended the colonizing scheme for a time, but Father Chiniquy's relations with the new Bishop of Illinois were not agreeable. In consequence Father Chiniquy left the Church of Rome with his entire congregation at St. Anne, Kankakee County, Ill., in 1858, and joined the Canadian Presbyterian Church. A few days ago Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, offered to visit Father Chiniquy if needed, but the offer was declined, Father Chiniquy saying he was perfectly satisfied with the Protestant faith. He died surrounded by the members of his family. He was the author of "The Priest, the Woman, and the Confessional," 1874; "Fifty Years in the Church of Rome," 1886; and "Papal Idolatry: exposure of the doctrine of transubstantiation," 1887.

BY the death of Henry Clarke Warren, which occurred in Cambridge, Mass., on the 4th inst., American scholarship loses one of its most distinguished ornaments. In his early childhood he sustained an injury by which he was physically disabled for life and forced to pass his days in seclusion. He became interested in the study of Sanskrit while an undergraduate at Harvard. Later he continued his studies at Johns Hopkins University, and then he took up Pali, and devoted himself to the study of the religion and literature of Buddhism. The fruits of these labors were embodied in a volume entitled "Buddhism in Translations." and published by Harvard University in 1896. At the time of his death he was at work in making an edition and translation of "The Path of Purity," or, "Visuddhi-magga." This is an extensive and systematic treatise or cyclopædia raisonnée of Buddhist doctrine composed by the famous Buddhaghosa, who flourished in the fourth century of our era. The text is not far from being in a state of readiness for the printer, but the English version is done only in part. It is expected that the volume can be completed and issued in due course.

HORACE B. FULLER, well known in the sixties as a member of the Boston publishing house of Walker, Fuller & Co., and later as the publisher of the magazine for young people, entitled Merry's Museum, and numerous excellent juvenile books, was found dead in his boarding-place, 29 Pinckney Street, Boston, January 12. A strong odor of gas in the room indicated suicide. For the last fifteen or twenty years he had had a precarious existence, earning a scant living by peddling books. He was 65 years old.

LEWIS E. BAILEY, for a long time partner in the firm of Cushing, Bailey & Co., died in Baltimore, Md., January 4. He was born in Boston, Mass., in 1824, but went to Baltimore when quite young. He engaged in the book business on his own account, and afterward became the junior member of the firm of Cushing & Bailey. He retired from the firm a number of years ago, and has not been in active business since. One of his sons is connected with Little, Brown & Co., of Boston.

DR. C. C. P. CLARK, author of "The Commonwealth Reconstructed," and other books, died at Oswego, N. Y., on the 12th inst. He was born at Middlebury, Vt., in 1822. He graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York in 1847. He was Collector of Customs at Oswego under President Grant.

EDWARD B. MAY died on the 7th inst., at Rochester, N. Y. He was born in Greenwich, England, in 1820, and came to this country in 1857. For over thirty years he has been connected with the book and real estate business in Rochester.

ALFRED RUPERT, for many years in the book business at West Chester, Pa., died in that town December 23, aged 62. He served in the Civil War and was brevetted captain. He was twice elected Justice of the Peace of West Chester.

GEORGE GEMÜNDER, the celebrated violin maker, and author of a book entitled "Progress in Violin Making," died at his home in Astoria, N. Y., on the 15th inst. He was born in Würtemberg, April 13, 1816.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

KATHARINE TYNAN is writing a new novel to be called "The Dear Irish Girl."

BENJAMIN SWIFT, the author of "The Tormentor," is writing a study of Naples, entitled "Siren City." The book resolves itself into a study of puritanism versus paganism.

MRS. ARCHIBALD LITTLE, who established the Anti-Footbinding Society in China three years ago, is writing a book dealing with the social and family life in the Chinese upper classes, and especially with Chinese women.

CONAN DOYLE has published a new novel dealing in an optimistic manner with married life, entitled "A Duet with an Occasional Chorus." He describes the humorous incidents of the domestic life of a young couple of the middle class.

MISS BETHAM EDWARDS is writing a volume of Anglo-French reminiscences, one part to be devoted to the particulars of the life of a celebrated Frenchman, who, before his death, confided the recollections of his romantic career to the author.

HENRY DEMAREST LLOYD, author of "Wealth Against Commonwealth," is going to Australasia to study the question of land, labor, and taxation, and the effect of the colonial policy on the distribution of wealth and the welfare of the people. Australasia is trying some experiments in advanced democracy which make it particularly interesting to the student of sociology.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AKRON, OHIO.—R. P. Marvin, receiver, on the 18th inst. sold the property of the Werner Publishing Company at public sale. It was bid in by a committee representing the creditors of the concern, a majority of whom had agreed to the sale and the plan of reorganization contemplated. The realty involved in the transaction was appraised at $550,000. The reorganization of the Werner Company under the same name will take place as soon as the sale is confirmed. The new company probably will be capitalized at $3,500,000. The Werner Company went into the hands of R. P. Marvin as receiver about fourteen months ago.

ALTOONA, PA.—Mr. Sheffer and G. M. Werner have bought the leading bookstore here.

CHESTER, PA.—Wm. J. Farley has opened a book and picture store in West Third Street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Calumet Book and Engraving Co. has certified to change of name to the Calumet Co.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The National Book and Picture Company has certified to a change of name to Book Buyers' Union.

CHICAGO, ILL.—G. N. Shafer & Co. have been incorporated to do a general book and newspaper business. Capital, $5000. G. N. Shafer, Edward O'Brien, and Allen R. Towle, incorporators.

CLEBURNE, TEX.—W. J. Prather has opened a bookstore and news-stand in Henderson Street, just east of the post-office, and would be glad to receive catalogues from publishers and stationers.

DALTON, GA.—Martin Jones succeeds Farnsworth Brothers, booksellers.

DETROIT, MICH.—Miss Jeane Wanless will conduct her late father's business until the stock can be sold in bulk and the estate settled up.

DOVER, N. H.—E. B. Lane, the veteran bookseller and stationer, is closing up his business.

GREENFIELD, MASS.—F. H. Brown & Co., booksellers, have been succeeded by F. H. Brown.

LA CROSSE, WIS.—Charles L. Weis, bookseller, has bought out his partner's interest in the firm of Bailey & Weis.

NEW LONDON, WIS.—G. A. Kinsman, has removed his stock of books, periodicals, etc., to his new brick building. He has greatly enlarged his stock.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Bancroft Publishing Company, now located in the Auditorium Building, Chicago, where it has been for the past six years, will move its office to this city. It has secured rooms at 136 Fifth Avenue. This company will be remembered as the publishers of "The Book of the Fair" and "The Book of Wealth." The New York office will be looked after by R. D. Bristol, vice-president, and D. P. Ahern, secretary.

NEW YORK CITY.—Miss J. A. Morehouse has just opened a periodical, stationery, and bookstore at 2136 Seventh Avenue, and would like to receive publishers' circulars, posters, etc.

NEW YORK CITY.—William J. Wiley, assignee of the Anson D. F. Randolph & Company, will sell at public auction, by Adrian H. Muller & Son, auctioneers, on January 30, 1899, at twelve o'clock noon, at the Real Estate Salesrooms, No. 111 Broadway, all the uncollected claims and accounts held by him as assignee of the firm of Anson D. F. Randolph & Company. There are about 351 of these accounts, aggregating about $9650.

ONAWAY, MICH.—The Onaway Mercantile Co. has added a book and periodical department to its business.

PHILLIPSBURG, PA.—Frank Peeks has bought Parker's bookstore from Mrs. M. Snyder.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, WINNEPEG.—T. W. Fisher has bought the book business of Prest & Co.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—George P. Humphrey, of 25 Exchange Street, has removed to 63 Spring Street and become manager of The Book Shop.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The Moser & Lyon property on South Clinton Street was sold by the sheriff, and was bid in for $22,000. It was formerly the property of the well-known book and stationery house.

UTICA, N. Y.—Dodge Brothers have opened a general store in the Dobson block and will carry a stock of stationery.

PERSONAL NOTES.

EDWARD HALL, recently with the Oxford University Press, has gone over to the Doubleday & McClure Co.

WILLIAM STITT has left Frederick A. Stokes Co. and gone over to the Werner Company, of Akron, O., and New York.

F. T. NUNAN, for some years with the Frederick Stokes Co., will hereafter represent L. C. Page & Co. on the road.

MR. DENT, formerly with the American Publishers Corporation, will hereafter represent Dodd, Mead & Co. on the road.

BENJAMIN DODGE, who for some time has represented Dodd, Mead & Co. on the road, has joined the staff of G. W. Dillingham & Co.

GEORGE T. DUNLAP, for a number of years with the American Publishers Corporation, will hereafter represent Rand, McNally & Co. on the road. He will make his headquarters at the New York office.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

BAILY, BANKS & BIDDLE CO., Philadelphia, have published a short poem by Eunice Parke Detweiler, entitled "Colonial Days."

A. MACKEL & Co., 318 E. 85th Street, New York, will, on the 23d inst., issue a novel by Henry Seton Merriman, entitled "Young Mistley."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will issue shortly "The Children of the Mist," a new novel by Eden Philpotts, of which the scene is laid in Devonshire, England.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. will issue next month Stephen Bonsal's "The Fight for Santiago: the story of the soldier in the Cuban campaign from Tampa to the surrender."

IT is reported that measures will be taken at the annual meeting of the Chautauqua Assembly, held this week at Cleveland, O., to remove the headquarters of the Assembly to Cleveland, and to issue all the publications, including the Chautauquan, from that city.

FLEMING H. REVELL CO. will have ready during the spring volume II. of "Christian Missions and Social Progress," a sociological study of foreign missions, by Dr. James S. Dennis, with full-page reproductions of original photographs. The book will be complete in three volumes.

MATTHEW BENDER, Albany, N. Y., has just issued an annotated edition of William Miller Collier's "Bankruptcy Rules and Forms," containing a list of the judges and clerks of the Courts of Bankruptcy. The writer is Referee in Bankruptcy and author of a work on "Bankruptcy," which gave him a national reputation.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, Limited, have just ready the fifteenth editions of "The Microscope," by Jabez Hogg, reconstructed, rewritten, revised, and enlarged throughout with upwards of 900 engraved and colored illustrations; and also new editions of "Angling," by Robert Blake, and "Picturesque India,' by W. S. Caine, with additional chapters on Burmah and illustrations by several artists.

THE New Haven Detective Bureau has just completed a catalogue of nearly 5000 volumes, which were stolen during the past few years by the Rev. James Brittain Miller, an alumnus of the Yale Divinity School and at present a graduate student at Yale, and an occasional preacher in the Congregationalist churches of Connecticut. All the bookstores of New Haven have been pilfered from, and about 148 citizens of New Haven and students at college have identified missing volumes. Miller is to be arraigned in the City Court of New Haven. Nearly all the books are valuable and readily salable.

D. C. HEATH & Co. announce "The Young Citizen's Reader," a new book by Charles F. Dole, author of "The American Citizen," which will teach the lesson of intelligent patriotism in a manner suited to the needs of boys and girls from nine to twelve years old. They have also recently purchased the complete series of Wells's Mathematics, and announce that Professor Wells's new "Essentials of Solid Geometry" will be ready in March. This book will possess the same clearness, conciseness, and the rigorous methods of demonstration that characterize Wells's "Essentials of Plane Geometry," which appeared last September.

THE railroads of the United States purpose preparing for the Paris exposition of 1900 a gigantic relief map, showing every line of railroad as well as telegraph, telephone, express lines, steamship lines on the great lakes, and ports of entry for the Atlantic steamship lines. As more than half the railroad mileage of the world is within the limits of the United States, the showing will be interesting to all visitors to the exposition. The map will be built on the scale of one inch to the mile, will be 230 feet long and 140 feet high, occupying 32,000 square feet. The estimated cost is about $100,000, in which about 100 lines of railway will share.

THE Post-Office department, according to the Washington Star, during 1898 issued 3,500,000,000 stamps of all denominations. It appears, from figures furnished by the Post-Office department, that the average person in Massachusetts, including men, women, and children, spends $2.30 on postage per annum. New York comes second, with an expenditure of $2.27. The District of Columbia third, with $2.16. Colorado is fourth, with $1.93, and Connecticut is fifth, with $1.80. The States ranking lowest in this regard are South Carolina, with 25 cents per capita; Mississippi, with 34 cents; Alabama, with 35 cents; Arkansas, with 37 cents; and North Carolina, with 41 cents.

THE January "Smoker" of the Booksellers' League, held on the evening of the 18th inst., at the French Restaurant, J. B. G., 111 W. 25th Street, New York, was well attended, upwards of fifty persons being present. After the dinner, Frank Appel, who acted as chairman, called the meeting to order, and in a few happy and well-chosen words explained the programme of the "Story-Teller's Night." Nearly every one present took part in the story-telling, and so the evening was pleasantly and quickly passed. When the vote was taken it was found that T. D. Stratton, E. F. Treat, and W. H. Parker told the most acceptable stories, and so these gentlemen were awarded a silk umbrella, a silver match-box, and a gold scarf-pin.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co., Boston, will publish at once the first four volumes of the Beacon Biographies, a new series that has been prepared with much care in selection of authors and subjects, and which will be edited by M. A. de Wolfe Howe. The volumes are: "Admiral Farragut," by James Barnes; "James Russell Lowell," by Edward Everett Hale, Jr.; "Robert E. Lee," by Professor Trent, of the University of West Virginia; and "Phillips Brooks," by the editor of the series. They are making arrangements with the author of "Mr. Dooley in Peace and War" to bring out a new series, entitled "Mr. Dooley in the Hearts of His Countrymen." The author's first volume in two months has reached the thirty-five thousand mark.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have now issued the second part of John Codman Ropes' "Story of the Civil War," covering the campaigns of 1862. Part I of this exhaustive account of the war of 1861–65 appeared in October, 1894, and readers have been anxiously looking for the next instalment. This volume requires very valuable maps and plans, which it has been thought advisable to issue in separate portfolio, to be slipped into the book at the end. Other publications just ready are: "The Wheel of God," by George Egerton; "Michael Angelo," the first contribution to the new volume of Little Journeys to the Homes of Eminent Painters; and "Christian Science," a sermon by R. Heber Newton, of All Souls Protestant Episcopal Church, New York City.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue at once Rosegger's novel of outdoor life, entitled "Die Schriften des Waldschulmeisters," of which an abridged edition has been prepared by Professor Fossler, who has ingeniously summarized the omitted portions. A portrait of the author and two portraits of Rudolph Baumbach will be included in the book. The publishers also announce an elaborate edition of Lessing's "Minna von Barnhelm," with twelve illustrations from rare prints and annotations by A. B. Nichols, of Harvard University, and Segur's picturesque account of "Napoleon's Retreat from Moscow," in the original French, edited by Prof. O. B. Super, of Dickenson College. For the general reader, as well as for students, will be "French Lyrics," edited by Prof. A. G. Canfield, of the University of Kansas, containing sketches of about fifty poets and their work, and an essay on French versification. Among the poets represented will be Coppée, Heredia, Verlaine, Maupassant, and Bourget.

HENRY T. COATES & Co. have in press "The History of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company," by William Bender Wilson, who has been connected for over forty years with the public improvements of Pennsylvania, and favorably situated for closely observing their advancement. The work, while narrative in form is really cyclopædic in character. It is rich in biography and portraiture of the living and dead, to whom the greater credit is due for the building up of the wonderful corporation. The relations of the corporate atoms east of Pittsburg and Erie which enter into the life and activities of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company are accurately presented. The story of the part Pennsylvania played in the great struggle by the various Atlantic seaboard interests for the trade of the Mississippi Valley over the Allegheny Mountains and beyond the forks of the Ohio, and the experiment of governmental control of railways made by the State, is well told in its pages. The work will be fully illustrated.

FOREIGN NOTES.

DOWNEY & Co., London, have in press a life of Queen Charlotte, wife of George III., by Percy Fitzgerald.

ELKIN MATHEWS, London, will publish at once a new volume of poems by W. B. Yeats, entitled "The Wind Among the Reeds."

CANON AINGER is editing a volume of Edward Fitzgerald's letters to his wife, the daughter of Bernard Barton, the Quaker poet. Mrs. Fitzgerald's death was noticed in the issue of December 17, 1898.

DR. GEORGE BRANDES's new volume, shortly to be published by Heinemann in London, will be entitled "Main Currents in Nineteenth Century Literature." It aims at setting forth, by the study of the principal groups and movements in European literature, the principles of a psychological study of the first half of the nineteenth century.

DR. E. A. WALLIS BRIDGE, of the British Museum, has just published "The Earliest Known Coptic Psalter," edited from the text of the unique papyrus codex in the British Museum. The Copts were descendants of the old Egyptians, retaining their language in a corrupt form and writing it in Greek characters. Dr. Bridge's discovery is a complete text of the Psalms, the earliest known, in one of the most ancient forms of the dialect of Upper Egypt. The condition of the manuscript bears witness to much handling in the choir, and the repairs indicate a respect for its great antiquity.

FREDERIK MÜLLER & Co., Amsterdam, have at length published the long but unavoidably deferred photolithographic reproduction of Abel Janszoon Tasman's Journal of his discovery of Van Diemen's Land and New Zealand in 1642, with documents relating to his exploration of Australia in 1644, containing the reproduction of the whole MS. Journal of the expedition of 1642–3, signed by Tasman himself, and comprising fifty-three drawings and charts colored like the original, an English translation of the same, Prof. J. E. Heeres's life and labors of Tasman, with the original documents in English and Dutch, and Dr. Bemmelin's Observations made with the Compass on Tasman's voyage, etc., with isogonic map of the Indian and Pacific Oceans, 1640. Years of labor have been devoted by Prof. Heeres, Dr. Van Bemmelin, and the publishers to the compilation, editing, and production of this work, which throws the clearest and in many respects new light on the dealings of the Dutch East India Company in the first half of the seventeenth century.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

In Preparation.

The stock of George H. Richmond & Co., formerly D. G. Francis, 12 East 15th Street, will shortly be sold by Bangs & Co. This collection consists of Americana, chosen by D. G. Francis, one of the oldest and best-known booksellers in the country. Collected sets, rare English first editions, poetry, historical works, works on art, etc., from the stock of S. B. Luyster, and subscription sets, publications, etc., chosen largely by Geo. H. Richmond.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 28, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKS OF 1898.

IN numbers the books of 1898 fell slightly behind those of 1897. In 1897 we put on record 4928 books. In 1898, 4886 titles appeared in our weekly lists of new publications, making a difference of 42. This difference makes the number of books published in 1898 lower than that of any year since 1894, when our record showed 4484 titles.

The leading books of the year in almost every department came from the other side. In fiction particularly were we debtors. The leading novels were from English authors. Few years in the experience of the book trade had opened more dismally than 1898. The immediate coming of prosperity, positively promised in 1897, not only did not materialize, but, largely owing to the Spanish-American war, the trade published carefully while the people were so largely concerned with the daily news. With the coming of spring, however, business became more hopeful, and the books announced as in course of publication were numerous and promising. Later, the books that were issued related largely to the war or to the newly conquered or annexed territory. They all sold readily, though mostly mere newspaper stuff, hurriedly prepared and illy digested. But in few cases can they be called literature, though they have served as grist to the publishers' mills and have in the end kept the number of books published almost equal with that of 1897. Things went back to a more normal condition after the summer had passed, but the losses of six months could not be made up in three. A perfect rush of books began in October and continued through December, those recorded by us in the last three months being 2058 against the 4886 of the whole year. In December alone we put on record the titles of 1026 books, of which 491 were books actually received at this office, and in the majority of cases entered with a brief description or annotation. The total of books received by us during the year amounted to 2698, making 88 more than in 1897, a fact to be credited first to the steadily improving bibliographical system of our office and then to the great number of new publishers that were a feature of the year—firms or private individuals that published one or two books. By actual count over 250 new names from all over the country were added to our Order List. It was these new names which swelled the totals. Our great publishing houses, by actual count, almost all published less than in 1897.

There were few special features connected with the literature of the year. Novels, as heretofore, took the lead. Historical romances were still in demand, many wooden, colorless volumes finding publishers. Juvenile literature almost in its entirety belongs to the domain of fiction. The books coming under this heading were, as a general thing, as much for grown people as for children's reading. Juvenile fiction seems an exhausted field. Scarcely a book in this department, issued in the past year, possesses a lasting quality. It will take another generation to produce genius of the immortal quality that belonged to "Lewis Carroll." Really notable books by American authors are rare in all the literary departments.

The death of Gladstone and Bismarck led to the publication of several volumes. The year included books not only related to them, but by them, the autobiography of the great German being the noted biography of the year. The losses in the ranks of literature were unusual both here and in Europe. Among the most famous names are William Black, C. L. Dodgson ("Lewis Carroll"), Mary Cowden Clarke, Harold Frederic, Mrs. Lynn Linton, G. M. Ebers, Blanche Willis Howard (Mrs. von Teuffel), Edward Bellamy, Richard Malcolm Johnston, and Maria Louise Pool.

The table which follows gives in classes the figures, approximately, of the book production in this country of 1898 with those of 1897 for comparison. The departments in 1898 run singularly close to those of the preceding year. The number of American novels published in each year was exactly alike, being 358.

The second table, which follows, attempts to show the number of books that were manufactured in the United States in 1898—first, those of American origin; second, those of English or Continental origin; and third, the English works that were imported, bound or in sheets; these three classes comprising the book production of the United States in 1898. This table, like the former one, scarcely claims to be exactly correct, as it is impossible always to trace the history of a work.

The table shows 2908 books by American authors, made, of course, in this country (against 3318 of 1897;) 834 books by English or other foreign authors made here (against 495 of 1897;) and 1144 books or sheets imported (the number in 1897 being 1115). The reprints were the greatest in fiction, amounting to 391 books.

FICTION.

Novels by American writers were plentiful. The majority found a flattering reception and a wide sale. "Gloria Mundi," owing to Harold Frederic's death simultaneously almost with its publication, attracted more attention, probably, than it would have under ordinary circumstances. It is a long step backward from "The Damnation of Theron Ware," and adds nothing to Mr. Frederic's literary reputation. The subject is the decadence, through its vices, of an English ducal family. The narrative has little force or point, and is almost painful reading to those who recall the fresh charm of "Seth's Brother's Wife." "The Adventures of François" shows both the vitality and versatility of its author, Dr. Weir Mitchell. Not so elaborate a work as "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker," nor one of so many and varied characters, it is nevertheless a novel of unusual cleverness, offering an original character-study from a scientist's standpoint. The hero, François, by turns thief, juggler, and fencing-master, passes his life in the streets of Paris during the days of the Terror. The rapid movement of the story, the picturesqueness and brightness of its scenes, are really marvellous. The author of "The Descendant," Miss Ellen Glasgow, produced a second novel, "Phases of an Inferior Planet," another story of New York City. Its pessimism is quite depressing, and its views of life rather remarkable for so young and inexperienced a writer. Its redeeming qualities are its witty dialogues and its clever characterizations. "Red Rock" is Thomas Nelson Page's first novel. Its scenes are drawn from life as it seemed in the South after the Civil War. Francis Hopkinson Smith's "Caleb West, Master Diver," draws largely upon his own experience as a lighthouse builder and civil engineer. In "David Harum" we had the only novel of Edward Noyes Westcott, a banker of Central New York, who died before his work was published. David Harum is an old country banker, quaint, dry, and somewhat illiterate, whose odd philosophy and queer stories have delighted many readers. He is a new figure in fiction. Gilbert Parker, who has grown to be looked upon as one of our own authors, though a Canadian by birth, produced in "The Battle of the Strong" one of the notable novels of the year. The scenes are laid in the Isle of Jersey and in France at the close of the eighteenth century, and have a strong historic interest. Frank Richard Stockton added two new works of fiction to the long list of imaginative literature bearing his name — "The Associate Hermits" and "The Girl at Cobhurst." The first book made a far stronger impression than the second, and is extremely funny in Mr. Stockton's very original and ingenious style. "The Celebrity," by Winston Churchill — a new name in literature — was very favorably received. It is merely an episode in which a famous author figures, but is clever and amusing. "The Californians" and "American Wives and English Husbands" are the latest novels of Mrs. Gertrude Atherton. California life and character of a decade or two ago are graphically depicted in the former, and the English husband contrasted with the American in the latter. Life among the "smart" set of New York City is pictured in Mrs. Burton Harrison's "Good Americans," and Richard Harding Davis tells a tale of Tangiers, and of an imaginary dethroned king having his court there, in "The King's Jackal." Romance and startling incidents characterize Molly Elliot Seawell's "The Loves of the Lady Arabella." Two novels by women writers heretofore unknown displayed unusual gifts and were eagerly read: "The Dull Miss Archinard," by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, alternates in its scene between Paris and an English country home, and has a typical art student as its leading character. The second book is "Via Lucis," by Kassandra Vivaria, a pen-name for a young Italian girl. The book, however, is not a translation, but was written in English and first published through an American publisher. Italian middle-class life finds an admirable delineator in the young author. The story is evidently largely autobiographic, and cruelly exposes the heart troubles of a passionate, undisciplined nature. With all the faults of a first novel from an inexperienced writer, it nevertheless shows the hall-marks of genius.

Our older novelists, as represented by William Dean Howells and Henry James, again delighted limited but appreciative audiences. Mr. Howells' "The Story of a Play" is one of the cleverest bits of work he has done. A young journalist is writing a play for a celebrated actor. It is read to him scene by scene, and also to the journalist's wife. The changes produced in the play by the criticisms, and the power of the criticisms upon the writer, who eventually evolves something entirely different from the play as first started, is a capital study of human nature, and most happily managed. Henry James's "In the Cage" is the romance of a telegraph girl in a London postal telegraph office. "The Two Magics," also from his pen, unites two contrasting stories of light and shade, the first being a most gruesome ghost story. The last novel from Maria Louise Pool was "The Red-Bridge Neighborhood," a sordid tale of rural New England. "A Golden Sorrow," a love-tale of St. Augustine, Florida, in the year 1886, is also to be included in her year's work. "Lost Man's Lane," one of Anna Katharine Green's (Mrs. Rohlfs) popular detective stories, relates a second exciting episode in the life of "Amelia Butterworth," the heroine of "That Affair Next Door." One breathes a specially refined atmosphere in Mrs. Helen Choate Prince's "At the Sign of the Silver Crescent," Mrs. Burnham's "A Great Love," Eliza Orne White's 'A Lover of Truth," and Arlo Bates's "The Puritans," all charming novels by New England writers.

Novels of adventure were almost as popular as in 1897. Those by our own writers were not confined to American scenes, the novels abounding with old-world heroes and old-world surroundings. Those that we now recall we give without any consideration of their merits: "The Continental Dragoon," an historical love-story of New York State in the Revolutionary War, by Robert Neilson Stephens; "In the Sargasso Sea," by T. Allibone Janvier; "Latitude 19°," a romance of the West Indies in the year 1820, by Mrs. Schuyler Crowninshield; "A Man-at-Arms," by Clinton Scollard, an Italian romance of the fourteenth century; "A Trooper of the Empress," a story of South Africa and of the present, and "Bobbie McDuff," both by Clinton Ross; Altsheler's "A Herald of the West"; Mrs. Sheppard Stevens' "I am the King"; "A Sister of Evangeline," by C. G. Douglas Roberts, relating to the deporting of the Acadians of Grande Pré in 1755; "The Count's Snuff-Box," a romance of Washington and Buzzard's Bay during the War of 1812. by G. R. R. Rivers; "The Gospel Writ in Steel," by Arthur Paterson, a story of the Civil War; "For Love of Country," a story of land and sea in the days of the Revolution, by Cyrus Townsend Brady; "The King's Henchman," a sixteenth-century chronicle brought to light and edited by W. H. Johnson; "Hassan, a Fellah," a romance of Palestine, by Henry Gillman; "In Kings' Houses," a romance of the days of Queen Anne, by Mrs. J. C. R. Dorr; "Señorita Montenar," by Archer Philip Crouch, telling the story of the Cuban independence, beginning in the year 1818; "Ashes of Empire," a story of the siege of Paris, by Robert W. Chambers; "Across the Salt Seas," a romance of the War of Succession, by J. Bloundelle Burton, and "The Fifth of November," by C. S. Bentley and F. Kimball Scribner, introducing Guy Fawkes and other noted historical characters of the times of the Stuarts.

Still to be mentioned from American novelists are: Edward Fawcett's "New York"; "The Black Curtain," by Mrs. Flora Haines Loughead; "At You-All's House," by James Newton Baskett; "A Puritan Wooing," by Frank S. Child; "A Bride of Japan," by W. Carlton Dawe; "The Durket Sperret," by Sarah Barnwell Elliott; "Madam of the Ivies," by Elizabeth Phipps Train; "The Uncalled," by Paul Laurence Dunbar; "The General Manager's Story," by Herbert Elliott Hamblen; "A Wounded Name," by Charles King; "Rembrandt," by Walter Cranston Larned; "The Money Captain," by Will Payne; "The Judge," by Mrs. E. W. Peattie; "The Waters of Caney Fork," by Opie P. Read; "Priscilla's Love-Story," by Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford; "On the Winning Side," by Mrs. Jeannette Walworth; "A Pedigree in Pawn," by Arthur H. Veysey; "It was Marlowe," by W. G. Zeigler; "Her Ladyship's Elephant," by David Dwight Wells, and "A Champion in the Seventies," by Edith A. Barnett.

The best examples of the American short story are embraced under the title "Old Chester Tales," by Mrs. Margaret Deland. This volume met with unusual popularity. The stories deal with life in an old town of Pennsylvania and introduce Dr. Lavendar again, one of the author's finest creations. "Madame Butterfly" stands for a collection of Japanese stories based upon the domestic life of Japan as it comes in touch with the foreign residents. John Luther Long, the author, presents many exquisite sketches, amusing and pathetic and at times tragical. He worked in a new field, a unique interest investing his dainty volume with its pretty, artistic cover of cherry-blossoms design. Stephen Crane wrote "The Open Boat, and Other Tales of Adventure"; Bret Harte, "Tales of Trail and Town"; David Gray, "Gallops," stories dealing with life in the hunting field; "Tales of the Home Folks in Peace and War," by Joel Chandler Harris ("Uncle Remus"), embrace character studies of the South and episodes of life during the war and just after it. Southern life is also the inspiration of Paul Laurence Dunbar's "Folks from Dixie"; "Southern Stories," by George Cary Eggleston and "Moriah's Mourning, and Other Half-Hour Sketches," by Ruth McEnery Stuart. Stories of the sea are told in "More Cargoes," by W. W. Jacobs, author of "Many Cargoes." New England, a fertile field for the literary artist, suggested "Boston Neighbours in Town and Out," by Agnes Blake Poor, and "Dumb Fox-glove, and Other Stories," by Annie Trumbull Slosson. "Tales of the City Room," by Elizabeth G. Jordan, invade the sacred precincts of the editorial room of a great "daily"; "Out of Mulberry Street" are studies by Jacob A. Riis of tenement life in New York City, drawn with his usual true and sympathetic touch.

Still other volumes of American short stories were "The Man Who Outlived Himself," by Albion W. Tourgee; "Frontier Stories," by Cy Warman; "War," in tales from M'Clure's; "Cornell Stories," by James G. Sanderson; "From the Other Side," by H. B. Fuller ("Stanton Page"); Paul L. Ford's "Tattle Tales of Cupid"; "The Heart of Toil," by Alice French ("Octave Thanet"); "The Haunts of Men," by Robert W. Chambers; "The Hundred, and Other Stories," by Gertrude Hall, and "The Imported Bridegroom," and other stories of the New York Ghetto, by Abraham Cahan.

The leading English novels found publishers here or were imported. The two works that have excited warm discussion, and the most opposite criticisms wherever the English language is spoken, were Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Helbeck of Bannisdale" and George Moore's "Evelyn Innes." They are both eminently readable, showing great care and thought in the writing. They both seem to possess an element of permanency which places them among the best their authors have produced. Mrs. Ward's judicial fairness in depicting the conflict of Catholicism and agnosticism evinces exceptional intellectual qualities in a woman. Mr. Moore's novel is one of the most forceful studies of the sensuous influences of music we have read in some time. "The Forest Lovers" made an instant and unquestioned success. Delightfully romantic and poetic in the adventures of its hero and heroine, its fresh, charming style won favor with all who read it. Maurice Hewlett, the author, made through "The Forest Lovers" his first appearance in the field of fiction. A second pronounced success of 1898 by an English writer, and also a first novel, is Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler's "Concerning Isabel Carnaby." The plot is not new, dealing with the quarrels of a pair of lovers, badly matched, while incidentally is described an English circle of Methodists or Nonconformists most lovingly and appreciatively. But the author's strength is in her dialogue and in her delineation of character. To these she brings a flow of wit and humor, so unflagging as to be perfectly amazing. Indeed, one is in danger of mental indigestion from a repletion of good things. Theodore Watts-Dunton's "Aylwin" attracted special attention. His position as one of the critics of The Athenæum, and his long association with Tennyson, Browning, Rossetti, William Morris, and other notable men of the century, some of whom he introduces in his novel, under thin disguises, made a strong appeal to the curiosity and interest of the reading public. Richard Le Gallienne was more than usually vague and pessimistic in "The Romance of Zion Chapel," an unflattering picture of Methodism. His dainty style and epigrammatic cleverness, however, carried the book. "Poor Human Nature," by Elizabeth Godfrey, deals with the love of a tenor and a soprano of a German opera company devoted to the production of Wagner's operas; it is delightfully imbued with the author's sincere love of music, and represents a new novelist. Gissing's "The Town Traveller" was very bright and amusing, the very opposite, in fact, to "The Whirlpool," one of the most depressing of this year's novels. "Her Memory," a refined story of English life, comes from "Maarten Maartens," who, in spite of his Dutch name and antecedents, writes in English, his real name being J. M. W. Van der Poorten Schwartz. Edward F. Benson's "The Vintage" is a romance of the Greek war of independence of 1820; "The Broom of the War God" is based upon the recent war of Greece and Turkey. It is from the pen of Henry Noel Brailsford. Sir Walter Besant is to be credited with "The Changeling"; Baring-Gould with "Bladys Stewponey." Anthony Hope wrote "Simon Dale" and "Rupert of Hentzau," the latter a sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda," but in no way equal to it in charm and spontaneity. Stanley Weyman's books were "The Castle Inn" and "Shrewsbury," both English historical romances. "The Pride of Jennico" is one of the notable novels of the early part of 1898. It is a spirited story of adventure of the eighteenth century written by Agnes and Egerton Castle. Henry Seton Merriman's "Roden's Corner" touches upon certain forms of corruption prevalent in English business and financial methods.

The additions to well-known libraries of fiction are most interesting to the confirmed novel reader. They include many most charming works. The new numbers of special note in Appleton's Town and Country Library were T. Gallon's "A Prince of Mischance" and "Dicky Monteith"; "The Looms of Time," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser; "The Incidental Bishop," by Grant Allen; "A Forgotten Sin" and "The Impediment," by Dorothea Gerard; "A Passionate Pilgrim," by Percy White; "Sunset," by Beatrice Whitby; "The Widower," by W. E. Norris; "The Lust of Hate," by Guy Boothby; "This Little World," by David Christie Murray; "The Millionaires," by Frank Frankfort Moore; "The Queen's Cup," by G. A. Henty; "The Scourge of God," by J. Bloundelle Burton; "Materfamilias," by Mrs. Ada Cambridge Cross; "Torn Sails," by Allen Raine; "The Lake of Wine," by Bernard Capes; "A Fiery Ordeal," by Mrs. Jessie Fraser Couvreur ("Tasma"), and "John of Strathbourne," by R. D. Chetwode. Among favorite additions to Lippincott's Select Novels Series may be quoted "In the Shadow of the Three," by Blanche Loftus Tottenham; "Poor Max," by Mrs. Mannington Caffyn ("Iota"), and "Mrs. Balmaine's Past," by Mrs. Bertha M. Croker. The Hudson Library was increased by "Wheat in the Ear," by "Alien"; "The Confessions of Stephen Whapshare," by Emma Brooke, and "As Having Nothing," by Hester Caldwell Oakley, an American author, we believe, though quoted here for convenience. "Wild Eelin," the last published story of William Black, is rich in descriptions of Scottish scenery. Along with this, other novels that were in good demand from English pens are Le Queux's "Scribes and Pharisees," Rosa Nouchette Carey's "Mollie's Prince," "The Londoners," by Robert S. Hichens; "Peggy of the Bartons," by Mrs. Bertha M. Croker; "Young Blood," by Ernest W. Hornung; "The World's Rough Hand," by H. Phelps Whitmarsh; "The Fatal Gift," by Frank Frankfort Moore; "The Crook of the Bough," by Mrs. Henry Norman (Ménie Muriel Dowie); "By Order of the Magistrate," by W. Pett Ridge; "A Valuable Life," by Adeline Sergeant; "John Gilbert, Yeoman," by R. G. Soans; "The Duenna of a Genius," by M. E. Francis; "The Standard-Bearer" and "The Red Axe," by S. R. Crockett; "The Gunrunner," by Bertram Mitford; "John Splendid," by Neil Munro; "The Lady of Castell March," by Owen Rhoscomyl; "The Potentate," by Frances Forbes Robertson, and "Fighting for Favour," by W. G. Tarbets.

The English short story grows in popularity. The twelve stories by Rudyard Kipling in "The Day's Work" have been awarded unstinted praise. The volume has taken the lead in best-selling books. Dr. Watson's ("Ian Maclaren") "Afterwards, and Other Stories" represent some of the best efforts of his genius. "King Circumstance," by Edwin Pugh, is a volume of short and rather sad stories of English home and country life. "Life is Life, and Other Tales and Episodes" is the first published volume of an English girl, Miss Gwendoline Keats, who masqueraded under the pseudonym of "Zack." Devonshire peasant life finds pessimistic representation through these stories. "Tales of Unrest," by Joseph Conrad; "Dreamers of the Ghetto," by Israel Zangwill, and "A Creel of Irish Stories," by Jane Barlow, about complete the list of notable English fiction.

The translations in fiction from foreign languages were rather meagre considering the very large Continental output. "The Head of the Family," just finished by Alphonse Daudet before his death, is the most important novel published in this country from the French. The book appeared in England under the title of "The Bread-Winner," which appears to better describe it than "The Head of the Family." But the similarity of the title with "The Bread-Winners" of American fame caused the first title to be discarded. It is a story of French domestic life with the struggle with poverty, and is lacking in some of the attractive qualities of Daudet's earlier work. Paul Bourget's "Antigone" and "The Disciple" found translators. "Antigone" is a series of fanciful "portraits of women"; "The Disciple" is aimed at the methods of modern scientists and is scathing. Also from the French are Marie-Henri Beyle's "Red and Black," a chronicle of the nineteenth century; Madame Gay's "Marie de Mancini," a romantic episode of the early days of Louis XIV.; "The Terror," a romance of the French Revolution, by Felix Gras; "The Disaster," by Paul and Victor Margueritte, the story of the defeat of the French in the Franco-Prussian war; "The Red Lily," by Anatole France, and "Paris," the concluding volume of Zola's trilogy of which "Lourdes" and "Rome" were the first and second volumes. German fiction is only represented by a few works: "Arachne," the last romance of Georg Ebers; Lola Kirschner's "The Story of a Genius," Sudermann's "Regina" and Voss's "The New God." This is a story of the days of Tiberius and is dressed in the livery of the Odd Number Series. In Italian fiction we have only to note two novels of D'Annunzio—"The Intruder" and "The Maidens of the Rocks." From the Hungarian three of Maurus Jókai's stirring novels appeared in English. They were "The Queen of Janina," "Midst the Wild Carpathians," and "The Nameless Castle." "Niobe" is from the Norwegian of Jonas Kirkwood Lie, "Meir Ezofovitch" from the Polish of Eliza Orzeszko, "The Story of Gösta Berling" from the Swedish of Selma Lagerlöf, and "Maria Felicia" from the Bohemian of Caroline Svetla. The little series entitled Stories from Foreign Authors embraced interesting translations put forth under the sub-titles "German," "Spanish," "Italian," "Russian," "Polish, Greek, Belgian, Hungarian" and "Scandinavian." Each volume contained stories of representative novelists.

BIOGRAPHY AND MEMOIRS.

The revived interest in Benjamin Franklin is the only striking feature in American biography of 1898. From a number of volumes written for young people and old we select as best worth recalling "The True Benjamin Franklin," by Sydney G. Fisher, a vigorous and authentic portrait of this really great man, and "Benjamin Franklin, Printer, Statesman, Philosopher, and Practical Citizen, 1706–1790," by Edward Robins, the first issue of a new series—American Men of Energy—and a composite picture of fresh interest. A sequel to "The Itinerary of the Revolution (1775–1783)," published in 1892, was offered in W. Spohn Baker's "Washington after the Revolution, 1784–1799," a compilation of letters referring to Washington's personal matters and a valuable treasure hitherto not at the disposal of the public. Another life was written of "Ulysses S. Grant," by Hamlin Garland, who claims that it is the first personal life of the great commander. In the Great Educators Series was issued "Horace Mann and the Common School Revival in the United States," by Burke Aaron Hinsdale, which tells simply and clearly the facts of this famous educator.

"Cheerful Yesterdays" are chapters from the life of Thomas Wentworth Higginson; Admiral Franklin tells of his career in "Memories of a Rear-Admiral," the narrative covering more than fifty years of service in the American Navy. "The Life of David Dudley Field," by his brother, Dr. Field, has for its subject one of our greatest lawyers and reformers. "Early Letters of George William Curtis to John S. Dwight" relate to Brook Farm and Concord and men Mr. Curtis met in his youth who afterwards became famous. "The Life and Letters of Paul the Apostle" belongs to religious biography and is a scholarly work of great beauty by Dr. Lyman Abbott.

Other American biographies of the year whose story is told by the title are: "Hawaii's Story, by Hawaii's Queen"; "Memoirs and Letters of James Kent, L.L.D.," late Chancellor of the State of New York; "Eugene Field in His Home," by Ida Comstock Below; "Charles Carleton Coffin, War Correspondent, Traveller, Author, Statesman," by Dr. W. Elliott Griffis; "Passages from the Correspondence and other papers of Rufus W. Griswold"; "American Bookmen," by M. A. De Wolfe Howe; "Jerome Savonarola," by the Rev. J. L. O'Neil; "The Life of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, 1737–1832," by Kate Mason Rowland; "Life and Letters of Thomas Kilby Smith," by Walter G. Smith; "Eighty Years and More (1815–1897)," being reminiscences of Elizabeth Cady Stanton; Ida Husted Harper's "Life and Work of Susan B. Anthony"; two lives of Frances E. Willard; and "Samuel E. Sewall," a memoir by Nina Moore Tiffany.

A year that reported the deaths of men as great and famous as Gladstone and Bismarck necessarily gave forth literature relating to them. From English sources the best biography of Gladstone was Justin McCarthy's "The Story of Gladstone's Life," published previous to 1897, but of which a new revised and enlarged edition carrying the narrative down to the great statesman's death was issued after his death; "Gladstone, the Man," a non-political biography by D. Williamson, treats entirely of his private life; "Mr. Gladstone," a monograph, by Sir E. W. Hamilton, describes, by one who knew him closely for nearly forty years, some of his personal and mental characteristics; "William Ewart Gladstone," a volume for which the material was gathered some years ago, was wholly revised before its publication. Mr. James Bryce makes through its pages a frank analysis of Mr. Gladstone's character.

"The Life of Henry Drummond," by his intimate friend, Dr. George Adam Smith, appeals to the thousands of readers who were fascinated with his book, "The Greatest Thing in the World." "Newman Hall's Autobiography" introduces us to many men of distinction in the past and present. Heroes of the Reformation is a new series that found reprinting here. Its first number was "Martin Luther," by Dr. H. Eyster Jacobs; its second, "Philip Melancthon," by Dr. James W. Richard. The volume of the year in the Heroes of the Nations Series was Stanley Lane Poole's "Saladin and the Fall of the Kingdom of Jerusalem." Character-studies of eminent Englishmen, illustrated with amusing and pointed anecdotes, predominate in the "Collections and Recollections" of G. W. E. Russell. The biographical and critical study of "Christina Rossetti," by H. T. Mackenzie Bell, gives a review of her life and an estimate of her works. "Letters of Dante Gabriel Rossetti to William Allingham, 1854–1870," is an important contribution to the history of the pre-Raphaelite group. Mr. Spurgeon published the first part of his autobiography. A correspondence, now published in full for the first time, between "Robert Burns and Mrs. Dunlop" has an unusual literary and personal interest. The same may be said of the letters which make up "Charles Lamb and the Lloyds." David Wilson, in a thick volume—"Mr. Froude and Carlyle"—strongly condemns the methods of the Sage's biographer. "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales" covers the career of the prince—his birth, education, travels, marriage, etc. "John Ruskin" as a social reformer was studied by John Atkinson Hobson. "Paul Kruger and His Times," by Francis Reginald Statham, discusses a many-sided and famous man. The new Biographical Edition now being published of the works of Thackeray approaches as nearly in its biographical introductions by his daughter, Anne Ritchie, to a biography of the author of "Vanity Fair" as we have so far been able to obtain. With histories of the writing of his novels delightful personal details are intermingled.

Importations were made in small editions of the following important English biographies: New volumes in the Famous Scots Series were "Robert Fergusson," by A. B. Grosart; "William Dunbar," by Oliphant Smeaton; "David Hume," by Henry Calderwood, and "Mungo Park," by T. Banks Maclachlan. "John Bright," by C. A. Vince, appeared in The Victorian Era Series. "Sir James Young Simpson and Chloroform (1811–1870)," by H. Laing Gordon, was the third volume in the Masters of Medicine Series. To the Foreign Statesmen Series, "Mirabeau," by Paul Ferdinand Willert, was added. Still to be named were Henderson's "Stonewall Jackson and the American Civil War" (2 v.); Sidney Lee's "Life of Shakespeare"; Barry O'Brien's "Life of Charles Stewart Parnell"; Forbes' "Life of Napoleon III."; "The Life and Times of Cardinal Wiseman," by Wilfrid Ward (2 v.); Henry B. Irving's "Life of Judge Jeffreys"; "The Cheverels of Cheverel Manor," by Lady Newdigate-Newdegate; "W. G. Wills, Dramatist and Painter," by Freeman Wills; "Admiral Duncan," by the Earl of Camperdown; "Memoirs of a Highland Lady," the autobiography of Elizabeth Grant of Rothiemurchus; and the life and correspondence of "George Thomson, the Friend of Burns," by J. Cuthbert Hadden.

An unflattering picture of the great German Chancellor was taken from the French of Jules Hoche. It is called "The Real Bismarck." Likewise from the French came a biography of "Alphonse Daudet," by his son Léon; the memoirs of the Chevalier de Pontgibaud, under the title "A French Volunteer of the War of Independence," and "The Letters of Victor Hugo" from exile and after the fall of the Empire.

Just at the close of the year we received "Bismarck the Man and Statesman" (2 v.), being the reflections and reminiscences of Otto, Prince von Bismarck, written and dictated by himself after his retirement from office. This translation, made under great pressure, is excellent. It is taken from the German, of course, and stands for the leading biography of 1898. Busch's "Bismarck" (2 v.), an almost equally important work, belongs to the earlier months of the year. Ferdinand Sonnenburg's "Bismarck" also found translation. Leudet's "Emperor of Germany" and Max Müller's "Auld Lang Syne" conclude notable works of this class.

HISTORY.

Historical works from American writers relate largely to our war with Spain, as their titles denote. Among the best were: "A Short History of the War with Spain," by Marrion Wilcox; "History of the Spanish-American War," by Henry Watterson; "Our Navy in the War with Spain," by J. R. Spears; "The War with Spain," by Charles Morris; "The Santiago Campaign, 1898," by General Joseph Wheeler; "The Fall of Santiago," by T. J. Vivian; and "The Cuban and Porto Rican Campaigns," by Richard Harding Davis. In line with these are: "Four Centuries of Spanish Rule in Cuba," by Italo Emilio Canini; "The Spaniard in History," by Rev. James C. Fernald; "The Establishment of Spanish Rule in America," by Bernard Moses; and "The Spanish Revolution, 1868–1875," by E. H. Strobel.

Outside of this hurriedly prepared and necessarily undigested literature but few important works in this department claim attention. Senator Lodge's "Story of the Revolution," which charmed so many readers in its course through Scribner's Magazine, from its fresh points of view and its delightful style, appeared in book form during the holiday season, with a wealth of historic illustration. An unusual interest attaches to Dr. Henry Clay Trumbull's "War Memories of an Army Chaplain." It tells of a long and varied experience with the men in the ranks during the Civil War, and is a sad and pathetic record, illumined by thrilling deeds of bravery and patriotism. "Reminicences of the Old Navy," by Edgar Stanton Maclay; Hezekiah Butterworth's "South America," Mrs. Archibald Dixon's "The True History of the Missouri Compromise and its Repeal," Moses M. Granger's "Washington vs. Jefferson," and "The Underground Railroad from Slavery to Freedom," by Wilbur H. Siebert, complete the present enumeration. Charles A. Dana's "Recollections of the Civil War," a fascinating volume, also belongs here.

An English journalist, G. W. Steevens, is to be credited with one of the most delightful volumes on recent history-making to the Soudan, entitled "With Kitchener to Khartum." Mr. Steevens produced two other volumes during the year which are more than half-way between history and description, leaning largely to the latter subject; but we prefer to quote them here with his other work. Early in the year he published "With the Conquering Turk," and later "Egypt in 1898." "China in Transformation," while it simply aims to give the general reader an account of the present condition of China, is a very excellent piece of work based upon actual observation. The author is Archibald Ross Colquhoun. The new volumes in The Story of the Nations Series were "Modern France, 1789–1895," by André Lebon, and "The Franks" from their origin as a confederacy to the establishment of the kingdom of France and the German Empire, by Louis Sergeant. In the Story of the Empire Series, a new series of small books devoted to the rise of Great Britain's wealth and power throughout the world, were issued "The Rise of an Empire," by Sir Walter Besant; "The Story of India," by Demetrius Boulger; "The Story of Australia," by Flora L. Shaw; and "The Story of Canada," by Howard Angus Kennedy. "The Romance of the House of Savoy, 1003–1519" (2 v.), by Alethea Wiel, is delightfully personal and anecdotal.

Importations were made in small quantities of the following valuable English works: "The Egyptian Soudan," by H. S. L. Alford and W. D. Sword; "Sirdar and Khalifa," by Bennet G. Burleigh; "Fighting the Matabele," by J. Chalmers; "Russia's Sea Power Past and Present," by Sir G. S. Clarke; volume 2 of Clowes's "History of the Royal Navy"; Corbett's "Drake and the Tudor Navy" (2 v.); Harrisse's "Diplomatic History of America"; Sir Richard Temple's "A Bird's-eye View of Picturesque India"; W. J. Stillman's "The Union of Italy, 1815–1895"; "The Story of the Malakand Field Force," by Winston L. S. Churchill; "Africa in the Nineteenth Century," by Edgar Sanderson; and "All the World's Fighting Ships," by F. T. Jane.

Edmond Demoulins' "Anglo-Saxon Superiority" was translated from the tenth French edition. Also from the French came two additional volumes from the prolific pen of Imbert de Saint-Amand—"Napoleon III. and His Court" and "The Court of the Second Empire." An additional volume was added to Sybel's "Founding of the German Empire by William I.," supposed to have been completed with the sixth. This was taken from the German by Helene S. White.

DESCRIPTION AND TRAVEL.

Our new colonial possessions were the subjects of numerous volumes of more or less merit. The additions to American literature are chiefly "Yesterdays in the Philippines," by Joseph Earle Stevens, whose information was gained through a two years' residence in Manila; "The Story of the Philippines," by Murat Halstead; "The Philippine Islands and Their People," by Dean C. Worcester, a record of personal observation and experience, and from an English writer, we believe, but quoted here for convenience; "Manila and the Philippines," by Margherita Arlina Hamm, also based on the author's personal experience. "Commercial Cuba" is a most valuable book for business men, rich in statistics, illustrations, maps, and plans, by W. J. Clarke; then there is "Cuba and Porto Rico," by Robert T. Hill; "The Story of Beautiful Porto Rico," by C. H. Rector; and "Cuba at a Glance," by Emma B. Kaufman and Annie O'Hagan; and Davey's "Cuba, Past and Present" (an importation). "Vacation Days in Hawaii and Japan," by C. M. Taylor, Jr.; and "Hawaii and a Revolution," by Mary H. Krout, give information about another recent acquisition. Grover Flint's "Marching with Gomez" gives the fleeting impressions of a newpaper correspondent. Other books of kindred topics are "A Note-book in Northern Spain," by Archer M. Huntington; "A Corner of Spain," by Mrs. Miriam Coles Harris, the author of "Rutledge;" and "De Soto and His Men in the Land of Florida," by Grace King.

Mexico of to-day is the subject of Charles Fletcher Lummis's "The Awakening of a Nation"; and Alaska was studied by Harry De Windt in a work called "Through the Gold Fields of Alaska to Behring Straits," by Alice Palmer Henderson in "The Rainbow's End—Alaska," and by A. P. Swineford, ex-Governor of Alaska, in "Alaska, its History, Climate, and Natural Resources," a work of some scope and considerable usefulness.

Gossipy works with a good basis of information are Mrs. J. King Van Rensselaer's "The Goede Vrouw of Mana-ha-ta at Home and in Society," covering the period from 1609 to 1760; "Historic Homes of the Southwest Mountains, Va.," by E. C. Mead, describing old houses belonging to once famous people; "Some Colonial Mansions and Those Who Lived in Them," edited by Thomas Allen Glenn, being the first volume of a work of three volumes to be devoted to well-known American families and their ancestors, and "Where Ghosts Walk," historical and literary reminiscences that will forever cling to certain places, written in a very taking style by "Marion Harland" (Mrs. Terhune).

A great literary interest invests Francis Marion Crawford's "Ave Roma Immortalis." Rarely has the romance of the Eternal City been so delightfully served to cultured readers. "The Isles and Shrines of Greece" comes also from a man of broad culture, the Rev. S. J. Barrows. The present and past glories of Greece find most sympathetic and scholarly description. Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood, who seems to have known everybody in the world, and to have been all over it, gave permanent shape to her reminiscences in "Here, There, and Everywhere." Other works to be named are: Charles A. Dana's "Eastern Journeys," the Rev. Ja. S. Gale's "Korean Sketches," the Rev. George H. Hepworth's "Through Armenia on Horseback," Robert E. Peary's "Northward Over the Great Ice," Agnes Repplier's "Philadelphia," and Hugh L. Willoughby's "Across the Everglades."

"The Land of Contrasts" is a Briton's view of his American kin, by James Fullarton Muirhead and a most clever readable book. While not ignoring our defects, the writer's chief aim is to dwell upon those features of American civilization in which it seems to him John Bull may learn from Brother Jonathan. Other works from English pens mostly imported in small editions were Sir Walter Besant's "South London," a complemental volume to the author's "London" and "Westminster"; "The Land of the Pigmies," by Captain Guy Burrows, in the service of the Congo Free State; "With Ski and Sledge Over Arctic Glaciers," by Sir W. Martin Conway, an appendix to "The First Crossing of Spitzbergen," published in 1897; Sven Hedin's "Through Asia" (2 v.), Lionel Decle's "Three Years in Savage Africa," Henry M. Stanley's "Through South Africa," being letters written in 1897 from Bulawayo, Johannesburg, and Pretoria; Merewether's "A Tour Through the Famine Districts of India," a journalistic account of personal investigation; "Through China with a Camera" depicts with pen and kodak the present Celestial Kingdom, John Thompson being the author. A unique journey by a woman is the subject of Ella C. Sykes's "Through Persia on a Side-Saddle." Mr. Landor's explorations of Southern Tibet, his capture, imprisonment, and torture, find graphic description "In the Forbidden Land" (2 v.). Another eventful journey to the same country is M. S. Wellby's "Through Unknown Tibet." Add to these H. Warrington-Smith's "Five Years in Siam, from 1891 to 1896," Herbert Vivian's "Servia, the Poor Man's Paradise," R. A. H. Beckford-Smith's "Cretan Sketches," Fitzgerald's "Travels in the Coast-lands of British East Africa," and from the French Huc's "Travels in Tartary, Thibet, and China," Lachambre's and Machuron's "Andrée's Balloon Expedition in Search of the North Pole," the Prince Henri D'Orléans' "From Tonkin to India," and from the Norwegian Astrup's "With Peary Near the Pole."

LITERARY HISTORY AND MISCELLANY.

This department is rich in helpful book studies of the literature of various countries and periods, bibliographies, manuals, etc. "Worldly Ways and Byways" was among the few original works in this line that received very favorable notice. The shrewd, witty papers which the title covers first appeared in the New York Evening Post. They cleverly hit American life and manners. The author, Eliot Gregory, wrote under the pseudonym of "An Idler." Hamilton Wright Mabie's "Essays on Work and Culture" and John Jay Chapman's "Emerson and Other Essays" were also popular volumes with readers of intelligence and refinement. New studies of nature are represented by Bradford Torrey's "A World of Green Hills" and Dr. C. Conrad Abbott's "Clear Skies and Cloudy," "A Century of French Fiction" was written about by Benjamin W. Wells; and "An Introduction to American Literature," prepared by H. Spackman Pancoast. "An introduction to the Study of the Renaissance" is the work of Lilian F. Field; "How to Study Shakespeare" comes from W. H. Fleming; and "Glimpses of Modern German Culture," by Kuno Francke, consists of papers originally published in The Nation, The Bookman, and other journals.

"Elements of Literary Criticism," by C. F. Johnson, "Principles and Methods of Literary Criticism," by Lorenzo Sears, "Social Ideals in English Letters," by Vida Dutton Scudder, and "Music and Poetry," by Sidney Lanier, are all valuable manuals for the literary student. Essays are embraced in Mellen Chamberlain's "John Adams, the Statesman of the American Revolution" and Leon H. Vincent's "The Bibliotaph and Other People." Both practical and with a charming literary quality is Ellwanger's "Meditations on Gout." "Facts About Book Worms" relates to the real book worm that devours books, written by Rev. J. F. L. O'Conor. Excellent works of reference for the literary delver were published under the following titles: "The Century Atlas of the World," prepared under the superintendence of B. E. Smith; "The Bookman Literary Yearbook, 1898," edited by James Macarthur; "Chambers's Biographical Dictionary"; "The Novels of 1897," compiled by W. M. Griswold; "The Annual Literary Index, 1897," by W. I. Fletcher and R. R. Bowker; "List of French Fiction," by Mme. Sophie Cornu and W. Beer; "Cumulative Index to a Selected List of Periodicals, 1897," "Trade List Annual, 1898," "Annual American Catalogue, 1897," and A. Growoll's "Book-Trade Bibliography in the United States in the 19th Century." And from English sources "English Catalogue of Books for 1897," and T. B. Harbottle's "Dictionary of Classical quotations."

To the Literatures of the World Series several admirable literary histories were added, chiefly from English writers, such as Garnett's "History of Italian Literature," Gosse's "Short History of Modern English Literature," and James Fitzmaurice Kelly's "History of Spanish Literature." In line with these are Saintsbury's "Short History of English Literature"; "The Later Renaissance," by David Hannay, in Periods of European Literature; and "A Study of English Prose," by J. Scott Clark. "A Literary History of India," the initial volume in The Library of Literary History deals with the intellectual growth of India, and is the work of the distinguished scholar, Robert W. Frazer. Essays on a variety of subjects are embraced in Leslie Stephen's "Studies of a Biographer," Herbert Spencer's "Various Fragments," and Austin Dobson's "Miscellanies." "Book-Plates, Old and New," is a brief article made valuable by reproductions of many rare plates. It is from J. A. Gade. Gissing's "Charles Dickens" is a critical study. "The Pleasures of Literature and the Solace of Books" is a delightful compilation from ancient and modern writers by Joseph Shaylor; and "Talks with Mr. Gladstone," by L. A. Tollemache, are upon books, men and women, and political questions. Brunetière's "Manual of the History of French Literature" is an excellent résumé of the subject brought down to the end of the epoch of naturalism, in the year 1875. Literary portraits, with an estimate of their works of the principal romancers and essayists, are embraced in Yetta Blaze de Bury's "French Literature of To-day." Both of the last-mentioned works are translations from the French. From the Dutch we received a translation by Alfred Sutro of Maeterlinck's "Wisdom and Destiny."

POETRY AND THE DRAMA.

In no class of literature was the poverty of the year's output so plainly demonstrated as in Poetry. After naming Lloyd Mifflin's "The Slopes of Helicon," "Shapes and Shadows," by Madison Cawein, Mrs. Florence Earle Coates' "Poems," Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Stetson's "In This Our World," Richard Watson Gilder's "In Palestine, and other poems," Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's "From Sunset Ridge," Mrs. Ella Higginson's "When the Birds go North Again," there seems little else to remember from American poets. Walter Learned edited a charming volume, "A Treasury of American Verse." To a Canadian poet and novelist, C. G. Douglas Roberts, must be credited one of the finest poetical efforts of the year—"New York Nocturnes." Stephen Phillips' "Poems" and Lionel Johnson's "Ireland, and Other Poems," published in England in 1897, were with us part of the output of the current year. "A Lowden Sabbath Morn," one of Robert L. Stevenson's poems of Scotch rural life, was illustrated and issued in gift-book style. Bernard Shaw's "Plays Pleasant and Unpleasant," with all their disagreeable qualities, were notable additions to English dramatic literature. They were reprinted in this country. The translation from the Dutch of Vondel's "Lucifer" was an interesting literary event. Numerous editions from the French of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac," and several new renderings of "The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám" marked the year.

ART BOOKS AND WORKS ON ART.

Lew Wallace's "The Fair God," illustrated by Eric Pape, and Mabie's "In the Forest of Arden," decorated by Will H. Low, were the only American art books of 1898 showing original designs of any importance. They were both very beautiful books. A number of works, some new and others new editions of standards, appeared in illustrated editions for the holiday trade, profusely illustrated from photographs. Among these were Fiske's "The Beginnings of New England," Lodge's "Story of the American Revolution," Crawford's "Ave Roma Immortalis," Estelle M. Hurll's "Life of Our Lord in Art," and Adams's "In Nature's Image." A limited edition was imported from England of Walter Armstrong's "Gainsborough and His Place in English Art." It was a magnificent specimen of bookmaking and a notable addition to art works. The Rhead Brothers' illustrations to "The Pilgrim's Progress" are admitted by experienced critics to be the finest designs yet made for this world-renowned book. An edition of Bunyan's immortal volume with these illustrations was one of the incidents of the close of the year. "London Types" represents one of the most modern and original of English illustrators, William Nicholson. The work found a wide sale in this country. Essays on architectural history are contained in "The Column and the Arch," by an American writer, W. P. P. Longfellow. Also from one of our own writers is John C. Van Dyke's "Nature for Its Own Sake," first studies in light, form, and color for every-day people. Du Maurier's "Social Pictorial Satire" deals with the work of John Leech and Charles Keene and other artists who became famous through Punch. "History of Modern Italian Art," by Ashton Rollins Willard, was written to prove that the statement that modern Italian art is degenerate is founded on prejudice and lack of information. Paul Helleu's "Drypoints and Drawings" consists of reproductions in photogravures from the originals of a Parisian artist's finest work. Eugene Muntz's "Leonardo Da Vinci," also from the French, considers the great Italian painter both as artist and man. Tolstoi's "What is Art?" from the Russian original, is a philosophical contribution to the subject.

Music, which we always include under this heading, received an unusual number of contributions. To American pens are to be credited "Music, How it Came to be What it Is," by Hannah Smith; "What is Good Music?" by W. J. Henderson; "Music and Manners in the Classical Period," by H. E. Krehbiel; to English writers, "Violin Making as it Was and Is," by E. Heron-Allen; "Handbook of Acoustics for the Use of Musical Students," by T. F. Harris; "Handbook of Musical History and Bibliography," by James E. Matthew; "The Masters and Their Music," by W.S.B. Mathews; "Makers of Music," by R. F. Sharp; to the French, Albert Lavignac's "The Music Dramas of Richard Wagner"; and to the German, "The History of Music," by Emil Nauman. The musical works from foreign sources were mostly importations.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE.

Our currency complications and many financial questions were treated by American authors in Noyes's "Thirty Years of American Finance," Brough's "Open Mints and Free Banking," Edward Dana Durand's "Finances of New York City," Perry Belmont's "Republican Responsibility for Present Currency Perils," H. B. Russell's "International Monetary Conferences," and Moses Samelson's "How to Right a Wrong," in which the author's remedy for all our ills is a single graduated tax on surplus wealth. Timely monographs were Benjamin Kidd's "The Control of the Tropics" and Theodore Salisbury Woolsey's "America's Foreign Policy." The first work attracted wide attention and is a strong argument in favor of the supremacy of the white man in the tropics. The second consists of chapters on various subjects connected with our war with Spain, Cuba, and Hawaii, on the Monroe doctrine, etc. Our national and local methods of government were analyzed in "Modern Political Institutions," by Simeon E. Baldwin; "Unforeseen Tendencies of Democracy," by Edwin Lawrence Godkin; "Congressional Committees," by L. G. McConachie; and "A History of the Presidency, by Edward Stanwood. In line with these important works is Francis Newton Thorpe's "A Constitutional History of the American People, 1776–1850," a careful and comprehensive study of the evolution of government in this country, in two large volumes; and the second part of "The Origin and Growth of the English Constitution," by Hannis Taylor, being devoted to "The After-Growth of the Constitution," tracing the system out of which grew our own federal government. "Glimpses of England," by the Rev. Moses Coit Tyler, is made up of selected essays on interesting Englishmen, and incidents of English life, social, political, and artistic. "Women and Economics," by Charlotte Perkins, is a study of the economic relation between men and women as a factor in social evolution. The last work of Henry George's life was "The Science of Political Economy," even wider in scope than the world-famous "Progress and Poverty." A peaceable solution of the social problem is Laurence Gronlund's "The New Economy," embracing many practical measures in the way of economic and social reform.

Notes of a visit to co-operative workshops, factories, and farms in Great Britain and Ireland, in which employer, employee, and consumer share in ownership, management, and results, are the substance of Henry Demarest Lloyd's "Labor Copartnership." "Workingmen's Insurance," by William Franklin Willoughby, in the Library of Economics and Politics, is an interesting practical study; "The Bargain Theory of Wages," by John Davidson, is a contribution to the wage question. The second part of Walter A. Wyckoff's "The Workers" was issued in book form. It takes the reader to the slums of Chicago, and makes him acquainted with the anarchists and phases of life among the very poor.

"The History of the Woman's Club Movement in America," by Mrs. Croly, is most comprehensive. Other works belonging to social science and of a popular character are Dr. Josiah Strong's "The Twentieth Century City"; "The Gate Called Beautiful," by Edward A. Warriner; Wingate's "What Shall Our Boys Do for a Living?"; Dr. Banks's "The Christian Gentleman"; Helen Watterson Moody's "The Unquiet Sex"; Mrs. Burton Harrison's "The Well-Bred Girl in Society"; and Elizabeth Glover's "The Gentle Art of Pleasing." These from American writers; while from English came "Maids, Wives, and Bachelors," by Mrs. A. E. Barr; "A Word to Women," by Mrs. C. E. Humphry; and "A Study of Mary Wollstonecraft and the Rights of Woman," by Emma R. Clough. A résumé of the evidence educed by the Lexow Commission in New York City a few years ago is given in "Satan's Invisible World Displayed," by William T. Stead, the editor of Review of Reviews. Sidney and Beatrice Webb's "Industrial Democracy," a scientific analysis of trade-unionism in Great Britain, was one of the works of permanent value. Interesting studies from the French are Gaullieur's "The Paternal State in France and Germany"; and from the German we received Stuckenberg's "Introduction to the Study of Sociology," and Werner Sombart's "Socialism and the Social Movement in the 19th Century." A little book of an entirely humorous nature from a Western journalist, F. Peter Dunne, called "Mr. Dooley in Peace and War," might find mention here. It wittily scored current topics.

THEOLOGY AND RELIGION.

The contributions to religious literature were notably small. The majority of volumes consist of sermons or addresses, few special studies belonging to the year. Among the latter may be mentioned Dr. Harry E. Richards's "The Mystery of Life," a study of Revelation in the light of science by a scientist and believer in conditional immortality; Dr. W. H. Green's "General Introduction to the Old Testament," treating historically of the canon of the Old Testament; a work in pastoral theology entitled "The Christian Pastor and the Working Church," by the Rev. Washington Gladden, in the International Theological Library. "An Outline of Christian Theology," by the Rev. W. Newton Clarke, an amplification and revision of the volume issued privately by the author a few years ago; "The Post-Apostolic Age," by the Rev. Lucius Waterman, being the second volume in Ten Epochs of Church History; and "The New Testament Church," studies of the doctrines of the Baptist Church, are correlated topics by the Rev. W. H. H. Marsh.

Volumes of sermons or religious papers are embraced in the following titles: "Paul and His Friends," by Dr. L. Albert Banks; "The New Puritanism," by the Rev. Lyman Abbott and others; "Interpretations of Life and Religion," by Dr. Walter W. Battershall; "The Wondrous Cross," by Dr. David James Burrell; "Visions," Sunday morning sermons at St. Bartholomew's, New York City; "A National Church," being the Bedell lectures for 1897, by W. Reed Huntington; "The Message of Christ to Manhood," being the William Belden Noble lectures for 1898, by Dr. A. V. G. Allen, Dr. Francis G. Peabody, and others; "Current Questions for Thinking Men," by Robert Stewart McArthur; "A Door Opened," breathing of religious life in its various relations, by Dr. Alexander McKenzie, of Cambridge; "Afternoons in the College Chapel," short addresses to young men on personal religion, by Francis Greenwood Peabody; and "The Story of the Christian Church," by Dr. G. R. Crooks, originally given as lectures to classes at the Drew Theological Seminary.

The second volume of Dr. George Adam Smith's "The Book of the Twelve Prophets, Commonly Called the Minor," completed the "Expositor's Bible"; the series now embracing forty-nine volumes. Other expository and stimulating studies, likewise from the other side, are "Colossian Studies," by H. C. G. Moule, and "The Poetry and the Religion of the Psalms," by Dr. James Robertson (Croall lectures, 1893–94). Good, practical advice for ministers is the substance of "The Clerical Life," by Dr. John Watson, Dr. Marcus Dods, and others. Also for ministers and teachers is the Rev. Walker Gwynne's compilation of "Five Hundred Stories and Illustrations"; Dr. Watson's "Companions of the Sorrowful Way," nine chapters of reflections upon the last days of Jesus Christ on earth, rich in new meanings set forth in the author's peculiarly fascinating style; "The Gospel of Joy," by A. Stopford Brooke, consists of sermons. Hitherto unpublished addresses of Henry Drummond's are bound together under the title "The Ideal Life"; Dr. Hugh Macmillan's "The Spring of the Day" is a companion book to "The Clock of Nature," and is made on the same lines of teaching and illustration; "Selections from the Works of Bishop Thorold" relates to many subjects; "New Forms of Christian Education," by Mrs. Humphry Ward, is an address setting forth this writer's belief in the coming of a new Christian philosophy; "Behind the Pardah," by Irene H. Barnes, is an inspiring chapter in mission work in India; Renan's "The Apostles," translated from the French by Joseph H. Allen and edited also by him, is the eighth and concluding volume in the Renan histories being published here. It was first issued in the original in 1866.

SCIENCE.

"The Wonderful Century," by Alfred Russel Wallace, takes note of the great material and intellectual achievements of the nineteenth century and also of the failures. "Wireless Telegraphy Popularly Explained," by R. Kerr, is one of the few original contributions to Science proper. Nature books were not so numerous as in past years. To American writers we owe "Birds of the United States East of the Rocky Mountains," by A. C. Apgar, "Birds that Hunt and are Hunted," by Neltje Blanchan; "How to Name the Birds," by H. E. Parkhurst; "Bird Studies," by W. E. D. Scott; "Birds of Village and Field," by Florence A. Merriam; "Familiar Life in Field and Forest, by T. S. Mathews; "Moths and Butterflies of the United States," by Sherman F. Denton (pt. 1); and "The Wild Flowers of California," by Mary Elizabeth Parsons. To England we must credit Grant Allen's "Flashlights on Nature"; the third volume of Britton and Brown's "An Illustrated Flora of the Northern United States, Canada, and the British Possessions"; and Richard Kearton's "With Nature and a Camera," being the adventures and observations of a field naturalist and an animal photographer. "The Groundwork of Science," by St. George Mivart, the second volume in Science Series, is for elementary students. The first volume of this series is "The Study of Man," by Alfred Cort Haddon, more for the amateur and the intelligent reader than the experts. Handbooks for the student were "The Sphere of Science," by Frank Sargent Hoffman, a study of the nature and method of scientific investigation; David Starr Jordan's "Footnotes to Evolution"; "Outlines of the Earth's History," by Nathaniel S. Shaler; and "The Art of Taxidermy," by John Rowley. Mental Science was enriched by "Theories of the Will in the History of Philosophy," by Archibald Alexander; "Evolution, Ethics, and Animal Psychology," by Edward Payson Evans; "Outlines of Descriptive Psychology," by George Trumbull Ladd; and "The Psychology of Suggestion," by Boris Sidis. These are all American books. From the German of Nietzsche was translated the tenth volume of his works, "A Genealogy of Morals." From the French we obtained Louis Proal's important monograph, "Political Crime," no. 4 of the Criminology Series, and "The Play of Animals," a valuable contribution to biology, animal psychology, and the genetic study of art.

The International Education Series, made up of works by authors both in this country and in Europe, had added to it Harris's "Psychologic Foundations of Education," and Taylor's "The Study of the Child." Other works that enrinched Educational Science were Charles W. Eliot's volume of essays and addresses, called "Educational Reform"; N. Murray Butler's "The Meaning of Education"; "The Social Mind and Education," by George Edgar Vincent; 'Psychology for Teachers," by C. Lloyd Morgan; "The Development of the Child," by Nathan Oppenheim; and Davidson's "Rousseau and Education According to Nature," in Great Educators Series. M. M. M.

ENGLISH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1898.

THE London Publishers' Circular has compiled the following statistics of the books published in England during the year 1898. The table does not include books published in America and not also published in England, nor books of which the prices have been altered, though the notice of such has filled considerable space in the columns of the Publishers' Circular during the year. Of works published in the United States only we have recorded in our weekly lists during the past year 397; of works reduced in price, 159; and of works of which the price has advanced, 31.

The output of new books and new editions has declined, the number for 1898 being 410 less than in 1897. It is nearly 1000 more than in 1896. Law and miscellaneous are the only two classes in which the total numbers show an increase. In the case of law the increase is a score; and there is double that increase in the case of new educational works, while there is a decrease of a like number in educational reprints. The increase of 200 in miscellaneous works is partly accounted for by the fact that pamphlets have been unusually numerous.

Commenting on these statistics, the editor of the Circular says: "Our analytical table of books published in 1898 will cause some surprise. It is generally taken for granted that there is year by year a constant and steady increase in the number of new books issued, and during recent years there certainly has been a remarkable growth in production. This year, however, the total, counting new works and new editions, is some 400 less than that of 1897. This is a fact for which we dare say few will be prepared, and fewer still will expect to be told that the chief decline is in fiction. Yet new novels and stories for the young are 200 under the figures for the preceding twelve months, while on new editions there is a shrinkage of nearly 100. It was inevitable that sooner or later this decline should take place, and it is better to have it soon than late. When the three-volume novel was abolished everybody who could concoct a story, and many who could not, rushed into print expecting by some magic means to secure glory and pelf. But it was found that natural laws were still in operation, and that the six-shilling novel offered no easier road to fortune than did its cumbrous predecessor.

"Then grumbling recruits began to desert, partly because results were seldom commensurate to expectations, partly because publishers looked askance on works for which the public showed no relish. A grievous mistake had been made by such as fancied that the abolition of the three-volume novel would enable all and sundry who had mastered the elementary rules of grammar or had an itch for writing to leap into fame. As a matter of fact, we believe it is much harder for the tiro to succeed to-day than it was ten or fifteen years ago, not because publishers are less enterprising and appreciative, but because of the inordinate competition of authors themselves. There never was a time when the popular novelist reaped such golden harvests as fall to him to-day, but such harvests are, with rare exceptions, for such as have made a name. The decline in fiction, then, is natural; nor is there any reason for alarm. A nation that receives in the course of twelve months 1758 new stories is scarcely to be pitied for lack of reading.

"Several departments show little variation. Theology shows a slight decline, while in education the total stands as it stood a year ago. Law is up, but political economy, art, science, and travel are slightly down. In regard to works of travel, however, it should be said that if the quantity is less the quality is remarkable. The prophets of the daily press are busily engaged in settling which books are to live and which to die, oblivious of the utter indifference of time to their judgments. It is much too soon to decide how many books of 1898 are ephemeral and how many immortal. But it may be predicted with tolerable certainty that at least one book of travel given to the world last year is likely to have a considerable lease of life. In poetry and the drama the figures of last year are practically repeated. 'Hope springs eternal in the' poet's breast; were it not so, he could not go on so zealously producing on such slight encouragment. Year-books are down, which is singular, and essays appear to be going out of fashion. The essay is admittedly one of the most delightful forms of literature; how, then, is it permitted to fall into decay? Is it because the essential talent is wanting, or because spicier things have spoiled the public palate? Medicine and surgery are stationary; but miscellaneous and pamphlets show a substantial increase. History is practically as it was a year ago, a fact on which lovers of literature may congratulate themselves.

"From the publishers' and booksellers' point of view what is to be the verdict upon 1898? We fear that in some respects it must be unfavorable. Throughout the whole twelve months the public mind has been disturbed by political excitement. East and west there have been wars and rumors of wars. In spring the conflict between Spain and the United States diverted the people from books, and in the Far East hostilities were threatened. Consequently the spring season was unsatisfactory. Later came the victory of Omdurman and the excitement over Fashoda. Nevertheless, the autumn season has been a fairly good one for booksellers. From most of the large centres they report a satisfactory turn-over. For some weeks before Christmas trade was exhilaratingly brisk, and it is to be hoped that when accounts are finally made up the year will be found at least an average one. If so, we dare say the trade is likely to be satisfied."

FRENCH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1898.

THE Bibliographie de la France in its issue for December 31, 1898, gives the following figures of the number of books, musical compositions, engravings, etc., issued in France during 1898. The number of books published was 14,781, showing an increase of 982 works compared with the total of 13,799 in 1897. The number of musical compositions was 6312, or 227 more than in 1897, and the number of engravings, lithographs, and photographs was 1303, or 368 less than in 1897.

ENGLISH BOOK SALES OF 1898.

J. H. Slater in the London Athenæum.

ONE noticeable circumstance may be mentioned in connection with the sales held during the year 1898, and that is the unusual importance of the "miscellaneous" collections. It is customary to associate miscellanea with mediocrity; and though this idea receives, so far as books are concerned, a distinct check once or twice at least every season, it is but seldom that it is almost entirely dissipated. During the past year few sales of this kind have failed to let loose upon the world again, so to speak, books of the greatest importance from a literary as well as a pecuniary point of view. It is not the number only, but their extraordinary variety that cannot fail to strike anyone who looks over the records of the sale-rooms; and in these dispersions of miscellaneous literature the fancy has, in this respect, full play. It is somewhat amusing to find Pierce Egan jostled by Diodorus Siculus and Erasmus, and Leigh Hunt rained upon by the tears of Hunnis, whose "Seven Sobs of a Sorrowful Soule for Sinne" have echoed down the corridors for more than three hundred years. And many of these books, too, no one, unless he be very widely read or extremely enthusiastic in the matter of titles, is at all likely ever to have so much as heard of before. They exist, of course, and may possibly be read sometimes; but they live only in the workshop of the bibliographer, and are strangers without his door, for they speak for the most part of incidents long forgotten and of men whose very names have passed into oblivion. Still they sell for good round sums, many of them, and that is the most curious fact of all. Met with but seldom, and consequently "very scarce," they are greatly coveted. Though dead and worm-eaten, many of these old books—though not all, by any manner of means—speak on to the élite, nor can they be listened to for nought.

On the whole, it may be said that the book sales of 1898 have been extremely important. Of late it has become the fashion to declare that each succeeding year has eclipsed its predecessors in this respect, though that is clearly a fallacy, which may, perhaps, be debited to the account of the great Ashburnham Library, sold in sections during many days, thus keeping the notion of high and increasing prices perpetually before the public. Leaving this library out of the calculation the importance of the sales by auction which have taken place during, say, the last five years has not been phenomenal. There is a noticeable increase in the total amounts realized annually, but nothing more substantial on which to found an argument that valuable books and their owners are soon parted. Change is perpetual, and the same volumes are seen in the auction-rooms at periods which seem to recur with mathematic precision. Nay, the length of each period of acquisition might even be estimated by reference to the insurance tables, so punctually comes the hammer and the end. But this is a barbaric and soulless way of looking at facts, and no true book-lover would countenance it for a moment. Still, to parody the immortal phrase of Galileo, it (the hammer) falls notwithstanding. To what tune, merry or otherwise, it has fallen during the last year this record will substantially show.

The first sale of the year was held by Messrs. Sotheby on January 21 and following day This may be passed by as containing little of importance. The Skene Library, sold a week later, contained some good books, though the majority were made up into parcels. Beaumont and Fletcher's "Comedies and Tragedies," 1647, with a copy of the edition of "The Wild Goose Chase," 1652, brought £10 (old calf;) ten volumes of the mystical and thoroughly incomprehensible works of Jacob Behman, £5 12*s*.; Champlain's "Voyages," Paris, 1613, 4to, £11; Montfaucon's "Monuments de la Monarchie Française," on large paper, 5 vols., folio, 1729–1733, £12 15*s*.; and a large-paper copy of the "Sealed Book" of Charles II., 1662 folio, £15 10*s*. (red morocco, with the arms of Westminster College.) More important was the library of a gentleman dispersed on February 2, when Allot's "England's Parnassus," first edition, 1600, brought £25 10*s*. (old calf;) Lescarbot's "Histoire de la Nouvelle France," 1618, 8vo, with the four original maps, £16; the "Marguerites de la Marguerite," Lyons, 1547, 8vo. £22 5*s*. (fine copy in morocco extra;) the first folio edition of the "Paradise Lost," 1688, £7 7*s*. (fine copy in ornamented morocco;) "The Court of Civill Courtesie," 1591, 4to, of which only one other copy is known, £20 (calf gilt;) and Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales," 1493, folio, twenty-two leaves missing, £150. This particular copy sold in 1897 for £200, while the Earl of Ashburnham's brought £233. That belonging to the Earl, by the way, was the very one which sold at the Roxburghe sale in 1812 for £14 3*s*. 6*d*. Later on in the month the "Description de l'Égypte," published by the order of Napoleon I., 23 vols., atlas folio, 1809–28, sold for £22 5*s*. (half morocco;) the four 4to volumes of "La Galerie Impériale Royale au Belvédère," 1821–28, with proof plates, £16 5*s*.; Gould's "Birds of New Guinea," complete in the 25 parts, £38; Swinburne's "Laus Veneris," 1866, in the original sheets, £13; and a good copy of "The Turner Gallery," Virtue, n.d., atlas folio, £14 10*s*. (large-paper proofs.)

The library of the late A. C. Lamb, which was sold at Edinburgh by Mr. Dowell on February 7 and three following days, was of an all-round literary character, which under ordinary circumstances would only need casual notice. The Burns portion of it was, however, of quite exceptional interest, the extensive collection of editions being second to none in private hands. It was on this occasion that the uncut copy of the first, or Kilmarnock, edition of 1786 went for the sum of £572 5*s*. (original paper covers,) a record price. A copy of the first Edinburgh edition, 1787, s ld for £8 in the original boards, and another for double that amount in morocco extra. Most people would think that these amounts ought to have been reversed. A third copy of the same edition, with a presentation inscription by the poet on a blank leaf, brought £31 10*s*., while another presentation copy of the edition of 1793 realized £67 4*s*., and Small's "Treatise on Ploughs," 1784, 8vo, with Burns's autograph on the title, £30. "Blind Harry's Metrical History of Sir William Wallace," 1790, 3 vols., also had the poet's autograph on the title-page of vol. i., and for that reason went for £28 7*s*. The other Burnsiana in this extensive collection, autograph letters excepted, sold for small sums; but that in no way detracts from the immense amount of labor and patience that would be required to acquire such an extensive and representative collection. Mr. Lamb's Shakspearean folios and early quartos were not good enough to command much money. A second folio went for £16, and a third for £60; "Poems," 1640, 12mo, brought £23; "Richard II.," 1634, 4to, £40; "The Merry Wives of Windsor," 1630, 4to, £51; "The Two Noble Kinsmen," 1634, 4to, £24 10*s*.; "The Merchant of Venice," 1637, 4to, £43; and "Romeo and Juliet," 1637, 4to, £43.

To show to what depth of misery the naturalist Aldrovandus and all his works have fallen, it is only necessary to quote the fourteen folio volumes which on February 16 were disposed of by Puttick & Simpson for £1 (old calf gilt.) With this remark I pass on to the sale of the library of the late J. H. Johnson, held by the same firm on February 28 and seven subsequent days. The books all sold well, notably the following: Audsley's "Ornamental Arts of Japan," 2 vols., 1882, folio, £10 15*s*.; "Biblia Sacra Latina," 1477, folio £9 10*s*.; "Biblia Sacra Germanica," Nuremberg, 1483, folio, £22; the first edition of Matthew's Bible, 1537, folio, £18 (title in facsimile and some leaves mended;) the third edition of the Great Bible, July, 1540, folio, £60 (a leaf in facsimile;) Caxton's "Cronycles of Englond," printed by Wynkyn de Worde in 1520, folio, £24 10*s*.

(defective in parts;) the Kelmscott Chaucer, 1896, £27 10*s.* (selling now for considerably more, so rapidly are all the Kelmscott books advancing in price;) Cicero's "De Officiis," printed by Sweynheym & Pannartz at Rome in 1469, folio, £20; Froissart's "Cronycles of Englande," 1525, folio, £11 (titles and last leaf in facsimile;) Tindale's Newe Testament, 1536, or "Blank stone" Bible, as it is often called, £20; and Coverdale's New Testament, printed by Nicholson in 1538, small 4to, £18 5*s.* On March 21 Messrs. Sotheby disposed of one of those miscellaneous assortments to which reference has been made. Some 1650 lots were catalogued, and the total sum realized (£7360) shows their importance. The remarkable collection illustrative of the life and works of Shakspeare, which was to have been offered en bloc at this sale, was previously disposed of by private treaty. There remained, however, a choice collection of Herbals, one of them—the "Buch der Natur," 1475, small folio—bringing as much as £101. This is the first edition of one of the finest woodcut books produced at Augsburg in the fifteenth century. The books relating to gardening, flowers, etc., were also very fine, though high prices were the exception in this instance. "The Boke named Cordyale," printed by Caxton, March 24, 1479, brought £505, being £255 less than last year the imperfect Ashburnham copy sold for; and Boethius's "Consolacions of Philosophie," also printed by Caxton, n.d. (about 1478,) realized £181 (thirty-eight leaves missing.) Then we come to a most important series of Thackerayana from the collection of Mr. MacDowell, assistant to the novelist. A volume of manuscript poems, sketches, etc., in the autograph of Thackeray, realized the handsome sum of £225; the original autograph manuscript of a drama, "The Poor Poet," performed at the Adelphi many years ago "with unbounded applause," 18 pp., 8vo, £59; and a small note-book with original autograph notes and sketches, £25 10*s.* There were also other relics of less importance, though a 4to volume of "Algebra Problems" realized £26. Among the printed books is one, however, that cannot be passed. It is known —or rather not known, as nobody seemed to have heard of it before—as "The National Standard of Literature, Science, Music, Theatricals, and the Fine Arts," and consists of thirty-nine parts or numbers, containing many contributions distinctly traceable to Thackeray. One of them—"The Devil's Wager"—was reprinted with alterations in the "Paris Sketch-Book," but all the rest appear to have been effectually hidden away since 1833, the date of the publication of the periodical in question. The amount realized was £40. Large-paper copies of the Badminton "Hunting" have now crept up to £29. On the whole, this was the most important sale of the year, the third portion of the Ashburnham Library and the Makellar and Morris collections alone excepted. It was of such an extensive character that it is quite impossible to do justice to it in the limited space at my disposal. Room must, however, be found for a copy of the third folio of Shakspeare's works, which brought £260. It was a genuine sound and clean copy in old calf, and measured 13¾ in. by 9 in., a matter of considerable importance to the buyer.

It would be a most difficult task to criticise the collection of books and manuscripts belonging to Harold Baillie Weaver, which Christie, Manson & Woods sold on March 29 and following days. The majority appear to have been bought in 1895 at the Gennadius and other sales, and were now disposed of in nearly every case for very much less than they cost. For instance, a manuscript Novum Testamentum, which was acquired in 1895 for £24, went for a guinea; and though this is an extreme instance of depression, it is apparently the fact that the sale in its entirety showed a loss of more than £24,000 on the original cost. The books and MSS. are said to have cost about £30,000 in 1895, and were sold now for £5527 and some odd shillings. This abysmal drop affords cogent evidence, if any be needed, of the pitfalls that often threaten the footsteps of spirited buyers. On April 4 and later a number of Kelmscott books came to the hammer. The Chaucer now brought £28 10*s.*; "The Story of the Glittering Plain," 1894, £5 10*s.*, and Keats's "Poems," 1894, £12. It looks as though not only these, but all other works from the same press, will soon be unprocurable except at a ruinous price. At the same sale Byron's "Curse of Minerva," 1812, 4to, sold for £97. Only three copies of this scarce pamphlet have appeared in the auction-rooms during the past twelve years, the two previous ones bringing £100 (boards) and £60 (ibid.) respectively. Mention must also be made of Shakspeare's works, the Halliwell-Phillipps edition of 1853 16 vols., folio, £58, and Hals's "Compleat History of Cornwall," Exeter, c. 1750, folio, £20. This is a most curious price, as Hals's incomplete work is the scarcest in the whole range of topographical literature. The Earl of Aylesford's copy sold in 1888 for £150, and the Hartley copy for £70 some years before. The Bliss sale, held in April, was remarkable for the collection of song-books disclosed by it. None of these realized much, but the assortment was, to say the least, extensive. I set out a complete list of them in the subject index to "Book-Prices Current," never having previously seen so many at one time. At this same Bliss sale a fine copy of "Poems by Two Brothers" sold for £17 (original boards,) and Allot's "England's Parnassus," 1600, 8vo, £20 10*s.* (some leaves mended and others soiled).

The library of the late T. M. Whitehead (Sotheby's, May 3) contained an extra illustrated copy on large paper of Selwyn's "Catalogue of Bewick's Works," £71, and some other desirable books, including "Le Decameron of Boccaccio," 5 vols., 1759, £20 (old morocco;) a set of the parts of the "Pickwick Papers," £24 10*s.*; Dorat's "Les Baisers," 1770, 8vo, £16 10*s.*; and several MSS. Books of Hours, three of which brought £200, £151, and £101 respectively. Passing two sales of little importance held during the first days of May, we now come to the third portion of the Ashburnham Library. So much has already been written about this and the other portions of an historic collection of the very first rank that any extended reference here would be mere surplusage. The third portion consisted of 1182 lots, which realized £13,911 8*s.* 6*d.*, the amount realized for the whole library being thus £62,712 7*s.* 6*d.* The first five editions of the "Compleat Angler" attracted the most attention, for each book was in its original binding, the first four in sheep and the fifth in calf. The price obtained for the set was £800. In sharp contrast to this is the £235 paid for a set of the same books at the Snow sale on December 1. These had all been rebound, and, though complete as to collation, were defective in places. There can be no question, however, that the rebinding affected the auction value more than anything else. Among the high prices realized at the Ashburnham sale (third portion) were £190 for the 1472 edition of Pliny's "Historia Naturalis," printed on vellum; £240 for "The Booke of Common Praier," 1559; £148 for Jugge and Cawoode's Prayer Book of 1559; and £150 for a copy of the first edition of John Knox's Liturgy, printed at Edinburgh by Lekprevik in 1565. "A Goodly Prymer in Englyshe," June 16, 1535, printed on vellum, and probably unique, sold for £225; and a collection of "Rappresentationi," printed at Florence during the sixteenth century, no less than £712. Then there is the vellum copy of "Le Roman de la Rose," n.d., to be mentioned. This belonged to one of the earliest editions known, and realized £355. A first folio Shakspeare brought £585; a second folio, £90; a third, £190, and a fourth, £55. Early quartos there were none—a curious circumstance, seeing that the late earl commenced collecting in 1814, when most of these aristocrats could have been secured with comparative ease for a few pounds each. And so we must take leave for good and all of the great Ashburnham sale, with the remark that on December 13 a number of volumes which had been returned for unsuspected imperfections not disclosed in the original catalogues were again sold by auction. To compare the prices realized in these two circumstances will no doubt be an agreeable occupation to those who study the current values of books and try to find the reasons for their notorious ups and downs in the market.

On the approach of the close of the season there is usually less to chronicle. We notice the 1891 edition of "The Story of the Glittering Plain," another Kelmscott book—in fact, the first issued from that press—which brought £16. Five years ago £4 was a very usual price to pay. A fine copy of Sotheby's "Principia Typographica," extra illustrated and bound in 10 folio volumes, the author's own copy, sold for £131, in June; and later on a presentation copy of "Arthur O'Leary," 3 vols., 1844, £17 5*s.* (original cloth;) Manning and Bray's "History and Antiquities of Surrey," 3 vols., 1804–14, folio, £19 (russia extra;) Notes and Queries, from the commencement in 1849 to June, 1882, with the Indices to Series i. to v., together 70 vols., £19 (publisher's cloth). The library of the late R. W. Wilbraham, of Northwich, which was sold at the end of June, contained a fine copy of that rare book "L'Histoire Notable de la Floride," Paris, 1586. Richard Hakluyt supplied the manuscript from which the narrative was published, and the book is dedicated to Sir Walter Ralegh. Not more than half a dozen copies are known, and this one brought £41. Lord Byron's "The Waltz," first edition, 1813, £51 (half calf;) Caxton's "Chronicle," printed by Machlinia about 1484, folio, £101; "The Apologye of Syr Thomas More," 1533, 8vo, £18 15*s.* (old morocco;) "Les Œuvres" of Rabelais, 3 vols., 1741, 4to, £18, and the "Practise" of the duellist and P. Stubbes's "The Anatomie of Abuses," 1583, 8vo, £27. There were many other scarce and valuable works in Mr. Wilbraham's library, which, indeed, appears to have been formed with much literary taste and discrimination, as also was that of Henry Howard, of Regent's Park. In the latter case, however, the books were of an entirely different character. Ainsworth, Alken, Cruikshank, Dickens, Leech, Lever, Lover, Thackeray, and other old but yet ever new friends trooped forth as they were wont to do half a dozen years ago, when collectors were more kind. The collection of sporting and humorously illustrated works was also a very good and extensive one, and prices ruled high, as they generally do for fine copies of books of this kind. In this library also were many books of views, among them Silvestre's rare French series, exhibiting parts of France as it was at the time of Louis XIV., 1670, oblong folio, £52 (morocco super-extra). Almost at the very end of the season a made-up copy of the first edition of the Bible in English, Antwerp, October 4, 1535, sold for £61; Statham's "Abridgement of Cases," Rouen, 1490, folio, probably the first book issued by Pynson, £74; a third Kelmscott Chaucer, £33 this time, and yet again a fourth, £36 10*s.*; Combe's "English Dance of Death," a very clean copy, in the original boards, 2 vols., 1815–16, £17 5*s.*; and many more.

The new season, now in full operation, began on October 24, with the sale of the library of the late Osbert Salvin; and then follow one or two comparatively unimportant libraries. That of the late Rev. William Makellar will be fresh in the memory, with its wealth of Bibles, Testaments, and Prayer-Books, among them the Mazarin Bible, on paper, of which only twenty-five copies are known. This was the Syston Park copy which sold in 1884 for £3900. It now brought £2950. The entire Makellar library realized £11,118. The angling library of the late Edward Snow, of Boston, U. S. A., to which reference has already been made in connection with the "Compleat Angler," covered a very wide period of time. Very old books were found side by side with very new ones, and the collection was of the best and most comprehensive character. With exceptions, books on angling do not bring sensational prices, and the most that can be said of these is that they sold for considerably more than they are accustomed to do. Thus Dennys's "Secrets of Angling," 1652, though imperfect, realized £36; Gilbert's "Angler's Delight," 1676, £11 10*s.* (with all faults;) and Barlow's "Severall Wayes of Hunting, Hawking, and Fishing," 1671, £7 10*s.*

The late William Morris's library, dispersed by Sotheby on December 5 and five following days, was of extra importance by reason of the well-known personality of its founder and the scholarly nature of its contents. It contained a large number of valuable manuscripts on vellum and specimens of the productions of early printers, collected by Morris with a definite purpose in connection with his art and typographical work. The total amount realized for 1215 lots was £10,992, an excellent average, due entirely to the manuscripts. The highest price obtained for any single work was £225 for a MS. Testamentum Novum Latinum, a beautiful product of the twelfth century, in which the apocryphal Epistle of St. Paul to the Laodiceans follows the Epistle to Philemon.

A general survey of the book sales of 1898 shows that early printed works, whether English or foreign, are, as heretofore, in great demand, even at prices which are continually advancing. These are the books that find their way ultimately into large public collections, and in transitu to the temporary possession of owners to whom money is no object. Every year sees their number decrease, and it needs no prophet to predict that in the near future they will be conspicuous by their entire absence, even from the largest private libraries. The Kelmscott books are rapidly rising in value, as already stated, and the same remark is applicable to first editions of the earlier works of R. L. Stevenson and Rudyard Kipling. Sporting books, especially those with colored plates, appear to be rapidly taking the place of first editions illustrated by such talented artists as the Cruikshanks, "Phiz," and Leech, at one time all the rage. These will have their day again, no doubt, but the collector of moderate means was driven out of the field by advancing prices, and so all but the very best copies have fallen, for the time being, on evil days. After all, in matters affecting books, the question of literature is the one that very properly predominates over all others. There is, of course, the little matter of this or that edition to be attended to, and one copy of the same edition may, as ever, be more desirable, because in better order, than another. But the cardinal test cannot be ignored. A book is considered to be good or inferior—it is sought for or ignored in the school which exists not for the day only, but for many days—as its literary capacity is evident or the reverse.

AUGUST BRENTANO INSANE.

J. D. R. BALDWIN, Dr. Charles Phelps, and David Gilbert, the commissioners appointed by Justice Truax of the Supreme Court to inquire into the sanity of August Brentano, heard testimony with a sheriff's jury in the county courthouse in New York on January 21. The application to have Mr. Brentano legally declared incompetent was made by his sister, Laura Brentano, who gave evidence that he had been in the sanitarium of Dr. Edwin Goodridge, at Flushing, for some time.

Dr. Goodridge testified that Mr. Brentano was suffering from general paresis, and was incurable. He was hardly able to articulate, and was altogether unable to take care of himself or his affairs. Other medical evidence having been given, the jury found a verdict that Mr. Brentano was of unsound mind.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

THE following circular letter was issued to the members of the Stationers' Board of Trade under date of January 23:

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees held on Wednesday, January 18, Mr. Edwin H. Loveless was appointed secretary of this board. Mr. Loveless has been connected with this office for over seventeen years, having been at the head of the collection department since 1882; his work has always been satisfactory to the officers from every point of view. Mr. Loveless has also acted as secretary pro tem. since November 18, 1898, and is familiar with the duties of the position, and I am confident that he will be successful in meeting the wants of the members of the board.

It is matter of regret that the members of this board have no opportunity of meeting each other. The value of a social feature to an organization of this kind can hardly be calculated. I think a strong effort should be made to have at least one dinner each year. Such efforts during the past two years have failed, but I think the interest of the board demand that the effort should be made again, and I take this opportunity of asking you if you will support such a movement and help to arrange for an annual dinner, and try and make them in future a feature of this organization.

HENRY C. BAINBRIDGE,
President The Stationers' Board of Trade.

SCRIBNER FELLOWSHIP FOR PRINCETON.

IT was announced in Princeton, January 19, that Charles Scribner, of the firm of Charles Scribner's Sons, had founded a fellowship in English literature in Princeton University. It will yield $500 per year. It is open to competition for all seniors who have been in college two academic years and have the other general requirements for all fellowships.

MR. JOHN LANE

Begs to announce for Publication during February:

THE COLLECTED POEMS OF WILLIAM WATSON. Crown 8vo, 305 pp., designed cover, $2.50.

This volume includes the work contained in the author's several volumes, "Poems," "Odes and other Poems," "The Father of the Forest and other Poems," "The Year of Shame," "The Hope of the World and other Poems," with the exception of a few poems excluded by the author.

The London Daily Chronicle says: "As we look through this collected edition of his work we feel confirmed in our belief that whatever his limitations, and they are not few, it is Mr. Watson's function and his glory to hand on, in this generation, the great classical tradition of English poetry. On the threshold of the twentieth century he reconciles and brings to a common denominator, as it were, the best qualities of eighteenth-century and of nineteenth-century verse. He is the heir no less of Dryden than of Tennyson; it is hard to say whether Keats or Pope has more potently influenced him. There is significance in the fact that his favorite instrument, which he fingers with the utmost mastery, is the classic instrument of the English Muse—the iambic pentameter. Pregnant, resonant, memorable lines flow inexhaustibly from his pen; and some of them, we venture to predict, will live with the language."

THE SILENCE OF LOVE. By Edmond Holmes. Small 4to, $1.50.

THE NEW "GOLDEN AGE."

DREAM DAYS By KENNETH GRAHAME.

Third edition. 12mo, $1.25.

The Evening Sun says: "In 'Dream Days' Mr. Kenneth Grahame continues the delightful adventures of the delightful children who were first introduced to us in 'The Golden Age.'"

The Boston Journal says: "It is generally a commonplace of criticism to say that a sequel is quite independent of its predecessor, and has an interest of its own. To the devoted readers of Mr. Grahame's books, such a recommendation seems a sacrilege. What pity would we not offer to the daring unfortunate who would wish to read 'Dream Days' without reading the 'Golden Age,' who would force himself into intimacy with the characters whom he cannot appreciate? This must not deter anyone from reading this very charming book; he must only remember to read also its classic forerunner.'"

BY THE AUTHOR OF THE "FOREST LOVERS."

PAN AND THE YOUNG SHEPHERD. By Maurice Hewlett. 16mo, $1.25.

The Bookman says: "Like the 'Forest Lovers,' it is bathed in a woodland atmosphere and vitalized with the passion of love and youth. It has the throbbing note of life, the spirit of everlasting youth and the human impulse in it which find the universal heart.

The London Daily Chronicle says: "It is a strange piece of work thoroughly characteristic of the imaginative writer who gave us that delightful romance 'The Forest Lovers.'"

List of Books Published During 1898.

Three new books by E. EVERETT GREEN, author of "A Clerk of Oxford," "The Young Pioneers," "Tom Tufton's Travels," and other Historical Tales.

FRENCH AND ENGLISH. A Story of the Struggle in America. With 6 illustrations, and a map showing the scene of the war between the French and English. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.50.

"In 'French and English' we have a tale of the struggle in early American history between these great rival nations. The ferocity of the Indians, the horrors of border warfare and the strange wild life of those primitive times are portrayed by a master hand. It is a boy's book, full of adventure and the free life of the forest. It makes vivid and real the scenes of the past, and teaches patriotism and courage."—S. S. Library Bulletin.

TOM TUFTON'S TOLL. A sequel to "Tom Tufton's Travels." With 6 illustrations. 8vo, extra cloth, $1.25. A story of Queen Anne.

ESTHER'S CHARGE. With 6 illustrations. Cloth extra, 8vo, $1.00.

Three books by HAROLD AVERY, author of "Frank's First Term," "Soldiers of the Queen," etc.

THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE. Its Trials and Triumphs. With 6 illustrations. 8vo, cloth, extra, $1.25.

"It is a natural, stirring, wholesome and amusing story about boys and their pranks and studies, and it will be well thumbed."—Congregationalist.

"Full of action and such incident as causes a boy's heart to respond to the touch of honor and brave deeds."—The Churchman.

STOLEN OR STRAYED. A School Story. Illustrated. 8vo, cloth extra, 50 cents.

"A pretty little story for the Sunday-school library, neatly printed and thoroughly interesting. The book is finely illustrated."—New York Observer.

THE DORMITORY FLAG. A School Story. With 8 illustrations. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.50. Full of outdoor sport. With a thrilling little sketch of later years on the Indian frontier.

THE GOLDEN PICTURE BOOK. Stories and Verses. Over 80 colored illustrations. Small quarto, 288 pages, $1.75.

THROUGH PERIL, TOIL, AND PAIN. By LUCY TAYLOR, author of "Fritz of Prussia," "Going on Pilgrimage," etc. With illustrations. Cloth extra, $1.50.

A FIGHTER IN GREEN. A Tale of Algeria. By HERBERT HAYENS, author of "Under the Lone Star," "Clevely Sahib," etc. With illustrations. Cloth extra, $1.50.

A tale of the conquering of Algeria by the French. Filled with heroic deeds, and contains the romantic story of two brothers who fought on opposite sides in the struggle.

IN THE GRIP OF THE SPANIARD. By HERBERT HAYENS, author of "Under the Lone Star," "The British Legion," etc. With illustrations. Cloth extra, $1.50.

A story of the struggle for independence in Venezuela under Bolivar. Full of adventure.

ONE SUMMER BY THE SEA. By J. M. CALLWELL, author of "Dorothy Arden," "Timothy Tatters," etc. With illustrations. Cloth extra, 8vo, $1.25.

A book for girls. The story of three orphaned children who spent a summer on the seacoast of Ireland, and the changes that came with their life.

THE UNCHARTED ISLAND. By SKELTON KUPPORD, author of "Hammond's Hard Lines," etc. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.25.

"The book is so filled with action, and the island so oaded with treasure, that few boys will complain at any apparent lack of reality in the narrative."—The Dial.

OUR VOW. A Story for Children. By E. L. HAVERFIELD, author of "On Trust," etc. With illustrations. Cloth extra, $1.00.

THE GREEN TOBY JUG AND THE PRINCESS WHO LIVED OPPOSITE. By Mrs. EDWIN HOHLER. Illustrated. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.00.

Delightful stories for children.

"A sweet simple tale which will hold a place beside Mrs. Ewing's charming books."—The Churchman.

KING ALFRED'S VIKING. A Story of the First English Fleet. By CHARLES W. WHISTLER. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.00.

"Opens up new territory to boyish eyes, taking one clear back to the viking days of A. D. 800 and thereabouts. The story is told in excellent manner, and the historical atmosphere seems to be accurate. Every boy likes the vikings, but the latter too seldom appear in fiction."—The Standard.

"It is a good story, and (what is more unusual) it is well written."—The Dial.

CHUMS AT LAST. A Tale of School Life. By A. FORSYTH GRANT. Illustrated. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.00.

"It is a lively picture of boy life . . . sure to be relished by American boys. It will promote sound manliness."—Congregationalist.

"A book to be recommended without qualification."—The Churchman.

American Academy of Political and Social Science.

and can be supplied unbound for $42.50; bound in cloth for $48.50; or bound in half leather for $54.50. These twelve volumes contain a total of 8665 pages.

The Annals is published bi-monthly. The annual subscription price is $6.00; with a special rate to libraries of $5.00. It is sent free to all members of the Academy.

Besides the larger papers contributed to the Annals by many eminent scholars both at home and abroad, especial attention has been directed to the departments. All important books are carefully reviewed or noticed by specialists. The department of Personal Notes keeps the reader informed of movements in the academic and scientific world. Notes upon Municipal Government and Sociology preserve a careful record of events and other matters of interest in these departments, which at the present time claim so large a share of public attention.

"The publications of the American Academy of Political and Social Science are always of value. The papers and monographs range over a wide field, and are marked by great care and thoroughness."—Guardian, Manchester, England.

Special rates to libraries for complete sets of the Annals.

Publications on Current Topics.

The "Academy" is publishing a series of monographs on political, social, and economic questions.

THIS series now includes 245 papers treating of practically every question embraced within the field of the Academy's interest. A catalogue of this series will be sent on application. The numbers are issued fortnightly. The price for the whole 245 publications to date is $50.00.

A few of the papers which have lately appeared in this series are:

The War as a Suggestion of Manifest Destiny. By H. H. Powers. Price.....25c.

Proposed Reforms of the Monetary System. By Prof. J. F. Johnson. Price.....25c.

Causes Affecting Railway Rates and Fares. By Dr. W. E. Weyl. Price.....25c.

NEW BOOKS ISSUED IN 1898.

The True History of the Missouri Compromise and Its Repeal. By Mrs. Archibald Dixon. 8vo. Over 600 pages, uniform with recent editions of the work of Jefferson, Hamilton, etc.....$4 00

"This is a very valuable contribution to the history of our country. It covers the period of thirty-five years—1819 to 1854—during which the struggle between the Northern and Southern States on the subject of slavery, culminating a few years after in the determination of the Southern States to secede from the Union, with the Civil War as a consequence. This volume relates, as has never before been related, the origin and progress of this memorable struggle in the councils of the nation, and is remarkable, not alone for its fulness, but for the fairness of the narration."—W. W. Henry, in the Richmond, Va., Dispatch.

Introduction to the Study of North American Archæology. By Prof. Cyrus Thomas, U. S. Bureau of American Ethnology. The book has been prepared with a view of presenting in the briefest possible compass a summary of the subject, bringing the work up to date, and in a form best adapted to the use of the general reader and student. 108 illustrations. 8vo, buckram, cloth $2 00

CARRY FULL LINES OF ALL THE PUBLISHERS'

Miscellaneous, Standard, and School Stock, and offer the Book Trade of the United States and Canada the advantages of a perfectly equipped and organized Jobbing House in the Greatest American Book Market. The most favorable market in which to purchase is that where the transactions are most frequent and on the largest scale, and where the producers of, and dealers in, any given article are most numerous. Of the one hundred and seventy-five book-publishers in the United States one hundred and twenty-five are either located in New York or have agencies with representative lines there. None is entirely unrepresented. No general order for books can possibly be completely filled without waiting at some point for a portion of it to be ordered and shipped from New York. The best thing to do with such an order is to send it straight to New York in the first instance. It is probable that it can be filled there at once; if it cannot be, then the "shorts" can be got together for shipment more quickly in New York than at any other point in the country; it is, in fact, the centre of the country's book business.

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

"No less enthralling than 'Two Years Before the Mast.'"

THE CRUISE OF THE CACHALOT.

Round the World After Sperm Whales. By FRANK T. BULLEN, First Mate. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This is the graphic story of the life and adventures of the crew of a South Sea whaler, which started from New Bedford and circumnavigated the globe. It is one of the rare books which actually prove truth stranger than fiction, and the simple eloquence and unstudied picturesqueness of the author's style clothe his strange experience with a peculiar charm. After reading the proof sheets, Mr. Rudyard Kipling wrote the author: "It is immense—there is no other word. I've never read anything that equals it in its deep-sea wonder and mystery, nor do I think that any book before has so completely covered the whole business of whale-fishing, and at the same time given such real and new sea pictures. I congratulate you most heartily. It's a new world that you've opened the door to."

"Mr. Bullen has given us an epic on whaling, and has presented it with that forcefulness and simplicity with which the epic is associated. . . . The book is of the sea. The author describes some tremendous scenes. . . . The book is real, authentic, a piece of life."—London Academy.

"Written with racy freedom of literary expression and luxuriant abundance of incident, so that it becomes a story of fascinating vividness which thrills the reader and amuses him. The volume is no less enthralling than 'Two Years Before the Mast,' and higher praise cannot be accorded to a story of the sea. . . . A book of such extraordinary merit as seldom comes to hand."—Philadelphia Press.

New Edition.

THE SCAPEGOAT.

A Romance and a Parable. By HALL CAINE, author of "The Deemster," "The Bondman," "The Manxman," "The Christian," etc. New and revised edition. Uniform with the author's works. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This new edition will present itself as practically a new book. It will be found to differ materially from the edition heretofore published, which was issued some years since without the benefit of the author's revision. This powerful romance and expressive "parable" will be certain to obtain a greatly enlarged meed of popularity.

THE STORY OF THE COTTON PLANT.

By F. WILKINSON, F.G.S., Director of the Textile and Engineer School, Bolton. A new volume in the Library of Useful Stories. Illustrated. 16mo, cloth, 40 cents.

In clear and simple language the author tells the story of cotton, tracing its progress from the plant to the thread. The early history of cotton, the various phases of its growth, and the processes of preparation and manufacture, are lucidly described.

By the author of "Mona Maclean."

WINDYHAUGH.

A Novel. By GRAHAM TRAVERS, author of "Mona Maclean, Medical Student," "Fellow Travellers," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This charming story is written with an insight into life and a sympathetic portrayal of character which show a continued and notable development on the part of the author of "Mona Maclean." It is the story of a modern woman, but a story which will be read by men and women alike. The heroine "carved no statue, painted no picture; she did not even write a book, but when all these things have been excluded, there remains that little art of living which has been open in all ages alike to the wise and the simple."

Of "Mona Maclean" the London Spectator says: "The cleverest novel we have read for a long time, and yet it is thoroughly enjoyable as well. . . . The more charming in virtue of the fact that its simple entertaining quality does not exclude a certain fine seriousness of intent which gives it an intellectual and moral as well as a merely narrative or dramatic interest."

"The name of the author of 'Mona Maclean' should assure anyone of at least pleasant reading, and 'Windyhaugh' has a great deal about it that is pleasant. . . . The story works itself out well and is the result, quite evidently, of a great deal of thought and care."—London Saturday Review.

"We congratulate the author very heartily upon her success. The characters are all alive and the conversation suits them. . . . We cordially recommend 'Windyhaugh.'"—London Literary World.

PUERTO RICO AND ITS RESOURCES.

A Book for Travellers, Investors, and others, containing full accounts of Natural Features and Resources, Products, People, Opportunities for Business, etc. By FREDERICK A. OBER, author of "Camps in the Caribbees," "Crusoe's Island." With maps and illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"No helter-skelter narrative is this, patched together to catch a sudden market in the wake of war, but a careful, well-proportioned volume by an author who has seen more and written more of Latin-America than almost any other living American. . . . Undoubtedly the best book on Puerto Rico yet written, and the likelihood is that it will be a long time before we shall get another so good."—Boston Journal.

A New Novel in Little, Brown, & Co.'s

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Curtin's Indian Myth Tales.

CREATION MYTHS OF PRIMITIVE AMERICA. In Relation to the Religious History and Mental Development of Mankind. By JEREMIAH CURTIN, author of "Myths and Folk-Lore of Ireland," etc. Translator of "Quo Vadis," "With Fire and Sword," and the other works of Henryk Sienkiewicz. 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $2.50.

These twenty long myths were taken down by Mr. Curtin from Indians who knew no language nor religion but their own. The tales, which are of exceptional interest in the light they throw upon the primitive mind, are also of remarkable beauty and wealth of incident.

History of the Royal Navy.

Volume III.

THE ROYAL NAVY. A History from the Earliest Times to the Present. By WILLIAM LAIRD CLOWES, Fellow of King's College, Gold Medallist U. S. Naval Institute, etc. Assisted by Sir Clements Markham, Captain A. T. Mahan, H. W Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, etc. Twenty-five photogravures and hundreds of full-page and other illustrations, maps, charts, etc. In five volumes. Vols. I.–III. ready. Royal 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $6.50, net, per volume.

Volume III., now issued, contains an important chapter on the American Revolution by Captain Mahan. This occupies over 200 pages, one-third of the volume.

Harnack's History of Dogma.

Volume V.

THE HISTORY OF DOGMA. By Dr. ADOLPH HARNACK, Ordinary Prof. of Church History in the University, and Fellow of the Royal Academy of Science, Berlin. Translated from the Third German Edition by Neil Buchanan. Vols. I.–V. now ready. 8vo, cloth, each, $2.50.

Having reached a period of decline in the Church councils, Dr. Harnack discusses in Volume V. dogma in relation to the doctrines and life of Augustine.

Pollock and Maitland's English Law.

New Edition.

THE HISTORY OF ENGLISH LAW BEFORE THE TIME OF EDWARD I. By Sir FREDERICK POLLOCK, Bart., M.A., LL.D., Corpus Professor of Jurisprudence in the University of Oxford; and FREDERIC WILLIAM MAITLAND, LL.D., Downing Professor of the Laws of England in the University of Cambridge, author of "Domesday Book and Beyond." Second Edition. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, $9.00 net; delivered, $9.60.

Besides general revision, this edition contains a new introductory chapter by Professor Maitland, entitled "The Dark Age in Legal History." Two important sections of Book II.—on "Fictitious Persons" and "The Borough"—have been rewritten.

NOTES IN SEASON.

E. R. HERRICK & Co. will publish shortly "And Then Came Spring," a novelette by Garret Van Arkel, the scene of which is laid in the picturesque surroundings of western Pennsylvania.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE Company promise for early publication in February a new novel by Maurus Jókai, entitled "An Hungarian Nabob." Mr. R. Nisbet Bain has translated this romantic tale, which has attained the position of a national classic in Hungary. The character of the old nabob and the wild life of the Magyar nobles are revelations to the American reader, while the dramatic interest of the tale never flags.

THE ORANGE JUDD COMPANY, 52 Lafayette Place, New York, call the attention of the trade to a work that has already had a gratifying welcome from American and English educators and the press. We refer to the work by J. Liberty Tadd, with the voluminous title of "New Methods in Education—Art, Real Manual Training, Nature Study—explaining processes whereby hand, eye, and mind are educated by means that conserve vitality and develop a union of thought and action." Sampson Low, Marston & Co. are the publishers of an English edition, and arrangements are under way for German and French editions. As a piece of bookmaking it has also received high praise.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just issued Frederick A. Ober's "Puerto Rico and its Resources," a work intended to answer all questions arising in connection with the acquisition and occupation of the new tropical possession of the United States, and specially prepared for travellers, investors, etc. The sixth volume in the excellent series of Literatures of the World, which Edmund Gosse is so ably editing, will be "Japanese Literature," by W. G. Aston, of which two-thirds is a translation from the valuable histories of literature existing in Japan. The narrative of Mr. Aston is brought up to the very latest writers. A new novel entitled "Windyhaugh is by "Graham Travers," now discovered to be a pseudonym for Dr. Margeret G. Todd, who made a great success with her previous volume, "Mona Maclean, Medical Student"; and Hall Caine's "Scapegoat" is promised, revised and enlarged by the author, with whom it is a favorite work.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have just ready "The Two Standards," a new novel by the Rev. Dr. William Barry, whose first novel, "The New Antigone," published about twelve years ago, had a pronounced success. The scene of the new novel is laid in London and on the Continent. There is a beautiful singer who marries for money, a handsome tenor, almost an elopement, and a lot about music that is most interesting and instructive. The book is said to be suggestive of Moore's "Evelyn Innes," but by contrast rather than by similarity. They have also just ready "The Life and Letters of Lewis Carroll," by his nephew, S. D. Collingwood; "The 'Maine,' an account of her destruction in Havana harbor," in which Captain Sigsbee describes the destruction of the Maine, and gives considerable matter supplementing his magazine articles; and "Campaigning in Cuba," a collection of the war correspondence prepared for The Outlook, by George Kennan.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready "Creation Myths of Primitive America," by Jeremiah Curtin, which contains twenty long myths taken down word for word by him from Indians who knew no religion nor language save their own. The volume contains an elaborate introduction and all necessary notes. The fifth volume is also ready of Harnack's "History of Dogma," dealing with Augustine as the reformer of Christian piety and as a theological teacher. This volume is perhaps most full of original researches of any yet published. Having reached a period of decline in the great church councils, Dr. Harnack considers the changes in dogma due to the influence and teachings of Augustine. He gives a masterly exposition of the varied and almost conflicting elements of Augustine's character, environment and doctrines, and traces the modifications of Augustinianism in the dark centuries and during the Carlovingian Renaissance that followed. There are two more volumes yet to come.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.). D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Adler, Cyrus, and Casanowicz, I. M. Biblical antiquities: a description of the exhibit at the Cotton States International Exposition, Atlanta, 1895; from the "Report of U. S. National Museum," [Smithsonian Institution.] for 1896. Wash., D. C., Government, 1898. 943–1023 p. pls. 8°, pap., n. p. [164

The section of Oriental antiquities in the United States National Museum was established in 1887, and in 1889 there was added to the Museum a section of religious ceremonial institutions. Although not at all identical in scope, it was found best, for practical reasons, that the exhibit of these two sections in the Atlanta Exposition should be united in the form of a collection, which, for want of a better name, may be called "Biblical antiquities." The space allowed was limited; hence, although the subdivisions of the subject were all represented, an outline in this important field was all that was possible. The present monograph is an exact record of the collection.

American Agriculturist year-book and almanac, 1899: a cyclopedia of progress and events; a treasury of statistics for farm or home, and office or factory, by Herbert Myrick. V. 3, no. 4. N. Y., Orange Judd Co., [1899.] 512 p. D. pap., 50 c. [165

A reference work on every subject pertaining to agriculture, industry, commerce, and markets, public affairs, economics, and politics, household education, religion and society, an almanac of calendars, astronomy of 1899, the weather, hints for each month, dates, etc.

Apthorp, W: Foster. By the way: a collection of short essays on music and art in general, taken from the program-books of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Bost., Copeland & Day, [1898.] c. 2 v., 12+157; 8+196 p. S. cl., $1.50. [166

The material was first printed under the heading of "Entre'acte," in the programmes prepared for the Boston Symphony Orchestra concerts. In this department the editor has been free to print any sort of matter he considered of musical interest to the audience. The little volumes are full of interesting matter for readers of artistic feelings and impulses.

Bailey, Liberty Hyde, ed. Principles of agriculture: a text-book for schools and rural societies. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 15+300 p. il. 16°, (Rural science ser.) cl., $1.25. [167

A description of rural New York schools in 1875. The story, which is a sequel to "Roderick Hume," was originally published serially, twenty years ago, in The School Bulletin, and at the same time the first hundred pages were printed in book form. The author, however, being dissatisfied with parts of his work, recalled the printed pages, with the intention of rewriting them. This has since been reconsidered, and the text is here given as it was first written, and as a contribution to educational history.

Bates, Frank Greene. Rhode Island and the formation of the union. N. Y., published for Columbia University by The Macmillan Co., 1898. 8–320 p. 8°, (Studies in history, economics, and public law., vol. 10, no. 2.) pap., net, $1.50. [169

This monograph embodies the results of investigations begun in the American History Seminary of Cornell University, under the guidance of Professor Moses Coit Tyler, and completed in the School of Political Science of Columbia University, under Professor Herbert L. Osgood. The work gives the facts of Rhode Island's history from 1765 to 1790, and explains why Rhode Island so long delayed her ratification of the Federal constitution. Bibliography (4 p.).

Beers, H: A: A history of English romanticism in the eighteenth century. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. '98. 6+455 p. D. cl., $2. [170

Consists of a series of lectures given in elective courses in Yale. By romanticism the author means "the reproduction in modern art or literature of the life and thought of the Middle Ages." He does not treat his subject chronologically, but in the following order: The Augustans, Spencerians, Landscape poets, Miltonic group, School of Warton, the Gothic revival, Percy and the ballads, Ossian, Thomas Chatterton, the German tributary. Bibliography (15 p.). Index.

A record of fifty years' missionary work is given in a series of papers, some of which were first published in The Christian Endeavor World and in Forward. The purpose of the articles is to diffuse missionary knowledge. Some of the titles are: The Hawaiians a hundred years ago; The overthrow of idolatry; The missionaries at work; Story of Kapiolani; The Roman Catholic mission; Hawaii a Christian nation; Hawaii a territory of the United States, etc.

Bryan, Alfred Cookman. History of state banking in Maryland. Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1899. 8–144 p. O. (Johns Hopkins University studies, 17 ser. nos., 1, 2, 3.) pap., $1. [177

A study of the system of banking which existed in Maryland before the passage of the National Bank Act in 1863. The organization and line of development are studied chiefly as they are reflected in the legislative regulations on banking by the General Assembly of the State of Maryland. An examination is also made of political, economic, and industrial conditions for the purpose of showing the reason for legislative action. The relationship between development in banking and industrial progress is emphasized. Includes state banking statistics and bibliography (4 p.).

Butterfield, Consul Willshire. History of Brulé's discoveries and explorations, 1610–1626; being a narrative of the discovery, by Stephen Brulé, of Lakes Huron, Ontario, and Superior, and of his explorations (the first made by civilized man) of Pennsylvania and Western New York; also of the Province of Ontario, Canada; with a biographical notice of the discoverer and explorer, who was killed and eaten by savages. Cleveland, O., The Helman-Taylor Co., 1898. 12+184 p. il. map, O. (Publications of the Western Reserve Hist. Soc.) buckram, corr. price, $2. [178

Stephen Brulé was born in Champigny, France, about the year 1592. He came to New France in the ship commanded by Champlain in 1608, which brought men, arms, and stores for the settlement to be founded on the River St. Lawrence. He was one of the eight white men who were the original settlers of Quebec. Brulé wrote nothing, but his verbal recitals of adventures among savages were recorded by Champlain, Sagard, and Le Caron. From their narratives the author has written this narrative which was presented in manuscript in 1897 to the Western Reserve Historical Association. An appendix of fifty pages gives the writer's authorities. Index.

Canfield, Arthur Graves, comp. and ed. French lyrics; selected and ed., with an introd. and notes. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. 382 p. D. cl., $1. [179

This work, intended as an introduction to the reading and study of French lyrics, sketches the main points in the history of the lyric in France, and gives an outline to help the reader place the lyrics in the right historical relations. In order to fill out the points not covered, readers are advised to use in conjunction with, the present study some history of French literature. Biographical notes. Index.

Carnegie, D: W. Spinifex and sand: a narrative of five years' pioneering and exploration in western Australia. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co., 1898. 16+454 p. por. il. maps, O. cl., $5. [180

A record of five years (1892–1897) spent in the goldfields and far interior of Western Australia. On the journey described Mr. Carnegie was accompanied by Lord Percy Douglas (now Lord Douglas of Hawick). Besides recounting the interesting personal experiences of himself and companion, the author describes the customs, resources, and inhabitants (particularly the aborigines), and gives information about geological specimens, and his theories as to the wisdom of exploring these regions.

Carpenter, Edmund Janes. America in Hawaiian Islands. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1899. 11+275 p. D. cl., $1.50. [181

Traces the development of American influence in Hawaii, from the beginning of the movement for annexation to the time the Archipelago was finally annexed (1898). Many facts touching upon the early commercial relations of the United States and Hawaii are given, and the diplomatic and political issues of the Hawaiian question are carefully considered. The information is based on the public documents of Hawaii and the United States, also on the works of noted historians. The time covered is from 1778–1898. King Kalakau, Liliuokalani, and other prominent figures in the Revolution of 1895 are introduced.

Cooke, G: Willis. John Sullivan Dwight, Brook-farmer, editor, and critic of music: a biography. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1898. c. 14+297 p. por. O. cl., $2. [186

John Sullivan Dwight is the man to whom "The Early Letters of George William Curtis" were written. See "Weekly Record," P. W., Aug. 20, 1898, [1386.] This biography was undertaken at the request of Mrs. Ednah D. Cheney, and she has given it her aid and revision. Three phases of Dwight's life are kept specially in view: his connection with Brook Farm, his membership in the Saturday Club, and his work for music in Boston. The writer claims some errors have crept into the volume of "Curtis letters," and he corrects them in the preface. Two dozen letters appear from celebrated literary Americans, which are here published for the first time. No index.

Cornelius, Mrs. M. A. Uncle Nathan's farm: a novel. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1898. c. 2+318 p. 1 il. D. cl., 50 c. [187

The heroine, who seems an almost perfect being, tries, through much tribulation, to impress upon all with whom she comes in contact the virtue of tolerance. Members of the Roman Catholic, Protestant Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist, and Presbyterian churches hold long discussions, and in the end become conscious that they are all striving for the right. A thread of romance strings together some excellent lessons of truth and liberality.

Curtin, Jeremiah. Creation myths of primitive America in relation to the religious history and mental development of mankind. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1898. c. 39+582 p. il. O. cl., $2.50. [188

The author's methods have already been shown in "Myths and folk-lore of Ireland"; "Myths and folk-tales of the Russians," "Western Slavs and Magyars," etc. This book is on the unwritten mental productions of primitive America. It contains twenty long myths taken down word for word by the author from the Indians, who knew no language or religion but their own. These masterpieces of the primitive human mind in America antedate by many ages the earliest forms of thought represented in the records of Egypt and Assyria and explain many things taught in the religion of these countries. Elaborate notes make the book valuable.

Emma Willard and her pupils; or, fifty years of Troy Female Seminary, 1822–1872. N. Y., Mrs. Russell Sage, [for sale by The American Tract Soc., 1899.] c. '98. 895 p. pors. Q. subs., cl., $3.50; mor., $5. [189

Contains an extended biography of Emma Hart, afterwards Mrs. Willard; a historical sketch of the celebrated Troy Female Seminary; and biographical sketches of the pupils of five decades, 1822-1872. The work is published in response to a movement of the Emma Willard Association of Troy to honor Mrs Willard.

Fassett, Ja. H. Colonial life in New Hampshire. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1899. c. 6+145 p. il. sq. D. cl., 70 c. [190

Subject is treated topically rather than chronologically. In some instances, however, incidents are narrated in consecutive order. Aims to cultivate the child's taste for historical reading by familiarizing him with localities of historic interest. This method is believed to be superior to the mere memorizing of events by dates.

Fernald, Ja. C. The imperial republic. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., [1899.] c. '98. 192 p. maps, D. cl., 75 c. [191

The editor of the "Student's Standard Dictionary" is an avowed and ardent believer in expansion. He here undertakes to show that its dangers are fewer than many thoughtful men believe, and at the same time he points out the material advantages that lie along the line of expanding policy. He would have "our flag floating over peaceful commerce in every port on the globe," and he would have that flag mean everywhere "what it means in our own land, civil and religious liberty, industrial advancement, popular education—the church, the school, the home, in the light of freedom, under the shield of law."

Fotheringham, Ja. Studies of the mind and art of Robert Browning. 3d ed. rev. and enl. [N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co.,] 1898. 22+576 p. D. cl., net, $2.25. [192

A critical estimate of the life and literary labors of Robert Browning, first published in 1889. The work has been some time out of print. This new edition now covers the whole period of Robert Browning's work. The additions comprise three entirely new chapters, and five chapters which have been largely rewritten, with groups of studies of Browning's later poems. The parts of the book affected by the publication of Mrs. Orr's "Life and letters of Robert Browning," and "Letters of Eliza Barrett Browning," edited by F. G. Kenyon, have also been rewritten.

Gielow, Mrs. Martha S. Mammy's reminiscences, and other sketches. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1898. c. 7+109 p. il. D. cl., $1. [193

Ante-bellum southern stories and rhymes, told in the quaint musical dialect of the plantation negro, which picture the peculiar characteristics of the "mammy," the "Sambo," the "pickanniny" and other figures of slave life. Many Voodoo superstitions are also recalled

Gould, G: M., M.D., ed. American yearbook of medicine and surgery: being a yearly digest of scientific progress and authoritative opinion in all branches of medicine and surgery, drawn from journals, monographs, and text-books of the leading American and foreign authors and investigators; collected and arr., with critical editorial comments, by S: W. Abbott, J: J. Abel, M.D., J. M. Baldy, M.D., and others, under the general editorship of G: M. Gould, M.D. Phil., W. B. Saunders, 1899. c. 1102 p. 8°, subs., cl., $6.50; hf. mor., $7.50. [194

Greene, H: Copley. Plains and uplands of old France: a book of verse and prose. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1898. c. 5+189 p. S. cl., $1.50. [195

Describes incidents of a modern pilgrimage in Mediæval France. The titles are: The Yonne and the Serein; Gerard de Rousillon; Château-Chinon; In Morvan; Perigeux; Where the English ruled; The miracle of Our Lady's bell; The desert and a shrine; The brooks; Fantastic friends in a fantastic land; Jocus sanctæ fidis; Conques; A boating song; Through a land of Bizarre; Pierre of Provence to Maguelone the fair; Maguelone; The holy peak; A pilgrimage to the past.

Gunter, Archibald Clavering. Jack Curzon: (being a portion of the records of the managing clerk of Martin Thompson & Co., English merchants, doing business in Hong Kong, Manila, Cebu, and the Straits Settlements.) N. Y., The Home Publishing Co., [1899.] c. '98. 4+330+9 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c. [196

The clever, up-to-date author uses the fall of Manila and the plots of the Philippine insurgents as a background for his exciting story connected with an English trading house.

Hall, Tom. When Cupid calls; with decorations by Blanche McManus. N. Y., E. R. Herrick & Co., [1899.] c. '98. 11+119 p. D. cl., $1.50. [197

Society verses which were first printed in Truth, by the author of "When love laughs."

Hardy, T: Wessex poems, and other verses; 30 il. by the author. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. '98. 6+209 p. O. cl., $1.75. [198

Only four of the poems contained in the volume have been published before. The poems are dramatic and personative. The illustrations are of later date than the poems, and were added for local and personal reasons rather than for intrinsic merit. Many of the verses have been turned into prose and the thoughts they embody have been used in the author's novels.

Harnack, Adolph, D.D. History of dogma; from the 3d German ed., by Neil Buchanan. V. 5. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1899. 20+331 p. O. (Theological translation lib., v. 10.) cl., $2.50. [199

This volume is the first of three that will cover Vol. III of the original work. It deals with the epoch-making service of St. Augustine as a reformer of Christian piety and as a theological teacher, and with the influence he exercised down to the Carlovingian Renaissance. Vol. II. will complete the history of the development of dogma, by telling the story of Mediæval theology, and the concluding volume will treat of the issues of dogma since the Reformation, and will give a general index to the whole work.

Harwood, Annie. An English view of Christian science: an exposure. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., [1899.] c. 96 p. D. cl., net, 35 c. [200

The writer is assistant mistress in a London high-school. She is a member of the Congregationalist Church. Her health broke down one summer and she came into the hands of Christian scientists. She explains their methods and Mrs. Eddy's doctrines especially. Her chief arraignment is based upon the fact of this sect calling themselves Christians while they deny the efficacy or need of baptism and the Lord's supper, the foundation of Christian church doctrine.

Holland, Clive. The seed of the poppy. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co., [1899.] 5-309 p. D. cl., $1.50. [204

The hero and heroine, living at Owlscroft, in Somersetshire, plan a literary career in London. After a lapse of six months they again meet. Paul's hopes have been realized; his first novel has been a success, and he is collaborating on a second book. His collaborator is a beautiful woman, who has also achieved literary fame. A letter from this woman is the cause of a lovers' quarrel and the hero's engagement to the authoress. Following this comes the revelation that his second love's talent was due to the morphine habit. The ending of the story is surprising.

Horsley, Rev. J. W. Prisons and prisoners. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co., [1899.] 4+233 p. facsimile, D. cl., $1.25. [205

A study of the English prison system, and of the mental, moral, and physical status of prisoners (particularly of juvenile offenders). Some causes of crime are also studied, alcoholism and suicide being especially considered. Effects of education and religion on criminal life are likewise shown. Includes suggestions for reform, and comparisons of American prisons, with a prison calendar, 1577–1878, and the prison statistics (English) of 1896. The period covered is from the middle of the eighteenth century to 1896.

A selection of the voluminous and interesting correspondence of a period celebrated for letter-writing. This inexhaustible material is presented in groups. The choice has been governed by literary rather than historical or even biographical considerations. It is planned to cover the whole century. The volumes will be ultimately arranged according to date, although they are published according as they are finished. Each volume is carefully indexed, and each correspondent has his biography told in a table of dates.

Johnson, R: Brimley, ed. Eighteenth century letters: Swift, Addison, Steele; with an introd. by Stanley Lane-Poole. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1898. 28+251 p. por. D. cl., $1.75. [210

Poems written almost half a century ago. Intended, says the preface, for the patriotic people of America, who hold in grateful remembrance those who fought the battles, framed the Constitution, and administered the government in the early days of the history of our country.

Jordan, Kate, [Mrs. F. M. Vermilye.] A circle in the sand. Bost., Lamson, Wolffe & Co., 1898. c. 4+303 p. D. cl., $1.25. [212

The title signifies a rounded episode in a woman's life; the story is metropolitan, the scenes shifting among the streets, the slums, and the drawing-rooms of a great city. The author portrays the young broad-minded professional woman at her desk in the editorial office of a great "daily" and in her modest home. She paints her as specially womanly, with none of the unattractive characteristics of the so-called "new woman." A love-story of rare charm is interwoven with descriptions of a miners' strike and other episodes.

An elementary text-book, prepared with the view of putting before the student only those facts which are absolutely necessary to enable him to identify the common minerals in rock sections. In foot-notes references are made to standard publications, in which are given details of the methods of investigation outlined in the text. The microscopic and optical characters are given in the order in which they would follow if examined by a petrographical microscope. The order followed for minerals is essentially that of Rosenbusch (based on the symmetry of crystalline form). Minerals are grouped according to their common optical characteristics.

Describes physical features, climatic conditions, inhabitants, productions, resources, and industries, etc., of the territory acquired through the Spanish-American war. Intended as an elementary text-book.

Oxenham, J: God's prisoner: a story. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. '97, '99. 5+314 p. D. cl., $1.25. [228

A story concerning partners in a large English business firm doing extensive trade in China is combined with an exciting tale of piracy, buried treasure, and romantic love upon an island which furnishes all things required, even to reading matter, in true "Robinson Crusoe" abundance. The author shows great ingenuity in puzzling his characters and his readers. The descriptions of sea voyages are exciting and enough happens to make many volumes. God's prisoner is a hero who escapes human justice. Ends happily.

Paston, G: A writer of books. N. Y., D. Appleton & Co., 1899. 2+344 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 256.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [229

Until she was twenty-two the heroine lived in an English library with a father whose interest centred chiefly in the Reign of Terror, upon which subject he had collected far beyond the limits of library funds. Knowing nothing of life except as she had read of it in heterogeneous and undigested literature, Cosima came to London to become "a writer of books." During the first days of natural disappointments with real life she married an average man whom she had known as a boy. He was good to her, but utterly failed to understand her. Comprehension she received from a brother and sister who made studies at the British Museum and knew books as she did.

Scenes are laid in New Hampshire, Boston, and New York. The "gay deceiver" assumes a protectorate over an inexperienced youth ostensibly to guard him from the evils that had beset his own youth. A choleric and dyspeptic old gentleman plays a leading part.

Porter, Rose. A daughter of Israel. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1899. 4+211 p. S. cl., 75 c. [233

Elisheba, Daughter of Jepthah, is the heroine. According to Old Testament history, when Jepthah returned from warfare with the Ammonites, he vowed that whosoever came forth to meet him would be offered as a burnt offering. His daughter, coming out of the house, is sacrificed as described. The sad story is retold for the purpose of showing the spiritual motive of the sacrifice.

Price, Ella Perry. The cry heard. Cin., O, Curts & Jennings, [1899.] c. 2+331 p. il. D. cl., $1. [234

A missionary story written for the evident purpose of interesting young people in the mission cause, and of training their minds and hands for practical missionary work.

Raimond, C. E., [pseud. for Eliz. Robins.] The open question: a tale of two temperaments. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. '98. 8+523 p. D. cl., $1.50. [235

A serious novel dwelling on the problems of heredity. One "open question" is "Should the ardent, mutual love of two human beings be trampled under foot and their happiness destroyed because their marriage would probably entail physical and mental misery upon generations yet unborn?" The scene is chiefly laid in an Ohio settlement and the action takes place in an old manor-house inhabited by a southern woman who has ruled three generations with a rod of iron. The real heroine is her granddaughter, whose childhood is described with literary skill. The details all work into a story advocating the survival of the fittest and leaving suicide a second "open question."

Reeves, W: Pember. The long white cloud Ao Tea Roa. [N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co.,] 1898. 12+430 p. il. map, O. cl., net, $2.50. [236

Ao Tea Roa is the Maori name for New Zealand. A concise history of New Zealand, that deals with the picturesque side as well as the official characteristics of the colony. Gives a full account of its history from the discovery to present time. The work is based on a previously published sketch, which has been revised and enlarged. Besides describing the physical features of the country the author deals with the Maoris, the modes of warfare, navigation, the Provinces and public work policy, etc., and other social conditions

Remington, F: Sundown Leflare; written and il. by F: Remington. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. 4+115 p. D. cl., $1.25. [237

A collection of five short stories, with twelve illustrations by the author. Sundown Leflare is the central character, and the tales are told in tepee or around the camp-fire, in Sundown's Indian patois. Their subjects are his experiences and adventures, and they are tinged with a mystical Indian superstition. They give some conception of the Western Indian's attitude towards the white man, his idea of religion, and an interesting glimpse of a modern Indian's wooing.

Routh, E: J: Treatise on dynamics of a particle; with numerous examples. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 11+417 p. 8°, (Cambridge University Press ser.) cl., net, $3.75. [238

Rudiger, M. Waldtraut: according to the chronicle of the Pastor of Hinrichshagen; tr. by Corinth Le Duc Crook; il. by Dorothy Cole. Chic., H. S. Elliott, 1898. c. 2+285 p. D. buckram, $1.25. [239

The story is told in the diary of a young priest sent to a lonely German parish in the year 1405, when the first stirrings of Protestantism were following the death of Wyclif. Waldtraut was the daughter of a gypsy mother who became the nurse of the squire's son born upon Waldtraut's birthday. The life of the German peasants is poetically described.

Savage, R: H: The White Lady of Khaminavatka: a story of the Ukraine. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1899.] c. '98. 370 p. D. (Rialto ser., no. 84.) pap., 50 c. [240

Symons, Arthur. Aubrey Beardsley. [N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co.,] 1898. 4–32 p.+3 pors. and il. sq. O, bds., net, $1.25. [250

Symons met Beardsley in the summer of 1895, when he had been expelled from the staff of the "Yellow Book," and secured his ideas, enthusiasm, and highly original talent for the "Savoy," the new rival of the "Yellow Book." Beardsley was already very ill, and his great ambition was to fill his few working years with the immediate echo of a great notoriety. The temperament, self-admiration, petulant self-assertion, literary ability, immense capacity for work, etc., of this man, whose work ended at twenty-six, are studied and explained by the author with sympathy and enthusiasm. Includes three portraits: 1, after a painting by Jacques Blanche; 2, after a photograph by F. Hollyer; and 3, after a photograph by W. J. Hawker.

Tait, P: Guthrie scientific papers. V. 1. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. 14+498 p. 4°, (Cambridge University press ser.) cl., net, $6.50. [251

Tenney, Asa Wentworth. The young man of yesterday: an inspiration to the young man of to-day; with an introd. by D: Gregg, D.D. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., [1899.] c. '98. 62 p. D. (Little books for life's guidance.) leatherette, 50 c. [253

Judge Tenney was born in New Hampshire in 1833, and died in December, 1897. He specially tried to impress upon young men their privileges, duties, and responsibilities. He looked upon the age of thirty-three as "the table-land of man's activity." In this little book he speaks of the young men of history in every walk of life and tells what they strove for and accomplished at this age.

Thackeray, W: Makepeace. Works; with biographical introductions by his daughter, Anne Ritchie. Biographical ed. In 13 v. V. 10, The Virginians: a tale of the last century; il. by the author. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. 6–809 p. por. O. cl., $1.75. [254

Todd, Marg. G., M.D., ["Graham Travers," pseud.] Windyhaugh. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. '98. 6+418 p. D. cl., $1.50. [255

Windyhaugh is the name of a castle situated in an outlying rural district of Edinburgh. The heroine first appears as a small child tormented with religious fears, produced by the teachings of her Calvinistic grandmother. Her father is a man of the world who all through her life continues to put her in wrong positions. The book is a plea for womanliness and goodness aside from all intellectual gifts, formulated creeds, conventionalities, etc. The great benefit to the world of right living is the theme which runs through a story of decided originality.

Walker, Francis A. Discussions in education; ed. by Ja. Phinney Munroe. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. '98. 5+342 p. O. cl., $3. [256

Papers and addresses edited in accordance with the expressed intention of the late president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The material is grouped under the headings, Technological education; Manual education; The teachings of arithmetic; College problems. In the first division, immediate problems of technological education are considered with other weighty questions of the subject. In the second, important issues of industrial education are discussed. Group number three is devoted to methods of teaching arithmetic, and number four treats of college athletics, study of statistics, normal training, and other timely topics. Index.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 4, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A "LEAKAGE" IN PUBLISHING EXPENSES.

A SOURCE of "leakage" in the expenses of the publishing business has recently been discovered which, though it may amount to very little in each single instance, aggregates to considerably more in a year than most retailers would be ready to believe. It is the common practice for out-of-town buyers to have their parcels sent to some central firm for enclosure. This has always been done without question, notwithstanding the fact that it may cost the publisher almost as much to send out a single book for enclosure as to mail it direct to the customer, the difference being that in one case the postage would be charged to the customer, while in the other no charge is made. It is not probable that any retail bookseller deliberately does this with the intention of making the cost fall on the publisher rather than on himself. It is much more likely that he imagines that there is no cost entailed in sending it to another store in the same city, and hopes thereby to save expense, without cost to anyone. Neither is there any desire on the part of the publishing trade to seem unaccommodating, and complaint is not made against those whose orders are large, but only in the case of small orders, where the profit is very slight at best, and such expenses in handling often more than eat it up.

One large publishing house is about to take the initiative, and will notify the trade that on all parcels sent out for enclosure which do not amount to one dollar net in value a small charge will be made for delivery. Should this rule be generally adopted it may possibly call a halt on the growing practice of shopkeepers who deliberately keep no stock, but offer to supply every known book on demand—at the expense of the publisher. It may also stiffen the backbone of the half-hearted bookseller who habitually underestimates the purchasing capacity of his customers, and almost every second or third day for months sends to the publisher for single copies of the same new book, instead of ordering from the travellers a quantity sufficiently large to supply a demand he should be able to estimate, if he has intelligently studied his constituency.

BIBLIOGRAPHERS have been sufficiently bothered and readers correspondingly perplexed by the change of titles of existing books when reprinted in new editions without the latest development on the part of two enterprising publishers recorded elsewhere in this issue. In one case a new book has been issued under two different titles with two different imprints, although it is not improbable that the two imprints represent really the same publisher; and in the other case the same book has been issued with different titles under identical publishers' imprint. This is a flagrant abuse, extending almost to self-confessed fraud, and should receive the severe condemnation of booksellers, librarians, and the reading public. In connection with this it may be well to emphasize again the importance of greater clearness, and in some cases greater honesty, in the use of the word "edition." It would be much to the benefit of all concerned with books if publishers would use the word "edition" to designate a new form of book, the word "revision" to indicate changes in text, and the word "thousand" to denote the number of copies published. This practice on the part of the best publishers would greatly facilitate accurate bibliographical record, and would indirectly be of service to all who handle and buy books.

WORK OF THE COPYRIGHT OFFICE.

THE following, relating to the work of the copyright office during the past year, is extracted from the "Report of the Librarian of Congress for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1898," presented by the late John Russell Young on December 12, 1898:

TITLE ENTRIES OF WORKS COPYRIGHTED.

By the amendment of the copyright law of 1891, Congress made it the duty of the Librarian of Congress to prepare a weekly catalogue of all books and other articles for which copyright had been granted. This publication was designed, primarily, to serve the collectors of customs in the prevention of the illegal importation of copyright works. To render it more useful for this purpose and give it special bibliographical value, the articles catalogued have been classified, and each issue provided with a complete index of copyright proprietors. The work is edited and arranged so as to comply strictly with the law, which requires that it should contain a complete transcript of the title entry, and that each title should state the name of the copyright proprietor, the date and number of the copyright entry, and the date of the receipt of the copies deposited to complete the copyright.

This publication is of special importance as the official, contemporaneous record of the growth of American literature and American art. Its value in this particular is not only current, but permanent; as a historical record of the first production of the books and other articles recorded, its usefulness to the student will increase with time. Every effort has been made to improve it as a chronicle of current literature. The titles are prepared with completeness and arranged for ready reference. Care is taken also to number each title so that statistics can be obtained of the annual intellectual and artistic progress of the nation. Some idea of the volume of this productiveness is conveyed by the mere statement that this catalogue of title entries for a single year requires four octavo volumes of 1000 pages each.

FOREIGN COPYRIGHT ENTRIES.

By the act of March 3, 1891, amending the copyright law, the privilege of copyright protection in the United States was extended to the citizens of such foreign countries as granted copyright to Americans upon equal terms with their own citizens.

This enactment, which was the result of an awakened sense of the justice due to foreign authors and artists, has not only secured commendation from right-minded people the world over, but it has proved a source of revenue to the Government, as well as advantage to the library. During the last fiscal year the entries of titles of works by foreign authors amounted to something over one-tenth of the total number of entries for the year, there being 7731 foreign entries to 67,814 by citizens of the United States, out of a total of 75,545. A comparison of fees received during the same period makes an even more favorable showing for the foreign entries, owing to the fact that a double fee is charged. The total amount of copyright fees earned and paid into the Treasury for the fiscal year 1897–98 reached $55,926.50, of which amount $45,711 were fees for American books and other articles, while $8342 were earned by recording the titles of foreign products. The sum represents more than one-fifth of the entire amount of the annual cost of running the copyright office.

The operation of the act of March 3, 1891, not only results in thus adding to the Treasury reserve, but it is also a source of distinct gain to the library, owing to the statutory requirement that two copies of each book, or other article, copyrighted shall be deposited in the library in order to complete the copyright. Thus the 7731 foreign entries made in the copyright office during the last fiscal year have resulted in a large and valuable accession to the library of books and engravings, as well as to maps, music, and other articles. As the law requires the American manufacture of all books copyrighted, only such foreign works as are of sufficient importance or popularity to justify the expense of the double production thus rendered obligatory are reproduced and copyrighted, the result being that these foreign books form an exceptional body of literature. Thus the library has obtained, gratis, handsome editions of the works of Kipling, Stevenson, George Meredith, Balzac, Bulwer-Lytton, etc.; éditions de luxe of Tennyson and Voltaire; the important biographical edition of Thackeray's complete works; books by Carlyle and Morley; editions of the classics, and valuable works in the domains of science, medicine, and the law.

THE COPYRIGHT DEPARTMENT.

The articles deposited in compliance with copyright law are as follows—the enumeration being from July 1, 1897, to September 30, 1898.

July, 1897, to September, 1898.

1. Books:
(a) Books proper (volumes)	6,986
(b) Miscellaneous articles entered under the term "book," as used in the copyright law, e.g., circulars, leaflets, etc	6,001
(c) Newspapers and magazine articles	4,279
2. Dramatic compositions	464
3. Periodicals (numbers)	16,400
4. Musical compositions	20,687
5. Maps	1,640
6. Engravings, prints, etc	4,136
7. Chromos and lithographs	1,077
8. Photographs	8,492
9. Miscellaneous (unclassified articles)	376
Total	70,538

Of each of the above, two copies were deposited, making a total number of articles	141,176
Photographs deposited with titles for works of art	1,172
Grand total to September, 1898	142,248

The business for the fifteen months from July 3, 1897, may be briefly summarized as follows:

1. There have been 98,391 entries of copyright.

2. There have been collected and paid into the Treasury $64,455 as fees for copyright business.

3. Letters to the number of 36,376 containing remittances have been received.

4. We have received 21,528 orders for the payment of money, which was paid into the Treasury. This included 14,521 money orders, 1352 drafts, and 938 express orders for money.

There have been drawn 2075 checks, which were mailed to persons to whom excess fees or unused fees were to be returned, and for each check thus drawn an index card has been made, giving a concise statement of the transaction requiring the refund.

Previous to October 21, 1897, no record was kept, but from that date to September 30, 1898, inclusive, 58,452 letters and postal cards have been received. Deducting the 29,931 letters containing money remittances, there remain 28,521 miscellaneous letters and postal cards, mainly letters of inquiry.

From November 5, 1897, the practice was begun of making an index card for each important letter, giving such letters a consecutive number and putting on the card the name and address of sender, date of writing and receipt, with a brief of the contents of the letter. Up to September 30, 1898, 21,526 of these invaluable index cards have been made, and a corresponding number of letters have been read, answered, and filed.

No exact record of the mail despatched from the copyright office was kept prior to March 1, 1898; but from March 1 to September 30 of this year (seven months, only) the total number of articles, letters, certificates, postal cards, parcels, etc., sent out reaches the grand total of 56,636, or more than 8000 per month.

From July 27, 1897, to September 30, 1898, 36,726 receipts for moneys received have been mailed.

Thirty-two thousand eight hundred and ninety copyright certificates have been mailed up to September 30, 1898.

Copyright entries to the number of 55,625 have been recorded and revised.

One thousand four hundred and twenty-seven assignments of copyright have been certified.

One hundred and forty-two thousand two hundred and forty-eight articles—books, maps, music, engravings, photographs, etc.—have been received as copyright deposits from July 1, 1897, to September 30, 1898, and were properly stamped, numbered to correspond with the number of date and entry, credited, and disposed of.

Seventy thousand six hundred and twenty-four articles, duplicate copies, have been transferred to the other departments of the Library.

In addition, 800 first copies of books have been transferred to the reading-room by order of the Librarian.

The weekly catalogue of title entries provided by law has included, from July 1, 1897, to September 30, 1898, 71,710 articles—books, maps, music, engravings, etc.

One hundred and forty-three thousand four hundred and twenty cards have been made to secure the printing of this catalogue, and these cards have been added to the general index to the copyright business.

Four volumes of the catalogue, averaging a thousand pages each of closely printed octavo, have been printed, and the fifth volume is two-thirds through the press.

The applications for copyright and accompanying documents number about 80,000 yearly. These require much handling in the process of passing through the office, and we have just been supplied with suitable boxes in the way of furniture. After final recording, these documents must be filed away for future use, as they are frequently needed for reference. We are now obliged to tie them up in paper parcels, which is an unsafe as well as unsatisfactory method of disposal, and, when the loss of time is taken into account, it is not economical. A sufficient number of strong pasteboard boxes should be provided out of the furniture fund for holding the accumulation of titles.

Of the 142,000 deposits, a large proportion are of such nature as maps, engravings, photographs, and miscellaneous articles, difficult to handle and keep track of because of their size and form. Some special furniture should be devised and provided to aid us in the task of managing this material, not only with celerity and accuracy, but so that the articles shall not be injured. This last consideration is of importance, as these articles will become assets of direct value.

The publishers, as a rule, show every reasonable desire to comply exactly with the requirements of the copyright law in the matter of depositing duplicate copies. The importance of fulfilling the statutory stipulations is realized, and especially that it would be a questionable economy to risk throwing doubt upon the validity of the copyright entry for the sake of saving the cost of the two copies.

Moreover, a commendable liberality is shown in regard to the Library of Congress. When extra copies have been sent to the copyright department through inadvertence, their return is rarely requested. In other cases, where a single volume of a set of books has been copyrighted, in which event a strict compliance with the law would only require the deposit of two copies of the exact volumes copyrighted, two complete copies [sets] have been deposited.

It should be always borne in mind, when considering the apparent discrepancy between the entries in any one year and the actual deposits, first, that a certain number of entries are accidental duplications, in which cases only one of the entries is required to be completed by the deposit of copies; second, that a great many entries are made of titles of projected works, many of which are never written, and many others only after the lapse of considerable time—months, or even years—in which cases usually new entries are made and completed by deposits, leaving the original entries apparently incomplete. It is agreeable to bear testimony to the prompt desire expressed to make the required deposits when a failure to do so has been pointed out, even in cases of entry made twenty or more years ago, and any failure to comply with the law is due to inadvertence or ignorance.

FOR FREE PAPER PULP.

SEVERAL reasons were given on January 30 to the President and to the members of the American-Canadian Joint Commission by a committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association for the removal of the duty on paper pulp. The users of news paper seek to gain something from the conditions that favor the removal of a tax that brings the Government a mere bagatelle of revenue, they favor the protection of American spruce forests by granting an opportunity to use the spruce forests of Canada, and they desire to be released from the burden of a great combination in paper-making that helps to maintain prices above what they would be if the restrictions were removed.

Strong efforts will be made to impress upon the Joint Commission the propriety and advantage to both nations of the putting of paper pulp on the free list. When the paper-makers of the United States are making paper so cheaply that they are able to outsell British manufacturers in their own markets, and can send news paper to Japan and sell it there at a profit, it is assumed by the users of printing paper in the United States that the necessity for a duty to protect the American manufacturers cannot easily be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the commissioners from either side of the Canadian boundary.

OTHER PAPER MILLS TO JOIN THE "TRUST."

JOHN E. SHIBLEY, representing Lee Hibbinson & Co. and other Boston bankers, left Cincinnati on January 21 for the East, after securing options on the printing-paper mills in the Miami Valley between Cincinnati and Dayton. These mills will go into the trust formed in Massachusetts with $42,000,000 of capital stock. It is thought that the Harding mills of Franklin, the Friend Mills at West Carrollton, and the Aetna at Dayton, will be included in the combination that will absorb the forty writing-paper mills of the country. The Warren Mills will be appraised in the near future. It is stated that Shibley secured options on the mills in Wisconsin and Michigan before he visited the Miami Valley district.

THE INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY has just completed the biggest deal since its organization. It has purchased outright fourteen mills engaged in the manufacture of paper and pulp outside the combination. These mills represent the chief opposition which the print paper trust has had to encounter. The trust has now almost undisputed possession of the print paper industry. The fourteen mills purchased represent a capacity of 122 tons of print paper and 168 tons of wood pulp per day. Negotiations for the purchase of these properties have been pending for months. The International Company will take hold at once. The names of the companies and the number of mills owned by each are as follows: Wilder & Co., Ashland, N. H., two mills; Wilder & Co., Barnet, Vt., one mill; Olcott Falls Company, Wilder, Vt., two mills; Remington Paper Company, Watertown, N. Y., six mills; C. R. Remington & Son, Watertown, N. Y., two mills; the H. Remington & Son Pulp and Paper Company, Black River, N. Y., one mill.

The International Company has also bought the plants of the Moosehead Pulp Company at Solon, Me., a fifty-ton ground wood mill, which is important to the combination chiefly because of its water-power facilities. It has also bought the Misterlich patents and has secured control of the Russell patents, which give it practical control of the best methods for manufacturing sulphite pulp. Outside of these two patents there is said to be only one other method of making sulphite that amounts to anything.

SOCIETY FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF VICE.

THE Executive Committee of the Society for the Suppression of Vice held its annual meeting on January 31 at Association Hall, New York, Twenty-third Street and Fourth Avenue. The session was an executive one. Anthony Comstock read his report, showing that during the year the society had paid off an indebtedness of over $3000 in addition to meeting all bills and expenses. The report also showed that the society had made sixty-five arrests, fifteen prisoners were tried in the Federal courts, and the remainder in the State courts. Forty-one persons were convicted and thirty-seven sentenced. 5265 pounds of indecent books and pamphlets and 2714 pounds of obscene pictures were destroyed.

COPYRIGHT NOTICES.

HAS AN AUTHOR PROPERTY RIGHTS TO HIS WORK BEFORE COPYRIGHT HAS BEEN PERFECTED?

A NOVEL point of law has been raised before Judge Seaman of the Federal Court, Chicago, Ill., in the case of John Maxwell vs. Nat C. Goodwin for alleged piracy of the play "Congress." The point raised by Attorney F. F. Reed, representing the defendant, is that an author has no property rights to his work until the copyright has been perfected.

TO TAKE ROSTAND'S TESTIMONY.

A FEW weeks ago the people of two continents were laughing over what seemed the preposterous claim of a "Chicago man" that he was the real author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," and that Rostand was nothing but a very clever plagiarist. Judge Grosscup, of the United States Circuit Court, at Chicago, however, takes a more serious view of the claim of S. E. Gross, and has confirmed the commission agreed upon by the attorneys in the case of S. E. Gross vs. A. M. Palmer, Richard Mansfield, and others, by which two English attorneys in Paris are authorized to take the deposition of Edmund Rostand. If M. Rostand so wills, they will meet him before one of Consul-General Gowdy's properly accredited attachés on the 9th inst. The answers to the questions of the commissioners will be forwarded to the United States court at Chicago as soon as they have been translated into English.

A NEW MOVE IN THE SUIT TO PROTECT THE "AUTOCRAT OF THE BREAKFAST TABLE."

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," secured a victory on January 23 (although it may be only temporary) over the autocracy of the Supreme Court of the United States. An edition of the book was published by George B. Hurst and Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., as executor for his father, began a suit for damages under the copyright law. The facts appearing in the briefs of counsel are that the "Autocrat" first appeared in the Atlantic Monthly from November, 1857, to October, 1858. On November 2, 1858, a copyright was issued to Dr. Holmes on the book in its entirety, but no effort was made to copyright the parts as they appeared from month to month. The lower courts decided that the publication of all the parts of the work separately was a "publication" within the meaning of the copyright law of 1831, in force in 1858, and therefore that no ground of complaint lay against the defendant. Judge Holmes brought the case to the Supreme Court, and it was recorded January 19, just a few minutes before the hour for adjournment arrived, and Rowland Cox, counsel for the Holmes heirs, began his opening argument, speaking about a quarter of an hour. The next morning when court reconvened Mr. Andrew Gilhooly, counsel for Hurst, in answer to a question, stated that he did not desire to address the court, therefore the Chief Justice notified Mr. Cox and the case was canceled and he was shut off from finishing his argument. This was a radical departure from the practice of the court, and on the 23d ult. the Chief Justice announced that the case had been restored to the docket for "reargument."

CHANGED TITLES.

Two remarkable instances of books being published simultaneously with entirely different titles are reported by a correspondent to the January Library Journal. The first book in question is Murat Halstead's "Our New Possessions," published by the Dominion Pub. Co., of Chicago, and also issued (an exact duplicate except title) as "The Story of the Philippines," by a firm styling itself "Our Possessions Pub. Co.," of the same city, which is possibly the same firm under another name. The second book, issued almost at the same time, is "The Sexual Instinct, its uses and dangers as affecting heredity and morals," by J. F. Scott, published by E. B. Treat & Co., of New York, which also appeared simultaneously under the title "Heredity and morals as affected by the use and abuse of the sexual instincts." The reissue of an old book under a new name is a practice with which most bookbuyers are familiar, but the simultaneous issue of the same book under two titles is a curious variation of the scheme. The changes were evidently made in the desire to attract different classes of readers, and it is likely that the authors are to be acquitted of any share in the deception. Dr. James Foster Scott, author of the Treat book, is a Yale alumnus, and stands high in the medical profession.

ARTHUR PATERSON, author of "The Gospel Writ in Steel," is stated on the title-page of that novel to be also the author of "A Son of the Plains" and "The Man from Snowy River." The former statement is correct, but "The Man from Snowy River" is the work of Mr. A. B. Paterson, an entirely different person. The error is said to have been due to carelessness in passing the title-page for press, and it is corrected in a statement issued by Messrs. A. D. Innes & Co., Mr. Paterson's publishers.

CANTON'S "W. V.'s Golden Legend," was published in England originally as "Child's Book of Saints."

OBITUARY NOTES.

CLARK W. BRYAN, known throughout the country through his long connection with many publications, committed suicide by shooting, at his home in Springfield, Mass., on January 23. Since the death of his wife a few years ago, followed by business reverses that occasioned his failure, his proud spirit and hopeful disposition seemed to have been crushed, and many times he said he wished he might die. Bryan was born in Harpersfield, N. Y., August 12, 1824. After attending the public schools, he in 1841 entered the office of the Catskill Messenger, then published by his brother, William Bryan. He remained there until 1845. Afterwards he worked in Hudson, N. Y., and also in New York City as a journeyman printer. Some time between 1846 and 1852 he became connected with the late J. D. Cushing in the publication of the Berkshire Courier, of Great Barrington In 1852 he entered the office of the Springfield Republican, taking a position in the editorial department. Later he was employed in the business department, and was made a partner in the firm of Samuel Bowles & Co. In 1872 he became connected with the Springfield Union. He was later associated with his son, James A. Bryan, in publishing the Berkshire Courier. He established the Paper World on January 1, 1880, at Holyoke. In May, 1885, he established Good Housekeeping; in 1889 he became the publisher of Amateur Gardening, all of which publications later parted from his hands.

CHARLES SEYMOUR ROBINSON, D.D., died in New York on the 1st inst. He was born in Bennington, Vt., March 31, 1829. In 1855 he became pastor of the Park Presbyterian Church in Troy, N. Y. Five years later he was called to the First Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn. In 1868, owing to the illness of his wife, he went abroad and was invited to the American Chapel in Paris. In 1871 Dr. Robinson returned and became pastor of the Memorial Presbyterian Church of New York, afterwards the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. He resigned the charge in 1887 and had not since been regularly connected with any church for any length of time. Dr. Robinson was the author of many books on religious subjects, but was best known through his hymn-books, among which are "Laudes Domini," "Songs of the Church," "Songs for the Sanctuary," "Psalms and Hymns," and "Spiritual Songs." Among his other books are "Studies of the New Testament" and "Simon Peter: His Life and Times."

HENRY SEDLEY, a well-known literary man, died in New York City on January 25. He was born in Boston in 1829, and when a young man was an actor. He practised law in San Francisco for some time. Thirty years ago he was dramatic critic for the New York Times, and subsequently held a similar position on the Evening Post. He was editor in chief of The Round Table for three years, and was in charge of The Commercial Advertiser for two years. His last active connection with newspaper work was as a member of the editorial council of the New York Herald from 1885 to 1888. He had recently written on various subjects for the London Spectator, and for Harper's Monthly and Harper's Weekly. He was the author of "Dangerfield's Rest, a Romance," and "Marion Rooke, or, the quest of fortune." In May, 1891, he was appointed a member of the Board of Civil Service Examiners for the customs district of New York.

CHARLES FAYETTE TAYLOR, M.D., one of the leading orthopedic surgeons of the country, died January 25, at Los Angeles, Cal. He was born at Williston, Vt., April 25, 1827. He was graduated from the medical department of the University of Vermont in 1856, and soon after came to New York to practise, devoting himself mainly to deformities and cripples. He invented several surgical appliances still in use, and wrote medical books dealing with his specialty. Among his better known books are "The Theory and Practice of the Movement Cure," "The Mechanical Treatment of the Spine," and "The Mechanical Treatment of Hip Joint Disease."

ROBERT BRINCKERHOFF FAIRBAIRN, D.D., a well-known theologian and educator in the Episcopal Church, and formerly president of St. Stephen's College, Annandale-on-the-Hudson, died at the home of his daughter in Brooklyn, N. Y., January 27. He was born in New York City in May, 1818, and as a youth was employed as a clerk in a bookstore. His theological writings are well known, among the more important of them being "The Child of Faith," and "Doctrine of Morality in its Relation to the Grace of the Gospel."

BENJAMIN EASTWOOD, rector emeritus of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Pawtucket, R. I., died there January 26. He was born in Lancashire, Eng., July 4, 1825. He wrote a book entitled "Trials and Triumphs Among the Lowly," and a work on "Cranberry Culture."

ADOLPHE PHILIPPE D'ENNERY, a well-known French playwright, and author of "The Two Orphans," and "A Celebrated Case," died in Paris, January 25. He was born in Paris on June 17, 1811, of Jewish parents.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Newsdealers' Booksellers' and Stationers' Monthly is the title of a new publication issued from 28 Lafayette Place, New York City, under the auspices of the National Association of Newsdealers, Booksellers, etc.

THE February issue of McClure's Magazine contains a poem of considerable length by Rudyard Kipling. It is entitled "The White Man's Burden," and has evidently been called forth by the colonial development of the United States.

THE Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants has begun the publication of a quarterly magazine under the name of The Mayflower, "a Quarterly Magazine devoted to the History and Genealogy of the Mayflower Passengers and their Descendants." George Ernest Bowman, secretary of the society, 623 Tremont Building, Boston, Mass., is the editor.

THE Paris correspondent of the London Daily Mail says: "Lady Randolph Churchill (formerly Miss Jerome, of New York,) is about to start a magazine on new lines. It will be sumptuously bound and sold at a guinea per copy. Her son, the Hon. Winston Churchill, will assist her in conducting it, and the list of contributors will include Emperor William and other royal personages.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce the publication of a new quarterly journal devoted to the interests of anthropology. This periodical, which has been established under the auspices of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, will be issued under the title of The American Anthropologist (New Series). It will be addressed to the general reader, as well as to the specialist in the study of man; every effort will be made to render it representative of the science of anthropology, and especially of anthropology in America. Each number will contain 200 octavo pages, and will be fully illustrated. The subscription price per year will be $4.00; the price of single numbers will be $1.25.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

IAN MACLAREN has finished his "Life of Christ."

IT is reported that John Morley has been paid $50,000 for writing the "Life of Gladstone."

DEAN FARRAR is supplementing his "Life of Christ" with the outcome of some studies in Palestine.

AUSTIN DOBSON desires it to be known that a much-quoted verse attributed to him satirizing American poets is a forgery.

IT is proposed that the Memorial of William Black take the form of a life-boat, named after him, and stationed in the Hebrides.

MRS. JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG is preparing for publication a compilation of the best writings and letters of her husband, the late Librarian of Congress.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH is writing a popular history of the United Kingdom down to the Reform act of 1832, to be published in the autumn. He says this is the last work he will undertake.

MRS. GERTRUDE ATHERTON, the author of "American Wives and English Husbands," etc., is at present in Washington studying life there for a forthcoming novel on American life and manners.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AKRON, O.—The Werner Company was released formally on the 26th ult. from the charge of the Receiver.

ALBANY, N. Y.—John D. Walker has recently purchased the book business of J. M. Briggs at 172 South Pearl Street, where he will conduct a book, news, and stationery store, and will be pleased to receive catalogues, etc.

DETROIT, MICH.—The book and stationery department of Hudson's Big Store will lose its manager, Miss Mary Boyd Davis, daughter of Mr. James B. Davis, formerly of Utica, New York. She is to be married on February 14 to Edwin Francis Ryan, of Detroit. Miss Davis, who enjoys the distinction of being the youngest manager in her line in the United States, will be missed at the Big Store, where her tact, courtesy, and business ability are recognized and appreciated by a large circle of friends. She has been with the book department for seven years, the last two years having had entire charge as manager and buyer. The happy pair will leave for a Western trip immediately after the ceremony, returning to their new home in Detroit March 15.

JOHNSTOWN, PA.—C. A. Frank has disposed of the stock, fixtures, and good-will of his book and stationery business on Franklin Street to William B. and Joseph L. Waters, who have already taken possession and will continue the business at the old stand. William B. Waters, the senior member of the firm, has been with Mr. Frank for nine years, and is thoroughly conversant with every branch of the business.

LAWRENCEBURG, IND.—Edward Lee has purchased Tom McKim's bookstore.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—H. G. Campbell, bookseller, has leased the Goldsmith store for a term of five years, and will open there about March 15. Mr. Campbell is at present occupying the store at 91 Wisconsin Street, but his business has grown to such a size that he found it necessary to move to a larger store. Three years ago the H. G. Campbell Book Company did business in a news and book stand at West Water Street and Grand Avenue.

NEW YORK CITY.—The sheriff, on January 26, received an execution against the Great Round World Publishing Co., at 3 and 5 West 18th Street, for $1573, in favor of the Jessup & Moore Paper Co. The Great Round World Publishing Co. was incorporated July 27, 1897, with a nominal capital stock of $25,000.

NEW YORK CITY.—William B. Hadley has acquired the interest of E. Roscoe Mathews in the business of Hadley & Mathews, 156 Fifth Avenue, and will continue the business under his own name at the same address.

NEWPORT, ARK.—M. W. Burkett, bookseller, has sold his business to J. H. Fuller.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The trustees of the estate of T. W. Durston have made a final account of such, and a last meeting of the creditors of T. A. and J. F. Durston will be held at the office of C. L. Stone, Referee in Bankruptcy, 921 Onondaga Co. Savings Bank Building, on the 13th inst., at 11 o'clock A.M. The report of the trustee shows no property for distribution.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The following extraordinary circular has just been received by the creditors of Robert H. Merriam, of the insolvent firm of The Merriam Company:

"Notice is hereby given that on the 15th day of December, 1898, the said Robert H. Merriam was duly adjudicated bankrupt, and that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at my office, Room 16, No. 472 Louisiana Avenue, Washington, D. C., on Monday, the 13th day of February, 1899, at four o'clock, P.M., at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

"EDWARD S. MCCALMONT, Referee in Bankruptcy."

The Stationers' Board of Trade has notified its attorneys, and will represent those of its members who may be creditors of the bankrupt.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

E. P. DUTTON & CO. have just ready a new story by Rose Porter, entitled "A Daughter of Israel."

THE HELMAN-TAYLOR CO., Cleveland, will publish "An Anglican Study of Christian Symbolism," by Miss Elizabeth Clifford Neff.

FUNK & WAGNALLS will publish in book form Walter Pulitzer's new novel, "That Duel at the Château Marsanac," which is now running as a serial in The New Voice.

HENRY BLACKWELL, the bookbinder, University Place and Tenth Street, New York, has issued an attractive little pamphlet containing some pertinent "Notes on Bookbinding."

JOHN LANE announces a sequel to "Aylwin," by Theodore Watts-Dunton, entitled "The Coming of Love—Rhona Boswell's Story." This was written before "Aylwin" was published.

GINN & CO. have in preparation an entirely new translation of Saintine's "Picciola," that classic story of the love of a prisoner for a flower, which a new generation of readers will, perhaps, appreciate more when they learn that Napoleon III. read it while a prisoner at Ham, and took great comfort in its beauties of thought and style.

RAND, MCNALLY & CO. have made arrangements with the German publishers of Dr. Henry Kiepert's "Atlas Antiqus;" to control his entire line for the United States. They will shortly publish a new edition of the Students' Series of the "Atlas Antiqus." This work was formerly published in this country by Leach, Shewell & Sanborn.

THE G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY, having secured the American rights, now have in press Le Queux's novel, "If Sinners Entice Thee," and will publish, following it, during the year, "In The Day of Temptation." "The Bond of Black," which is now running serially in some twenty newspapers, will be issued before the close of the year.

THE MERSHON COMPANY, New York City, announce the New Holly Library, in which they have put about 150 popular books, chiefly novels. These volumes are brought out in polychrome paper covers and are printed from new type on good paper. The best-known works of standard authors published in England are included in the new series.

LAIRD & LEE, of Chicago, take a hopeful view of the future of the book trade. They have increased their force in all departments, and are running some of them night as well as day. They have just made sweeping reductions in a number of their popular hand-books and novels, which are intended to benefit especially the smaller dealers who cater to the class who buy such books.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a new edition of Andrews's "Christianity and Anti-Christianity in Their Final Conflict," in which the author takes occasion in the preface to refute his critics who accused him of pessimism, They said he was doubtful of the fight for Christianity. He says he is no pessimist; he merely acknowledges the fight's existence and the existence of an opposing force.

D. APPLETON & CO. will publish an American edition of Frank T. Bullen's clever book, "The Cruise of the Cachalot, or, round the world after sperm whales." Mr. Bullen is the ex-cabin boy, who, like Mr. Hamblen, the engineer, trained himself to write through force of native wit and much good reading. They also have in press the fifth volume of McMaster's "History of the People of the United States."

D. C. HEATH & CO. announce a new textbook in scientific German, Walther's Meereskunde, a very instructive and interesting text, which can also be further recommended for science reading in colleges, because of the large range of sciences—botany, geology, mineralogy, etc., that are incidentally introduced. The book will be excellently illustrated, and is edited by S. A. Sterling, instructor in German in the University of Wisconsin.

FRANCIS P. HARPER, publisher and well-known dealer in scarce and out-of-print books, has purchased the building at 14 West Twenty-second Street, New York City, and will remove May 1 from 17 East Sixteenth Street. The new building will be entirely remodelled and a portion reserved for tenants. The building is a most desirable one for either the book or the publishing business, as the location is one of the choicest in the very centre of both wholesale and retail book trade.

THE SHAKESPEARE PRESS, Westfield, N. J., will publish in March numbers 11 and 12 of the Papers of the Shakespeare Society of New York. No. 12 is entitled, "A Further Study of the Othello; have we misunderstood Shakespeare's Moor?" by Welker Given. No. 12 is a third edition of Appleton Morgan's "Study of the Warwickshire Dialect, with a glossary and notes touching the Edward the Sixth Grammar Schools and the Elizabethan pronunciation as deduced from the puns in Shakespeare's plays."

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will publish at once new and improved issues of the following books, heretofore published by the Willard Tract Repository of Boston: "Bible Readings on the Progressive Development of Youth and Experience in the Books of the Old Testament," "Frank, or, the record of a happy life," and "Holiness as set forth in the Scriptures," all by Hannah Whitall Smith; also, "The Characteristic Differences of the Four Gospels," and "The Law of the Offerings," both by Andrew Jukes.

THIS year the London Academy has split its hundred guinea prize, and instead of "crowning" two books, it has "crowned" three, viz., Sidney Lee's "Life of Shakespeare," Maurice Hewlett's "The Forest Lovers," and Joseph Conrad's "Tales of Unrest." In making the awards the aim, the Academy explains, is "to seek for promise, sincerity, and thoroughness in literary art rather than to acknowledge fulfilment." It is not, therefore, a question of crowning the best books of the year, but of encouraging original talent.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish in the near future Carlyle's letters to his younger sister, Mrs. Jane Hadding; a "Life of Thaddeus Stevens," by Samuel W. McCall; a "Life of Edwin M. Stanton," by George C. Gorham; "Fields, Factories, and Workshops," by Prince Peter Kropotkin; "A Federation of the World," by Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood; "Papias, a study of the second century," by the Rev. Edward H. Hall; "Every-day Butterflies," by Samuel H. Scudder; and "Corn Plants," by F. L. Sargent.

COPELAND & DAY have just ready "By the Way About Musicians," by William Foster Apthorp, being a collection of short essays on music and art in general, taken from the program-books of the Boston Symphony Orchestra which the author has edited since 1892. From the beginning there has been a department in these program-books headed "Entr'acte," in which the editor has been free to print any sort of matter he considered of musical interest to the audience. This material has now been issued in two neat little volumes full of interesting matter for readers of artistic feelings and impulses.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just ready "Discussions in Education," by the late Francis A. Walker, late President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, addresses and papers that have been edited by James Phinney Munroe; "English romanticism of the XVIIIth Century," by Henry A. Beers, consisting of a series of lectures given in elective courses in Yale College; and "Eighteenth Century Letters," edited by R. Brimley Johnson, with an introduction by Stanley Lane-Poole, of which one volume contains letters of Swift, Addison and Steele, and the other letters of Johnson and Lord Chesterfield. A novel by John Oxenham is also ready, entitled "God's Prisoner," a thoroughly original story of a man who escapes human justice, but remains God's prisoner, guarded by his tormenting conscience.

THE Rev. James Brittain Miller, the alleged book thief, who has, it is charged, during the past five years, stolen nearly 5000 volumes from Yale students, professors, and various New Haven libraries, failed to make his appearance in the City Court, New Haven, January 31, to answer the forty-seven separate charges the authorities had prepared against him. His bond, amounting to $1500, was called and forfeited. During the past few days the authorities have discovered new cases against Miller, including burglary and fraudulent use of the United States mails. The local post-office inspector is said to have a good case against Miller, and there is a likelihood that he may still have to stand trial in the Federal courts. When last heard of Miller was in Boston.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish at once K. Waliszewski's "Marysienka-Marie de la Grande d'Arquien, Queen of Poland and wife of Sobieski, 1641–1716," translated from the French by Lady Mary Loyd. It is a somewhat elaborate biography of the little-known but fascinating French woman who became Queen of Poland. They announce for early spring publication a new novel by Amelia E. Barr, entitled, "I, Thou, and the Other One"; a collection of stories by Ira S. Dodd, entitled "The Songs of the Rappahannock;" Ruskin's Letters to Rossetti and others of his Contemporaries (one of the most important contributions to recent Ruskin literature). Joubert's "Thoughts," translated into English, with a preface by Mrs. Humphry Ward; and a new volume of poems by Paul Laurence Dunbar, the author of "Lyrics of Lowly Life."

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co., Boston, will publish on the 21st inst. Washington's Farewell Address, edited by Worthington C. Ford, who is now connected with the statistical department of the Boston Public Library. It will contain a facsimile of the Washington manuscripts. They will also issue a new edition of the New England Primer—not a reproduction, but a reprint for popular use, since it is believed that the little book which served our ancestors so well will be no less useful to our children. They are preparing a volume to be entitled "The Memory of Lincoln," which will contain a selection of the best-known poems which Lincoln inspired. The authors represented will be James Russell Lowell, in a selection from the Commemoration Ode, Tom Taylor with his famous Punch poem, Walt Whitman's splendid tribute, and others by John James Piatt, R. H. Stoddard, George Henry Boker, Herman Melville, Bayard Taylor, Whittier, Stedman, and others. The volume will be edited by M. A. De W. Howe.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly "The Stolen Story," a collection of the newspaper stories by Jesse Lynch Williams, which have appeared from time to time in Scribner's Magazine; "If I were a Man," a novelette by Harrison Robertson, author of that excellent Southern story, "How the Derby was Won"; a new book by George W. Cable, which, under the title of "Strong Hearts," will include the three short stories recently published in Scribner's—"The Entomologist," "The Taxidermist," and "The Solitary." They also announce F. J. Snell's "Literature of the Fourteenth Century"; a "History of Yiddish Literature in the Nineteenth Century," by Leo Wiener, instructor in Slavonic languages at Harvard University; "The Life of Danton," from the French of Hilaire Belloc; two important books of travel—"On the South African Frontier," by William Harvey Brown, and "In the Klondyke, with an account of a winter's journey to Dawson," by Frederick Palmer; and two books on music—"Mezzo-Tints in Modern Music," by W. J. Huneker, and "The Orchestra and Orchestral Music," by W. J. Henderson, the first volume of a new series to be entitled The Music Lovers' Library.

R. H. RUSSELL will issue immediately a profusely illustrated and handsomely bound edition of "Trelawny of the Wells," Arthur W. Pinero's latest comedietta, which is being presented in New York with such distinguished success. "The Story of the Princess des Ursins in Spain," by Constance Hill (Camarera-Mayor,) will also be published at once. This book presents the picture of a brilliant Frenchwoman of the early eighteenth century, who is a central and dominant figure during the turmoil and chaos of the wars of the Spanish Succession. Her history affords glimpses of Spanish and French Court life, the work of the Holy Inquisition, and the intrigues of the time, and forms a live and vital chapter in a period of history of never-ending value and interest. A number of reproductions of admirable contemporary portraits further enrich a work which throughout is most interestingly as well as most carefully written. A new and improved edition of "Phil May's Sketch Book," in new binding is announced; and new editions of "Cyrano de Bergerac," by M. Rostand (authorized translation,) with illustrations by Ernest Haskell; "Sketches and Cartoons"; the Maude Adams edition of "The Little Minister," and the "Maude Adams Souvenir," will also be issued immediately. Mr. Whistler's new book, "The Baronet and the Butterfly," is also announced for publication at an early day.

FREDERICK A. STOKES CO. are making preparations for an active publishing season. Their specialty is fiction, and they will provide a good deal of it of a very good kind in the near future. "The Sturgis Wager," by Edgar Morette, will be a detective story; Stephen Crane's new novel, with illustrations by Will Bradley, will be entitled "War Is Kind"; Tom Hall, the author of "When Hearts are Trumps," has written a new book, to be issued under the title "All Along the Line"; Fred Whishaw's historical novel, "At the Court of Catherine the Great," recently completed in the New York Evening Sun, will be issued as a companion volume to Charles Graham's successful "The Son of the Czar"; Sara Jeannette Duncan (Mrs. Cotes) is to have a novel entitled "Hilda" in this country and "A Harbour City" in England, India, and Australia; and Crockett's new story will be published under the name of "The Silver Skull." Many volumes of fiction and of juvenile literature published last year by the Stokes were very successful, and second editions are already in preparation of Mrs. Cragie's "Ambassador," Baring-Gould's "Domitia," Robert Barr's "Tekla," Morrison's "A Yankee Boy's Success," Miss Sage's "A Little Colonial Dame," and Clinton Ross's "Heroes of Our War with Spain." Outside of fiction the publishers have second editions of Charles Nelan's "Cartoons of Our War with Spain," and of "The Chap Record," the original little book for young girls in which to keep their conquests tabulated.

THE MACMILLAN CO. are already issuing the fourth edition of Prof. Dean C. Worcester's "The Philippine Islands and Their People," which, owing to the author's appointment as a member of the special commission to visit the Philippine Islands, is sure of a speedy sale. In biography the house announces Purcell's "Cardinal Newman as Anglican and Catholic"; "The Life and Letters of Archbishop Benson"; and "The Life and Remains" of Rev. R. H. Quick, edited by Francis Starr, who has shown great discrimination in choosing material to make known the life-work of the great English educator. Of scientific value will be the two final volumes in Allbutt's "System of Medicine"; Part II. of "Experimental Morphology," by Charles Benedict Davenport, instructor in zoölogy in Harvard University; and "The Spirit of Organic Chemistry," by Arthur Lochman, professor of chemistry in the University of Oregon. Two contributions to economics will be "The Development of Thrift," by Wilcox Brown, of the Children's Aid Society, Baltimore, Md.; and "The Theory of the Leisure Class," an economic study in the evolution of institutions by Horstein B. Veblen, of the University of Chicago. "European History, an Outline of its Development," is the title of a work by Prof. George B. Adams, of Yale University; "The Roman History of Appian of Alexandria" has been translated from the Greek by Horace White, and will be published in two volumes; and George Willis Botsford, of Harvard, has completed "A History of Greece for High Schools and Academies." In applied science there will be "A History of Physics, including the evolution of physical laboratories," by Florian Cajori; and "Steam, Gas, and Oil Engines," by John Perry, of the Royal College of Science, South Kensington. Other books announced for early publication are an entirely new edition of Charles Herbert Moore's "Development and Character of Gothic Architecture"; "The Rogue's Comedy" and "The Physician," two plays by Henry Arthur Jones; and "Don Quixote," with the illustrations of Cruikshank, intended for schools, in a translation by John Ormsby.

FOREIGN NOTES.

JOHN LONG, London, will publish at once a novel entitled "Oswald Steele," by Eibbon Berkley, the plot of which turns on Ritualism.

PREPARATIONS are being made at Paris for the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of Racine's death, which falls on April 26.

S. CALVARY & Co., Berlin, have now ready the first volume and the first four parts of the third volume of the "Babylonische Talmud text nach der editio princeps mit varianten nebst übersetzung und erklärungen," edited and translated by Lazarus Goldschmidt. This first complete and critical edition of the Babylonian Talmud will be complete in nine volumes—to be published at the rate of a volume a year.

A. DUCKWORTH & Co., of London, have just published a volume of "New Letters of Walter Savage Landor, private and public," edited by Stephen Wheeler. The publication of these letters has been authorized by Lady Graves-Sawle, to whom most of the correspondence was addressed. The letters cover a period of twenty-five years, and are full of allusions to the political, literary, and social history of a quarter of a century, from 1838 to 1863.

GRANT RICHARDS, London, will publish in March or April Dr. Conan Doyle's new novel "A Duet—with an Occasional Chorus." This story has been withheld from serial publication because it appeared to the author that a work depending, as this does, for its effect upon feeling and atmosphere rather than upon incident is liable to produce a false impression if published in that form. His endeavor is to draw married life and to describe the humors and incidents of the domestic experiences of a young couple of the middle class.

How grievously the censorship galls the Russian book trade we learn from the Vossische Zeitung, whose St. Petersburg correspondent reports that for many weeks many thousand copies of Bismarck's "Gedanken und Erinnerungen" have been lying in all the larger towns of the empire, booksellers being refused permission to sell them. If a bookseller here and there has succeeded in withdrawing a few copies from the prying eyes of the censorship officials, the great majority are still kept under lock and key by the authorities. Even the highest official authority, the Supreme Press Department, dare not authorize the giving out of the books, as they contain matters which are usually erased by the censorship, such as the mention of the assassination of the Emperor Paul—only the sudden death of the Emperor is allowed to be mentioned in public—the candid opinions on the late Chancellor of the Empire, Prince Gortschakoff, etc. So the Supreme Press Department has left to the Minister of Foreign Affairs the decision as to authorization of the sale of the Bismarck Memoirs, and Count Mouravieff will now have to judge if the posthumous work of Prince Bismarck may or may not be read in Russia.

THE STRUGGLING YOUNG AUTHOR.—"I sometimes wonder," said the struggling young author, "if I shall be compelled to wait until I have achieved a name before my contributions will be accepted, and it always makes me think of what a neighbor said about the lady next door, who was always practising, that she never ought to be permitted to touch a piano until she had learned how to play."—N. Y. Sun.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

NEW BOOKS FROM THE MACMILLAN COMPANY

THE STORY OF FRANCE

Vigorous, original, and democratic

From the Earliest Times to the Consulate of Napoleon Bonaparte

By the Hon. THOMAS E. WATSON

Two Volumes, Medium 8vo

Volume I. $2.50

Volume I. From the Settlement by the Gauls to the End of the Reign of Louis XV. Cloth, 8vo, $2.50 Volume II. In Press.

"Now we have what we have long needed, a popular history of France. . . . Mr. Watson's style is eminently the narrative style—clear, readable, and leaving as to each event a distinct impression. The style of presenting facts is that of Guizot, though the one writer is cold-blooded, and the other warm with the vitality of a most modern life."—The Sun, Baltimore, Md.

NEW METHODS IN EDUCATION

Art, Real Manual Training

Nature Study

Explaining processes whereby hand, eye, and mind are educated by means that conserve vitality and develop a union of thought and action.

By J. LIBERTY TADD Director of the Public School of Industrial Art, Member of the Art Club, Sketch Club, and Educational Club, and of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia.

Based on 22 Years' Experience with thousands of children and hundreds of teachers

"A method, reasonable, feasible, and without great cost, adapted to all grades, from child to adult; a plan that can be applied without friction to every kind of educational institution or to the family, and limited only by the capacity of the individual; a method covered by natural law, working with the absolute precision of nature itself; a process that unfolds the capacities of children as unfold the leaves and flowers; a system that teaches the pupils that they are in the plan and part of life, and enables them to work out their own salvation on the true lines of design and work as illustrated in every natural thing."

The Highest Indorsement by educators and teachers still more by parents whose children have had the benefit of this training. James Cuthbert Hall, President Union Theological Seminary, New York: "The latest advance in pedagogic science." Dr. A. E. Winship, editor New England Journal of Education: "Must be of great service to the profession." Prof. Herman T. Lukens, Pennsylvania State Normal School: "A duty to use my influence in helping to make Tadd's methods known." President Dixon, Bible Normal College: "In entire sympathy and delighted with his natural method. Such a clear-cut presentation of eternal principles has long been needed." Talcott Williams, editor Philadelphia Press, speaking for parents: "I have been urging Tadd's methods for seventeen years." Dr. George E. Dawson, Professor of Psychology (Clark University and Bible Normal): "Tadd is working upon sound pedagogical principles, and is utilizing in a most successful manner hitherto almost undiscovered resources of the human mind and body." Dr. W. H. Hailmann: "To each individual, Tadd would afford opportunity to gather strength and insight, as well as stimulus to rise into enthusiastic mastership."

showing children and teachers practicing these new methods or their work. A revelation to all interested in developing the wonderful capabilities of young or old. The pictures instantly fascinate every child, imbuing it with a desire to do likewise. Teachers and parents at once become enthusiastic and delighted over the Tadd methods, which the book enables them to put into practice. Size, 7½ x 10½ inches, almost a quarto; 456 pages, fine plate paper, beautifully bound, in cloth and boards, cover illuminated in gold, weight 4½ pounds. Boxed, price, $3.00. Prospectus free.

An Account of her Destruction in Havana Harbor
THE PERSONAL NARRATIVE OF CAPTAIN
CHARLES D. SIGSBEE, U.S.N.

8vo, 270 pages, richly illustrated. $1.50.

"Every detail, as told by Captain Sigsbee, seems to acquire new interest and meaning."—Portland Times.

The War with Spain was precipitated by the explosion of the Maine, and it is fitting that the memory of so fateful an event should be preserved for posterity by the captain of the battleship. Captain Sigsbee tells his story with a simplicity that emphasizes the impressive facts. While he declares his belief that the explosion was external, he does not attempt to fasten the act on any individual. A series of appendices presents the findings of the Court of Inquiry, and there is a list (not before published) of the dead and wounded members of the crew of the Maine, showing the present location of the remains of such as were identified.

CAMPAIGNING IN CUBA
By GEORGE KENNAN,
Author of "Siberia and the Exile System."

On May 5, 1898, just two weeks after the Spanish-American War broke out, Mr. Kennan started for the front as correspondent for The Outlook. The basis of this book is the material which he contributed to that paper, with revisions and a great deal of new matter. Mr. Kennan is famous for his powers as a descriptive writer, and for his accuracy in gathering facts, and all of these qualities are conspicuous in this interesting volume.

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF LEWIS CARROLL
Author of

No more welcome book could be offered to American readers than the life of the author of the famous "Alice in Wonderland," edited by Lewis Carroll's nephew, and made up largely of the letters and diaries of the author of "Alice." The book contains many interesting explanations of the humor of "Alice," and the illustrations are of extraordinary interest, including a number of portraits of Lewis Carroll taken at different ages; portraits of his family and of his correspondents and friends—Tennyson, the Duke of Albany, Ruskin, Tom Taylor, George MacDonald, Ellen Terry, Sir John Millais—all from photographs by Lewis Carroll himself; illustrations from his diary; sketches from amateur papers edited by him in his boyhood; etc., etc.

THE TWO STANDARDS
An International Romance
By Rev. William Barry, D.D.
Author of

12mo, 513 pages. $1.50.

Dr. Barry has waited twelve years before following up his first success with a new novel. In "The Two Standards" Dr. Barry presents very vividly many phases of English social, artistic, and religious life at the present time. The characters are strikingly lifelike, and the intellectual and moral atmosphere of London at the close of the nineteenth century is reproduced in his pages with remarkable fidelity.

LITHOGRAPHY AND LITHOGRAPHERS
By Joseph Pennell and Elizabeth Robins Pennell
Superbly Illustrated.

Folio, 10½ x 14, with 161 illustrations, including a number of original lithographs. $25.00.

This is a work that will appeal to all lovers of beautiful books, and especially to collectors, artists, art students, and practical lithographers. It is published one hundred years after the invention of lithography, and it tells the story of the growth of the art, while its many illustrations by the masters of lithography, from the earliest days of the art to the present time, add a rare interest and value to its pages. The frontispiece is an original lithograph by Whistler—a portrait of Joseph Pennell—and one of the pictures is a colored lithographic portrait of Gladstone, drawn by J. McLure Hamilton. The edition is limited and orders should be placed early.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

IN REGARD TO

The March "BOOKMAN."

READY FEBRUARY 25th.

DODD, MEAD & CO., the publishers of THE BOOKMAN, are glad to announce that, in addition to the other attractions which they will present to their readers during the year, they have secured a Serial Story of the time of THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, entitled

"Janice Meredith"

By PAUL LEICESTER FORD,

Author of "THE HONORABLE PETER STIRLING," etc., etc.

It has been said more than once that if any man were qualified to write the great American historical novel it is Mr. Ford, for he combines with an intimate knowledge of the subject and period, the power to write a strong, absorbing, and successful novel.

His "Honorable Peter Stirling" is now in its 60th thousand.

The following is a brief description of "JANICE MEREDITH" by an eminent critic who has read the manuscript:

"It is an attempt to do in the North what Thackeray did in the South with 'The Virginians' during the same period. It is a picture of the social life of the people of that time.

"Just as in 'The Virginians' Mr. Ford opens his story with a series of chapters which show us the way in which people thought and acted in 1776 in the State of New Jersey; through the story we hear the hum of the oncoming strife, and by-and-by the story gathers force and impetus as General Washington comes on the scene, and we are introduced to the struggles on Manhattan Island, on the Jersey shore, crossing the Delaware, camping out at Morristown, and so on through the war.

"The interest in the story is strong from the start. The first chapter opens brightly and winningly, and in the second we are brought upon a mystery—and there is nothing that your reader loves so much in a story as a mystery.

"With the introduction of a mystery there also begins to appear an incipient love-story, but both are so dexterously handled that not until the end does the reader know what the end is to be.

"Washington comes repeatedly into the story, and the character of its hero is based on Alexander Hamilton."

"JANICE MEREDITH" begins in the March BOOKMAN (ready February 25th) and will be concluded during the year 1899.

All booksellers and newsdealers should revise their order to the News Company, as the demand will be heavy.

NOTES IN SEASON.

POTTER & PUTNAM CO., 63 Fifth Avenue, New York, announce an attractively gotten up volume, entitled "The Crocus Tragedy," by R. M. Streeter, suitable for an Easter gift. The book is illustrated with photogravures from original drawings, and is printed in two colors on heavy lithograph coated paper.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will issue about the 20th of this month a book by Dr. C. W. Doyle, entitled "The Taming of the Jungle." Dr. Doyle was born at Landour, in the hills of the Himalayas. He lived in India for some years and then went to England to study medicine. His father was killed in the Sepoy war of 1857–58, at the head of a regiment of native cavalry.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish at once Justin McCarthy's "The Story of the People of England in the Nineteenth Century." The work is said to be a picture rather than a record of England's development in all the arts of peace since the close of the great war with Napoleon. Since that time a complete revolution has taken place in all that relates to applied and industrial science. The portraits of the great men who led all these different movements are carefully and vividly drawn, and the object is to impress the mind of the reader with a clear idea of each man and each man's work in that period of English history. They will also publish at once a work on "The Law and History of Copyright in Books," by Augustine Birrell (not Burrell, as previously announced.) The volume is based on a series of lectures recently deliverd by Mr. Birrell at University College, London, where he is Quain Professor of Law.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "Essay on the Bases of the Mystic Knowledge," by E. Récéjac, translated by Sara Carr Upton, a work concerned not specially with Christian mysticism, but with all transcendental methods from the Alexandrian ecstasy down to the last novelties of occultism. The author compares mysticism with other methods of knowing and gives it a place in philosophy. Other books just published include "A Manual of Patrology," by Wallace Nelson Stearns, a concise account of the chief persons, sects, orders, etc., in Christian history from the beginning to the period of the Reformation, with select bibliographical references; "A Short History of Astronomy," by Arthur Berry, of King's College, Cambridge; "The Higher Education," by George Trumbull Ladd, four essays which have appeared in various magazines; and "The Porto Rico of Today," by Albert Gardner Robinson.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. will publish shortly Stephen Bonsal's description of the Cuban campaign from Tampa to the surrender, entitled "The Fight for Santiago," which will contain a number of illustrations from drawings and photographs made on the spot and several large maps; "Through the Turf Smoke," by Seumas [Shamus] MacManus, who is doing for his native Donegal much the same service that J. M. Barrie did for Thrums; "Two Men o' Mendip," a pathetic story of life among the miners in Western England, by Walter Raymond; "The Minister of Carthage," a novelette by Miss Caroline A. Mason, whose stories of ministerial life have won wide popularity; "McTeague," another novel of San Francisco life, by Frank Morris; and "How to Plan the Home Grounds," by S. Parsons, ex-superintendent of parks of New York City, whose book supplies the first authoritative and complete, yet cheap, popular manual on landscape gardening, covering the whole subject, from laying out the yard of the suburban residence to the designing and arrangement of city parks and squares, and the beautifying of the grounds about railroad stations. They have in press for immediate publication a novel by Miss Jane Helen Findlater, called "Rachel." It is an unusual story, tracing the development of Michael Fletcher, a modern prophet, whose wonderful mental and spiritual gifts, and power over his auditors, finally lead him into devious paths. The scene is laid chiefly in Edinburgh, and the sect of the "Foreseers" to which Michael joins himself typifies some of the rather spiritualistic tendencies of religious thought.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted: if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Barry, W: The two standards. N. Y., The Century Co., 1899. c. '98. 9+516 p. D. cl., $1.50. [266

"The title is taken from one of the Exercises of St. Ignatius, the famous parable which is the Christian counterpart of the Choice of Herakles. The problem is as old as the world—the choice between the pleasing evil and the bitter good. The purpose of the book is to trace the progress from indeterminate ease to the crisis which arrives soon or late for every man, when the standard of right and wrong reveals itself as solitary and final. But this is a mere general description: in detail the problem presents itself in a thousand forms. From first to last the history of Marian Greystoke's life is a tissue of problems—from the schwärmerisch girl's longing for the great world, to the final renunciation of the lust of the eyes and the pride of life."—The Academy.

Bateman, May. The altar of life. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1899. 5+299 p. D. (Lippincott's select novels, no. 213.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [267

The heroine's favorite metaphor is that "upon the altar of life we must make constant offering." Having beauty, wealth, and social position, she cheerfully resigns all these and her cherished aims for the love of a man whose past is shadowed. Touched by her self-sacrifice, her lover is eventually converted to her higher ideals, and in turn shows himself capable of self-obliteration. The last act in their unconventional love-story is decidedly the most interesting. The scenes are English.

Mr. S Dodgson Collingwood is a nephew of "Lewis Carroll" and knew him well. In the task which he has completed he has suffered almost from an embarrassment of riches, for Lewis Carroll kept a copy of every letter he wrote, and all that came to him were carefully filed. The book consists in great part of his letters to children, and these are most delightful reading, resembling "Alice" itself, and running over with the drollest nonsense. Lewis Carroll's diary of a tour in Russia and other journals are also drawn upon. Apart from amusing anecdotes and quaint reflections, they show in a most interesting way the incessant ingenuity of his mind. He was full of problems and notions of new games, and all these ideas he noted down.

The daughter of an English clergyman is offered a lucrative position in one of the Balkan provinces as companion to a girl of nineteen. Immediately she discovers a family secret. The girl's supposed father is nearest to the Prince who rules the land, her brother is one of a secret society, The Brothers of the People. Austrian, Russian, and Turkish complications are discussed. The young patriot the heroine finally marries also is a part of the Slavic family secret.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 11, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

WAITING ON CUSTOMERS.

EVERY bookseller's assistant should learn how to wait on several customers at one time, when necessity demands it. In a normal state of affairs it might be unscriptural to endeavor to serve two masters at one and the same time; but on occasions when customers crowd the store, not to be able to engage the attention of more than one customer, means the loss of one or more sales. Politely greeting a waiting customer often suffices to encourage him to tarry. It is not necessary to neglect one customer for another; the knack is simply to entertain as many of those who may be waiting while the customer who is being served is kept busy looking over the books selected for his choice. The small wants of later customers can often be disposed of while the first customer is making up his mind. The pressing question of another may be answered while the clerk's eye is watching the movements and moods of the customer who first engaged his attention. Waiting in a store is very much like waiting for a train. Every incident is welcomed for the sake of whiling away the time; hence the salesman should be prepared to furnish his customers incident or diversion of some kind. If any of those who are waiting are known to the clerk, a new book on a subject in which the customer is known to be interested or a friendly word may help him to wonder how quickly the time of waiting has passed.

A nervous or fussy clerk had better not attempt to become involved with more than one customer at a time, because bungling in such a matter will cause havoc that can possibly never be made good again. Handling customers is an art; handling more than one at the same time without confusion is a fine art which only a self-possessed, suave, and well-posted clerk can master thoroughly; nevertheless, every well-balanced clerk with a good knowledge of his stock and ordinary training should be able in time to approximate even if he cannot attain to perfection in this direction.

THE OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESSES DENY THE CHARGE OF BAD FAITH.

THE following "Memorandum," which has been drawn up at the request of the Delegates of the Oxford University Press and the Syndics of the Cambridge University Press, is published by their authority, and explains itself:

"A statement has been circulated in the American newspapers to the effect that the publication in America of an edition of the Revised Version of the Bible, in which the American preferences hitherto printed in an Appendix have been incorporated in the text, is a violation of the compact made in 1877 between the English University Presses and the American Revision Committee.

"It is desirable that such a statement, imputing dishonourable conduct to the University Presses should not pass unnoticed, and it is necessary to call attention to the precise terms of the Agreement with the American Revisers on this point.

"After protracted negotiations with regard to the cooperation of the American Revision Committee, a Memorandum of Agreement was submitted by the University Presses, 3 August, 1877, and accepted and ratified by the American Committee on the 28th of September following. The 7th Clause of this Agreement stands thus:

> "'The American Committee will in no case interfere with the interests of the two University Presses in the Revised Version as finally settled.
> "'They will do what lies in their power to promote the freest circulation of the editions of the University Presses in the United States, not only by abstaining from issuing any editions of their own, but by recognizing the editions of the University Presses as the authorized editions, and in all proper ways favouring such issues and discouraging irresponsible issues, for the period of fourteen years.'

"There is no compact, express or implied, that the University Presses were prohibited from issuing, if they thought proper, either during the period of fourteen years, or after its expiration, such an edition as has recently been published by them in the United States.

"In ratifying the Agreement the American Committee wisely undertook only to do what lay in their power to protect the interests of the University Presses, and this undertaking they have loyally fulfilled. But they have not of course been able to check the issue of surreptitious editions which appeared as soon as the Revised Version was published in the United States, nor more recently have they been able to prevent Messrs. Thomas Nelson and Sons from announcing and publishing in 1896 a new Series of 'The Revised Bible and Revised Apocrypha,' and drawing attention to the fact that 'These are American made books.'

"In the year 1887 an application was made to the University Presses, by the American Revisers, to issue, for use in America, editions of the Revised Version with the American preferences incorporated in the text, or to allow the Revisers themselves to do so. For some reason the proposal was not entertained, although the Presses were informed that there was a great demand for such editions, which the American Revisers were desirous of meeting before their number was seriously diminished. Several such editions of the Revised New Testament had already been published without authority before 1883.

"At the time that the Agreement was made the University Presses were informed that the American Committee was not incorporated, and would dissolve as soon as the Revision was completed. They have had no intimation from the American Revisers that they were engaged in preparing a revised edition of the Revised Version for use in America, to be published as soon as the term of the Agreement had expired. The preliminary announcement of this edition, dated December 10, 1898, shews that it will be an essentially different work from that which appeared with the deliberate approval of the original Committee in 1881–1885.

"In order to meet the growing demand for editions of the Revised Version with Marginal References, which the Revisers themselves had declined to undertake, the University Presses took steps for the preparation of such editions. For the sake of such American purchasers as might desire it, the marginal references were in one edition adapted to a text in which were incorporated the American renderings hitherto relegated to an Appendix. In dealing with this re-arrangement of material the Presses believe that they were acting strictly within their own rights, and certainly that they were not doing anything in contravention of their Agreement with the American Revision Committee. The Preface indicates that the book does not lay claim to be put forth by the Committee now sitting, or to incorporate in the text any renderings other than those for which the American Revision Committee expressed their final preference at the time of the publication of the Revised Version.

A MEMORIAL TO A COLONIAL PRINTER AND BOOKSELLER.

SUPPLEMENTING the brief mention of the event at the time it occurred, we now give space to fuller details of a part of the exercises at the unveiling of the handsome brass memorial tablet to Christopher Sower (2d) pioneer bishop of the Brethren Church in the United States, and to his father, Christopher Sower (1st), the Colonial printer, on January 1, at the Germantown Church of the Brethren, Main and Sharpnack Streets, Philadelphia. On that occasion an address was made by Charles G. Sower, a lineal descendant of the men honored and the president of the Christopher Sower Company, reviewing the lifework of Christopher Sower (1st), one of the pioneer printers of the American colonies, and printer of the first American quarto edition (in the German language) of the Bible in 1743. The first edition numbered 1200 copies. A second edition (of 2000 copies) was printed in 1763 by his son and namesake, and a third edition (of 3000 copies) in 1776. The third edition is the scarcer in number than the preceding ones, as most of the sheets were used as gun wadding by the British artillerymen, who discovered them in a barn, where they had been hidden for safekeeping.

In the course of his address Mr. Sower spoke of the influence of the early German settlers in developing the commonwealth of Pennsylvania and of the rise among them, both in their native land and in that of their adoption, of religious sects. He then took up briefly the history of those Germans who united themselves with non-resisting sects in their fatherland and who subsequently gladly accepted the invitation of William Penn to come to a province where liberty of worship, according to the dictates of conscience, was guaranteed. Of the life and character of Christopher Sower (1st) he said: "Christopher Sower [or Christoph Sauer, as it was originally written] was born in 1693 in Laasphe, a small town near Witgenstein and Marburg, in Germany. The town remains to this day, probably changed very little since he left it to come to America in 1724.

"But little is known of his ancestors beyond the fact that they were in comfortable circumstances and able to give a good education to their children. In Marburg is a university where Christopher is said to have graduated, after which he spent five years in a great medical dispensary in Halle. There he obtained the medical education of which he made practical use through the remainder of his life in prescribing and compounding remedies and specifics for various complaints and disorders, mainly in this way earning his means of support.

"He was surrounded by a body of earnest religious inquirers in his German home, and so at an early age became filled with the desire for religious liberty which induced so many of his countrymen to come to America. Already he was married, and his son Christopher (2d) was born in Laasphe, Germany, in 1721.

"He was a man of remarkable ingenuity, who thought it his duty and did not hesitate to undertake any employment in which his services were needed and might be useful in a new colony, even though it might be one very different from that in which he had been educated.

"Intercourse with Germany was infrequent at that time, and the early settlers were at times greatly in need of articles that for want of training and materials they could not make for themselves. German books and periodicals, especially almanacs suited to American longitude, were exceedingly difficult to obtain, and also copies of the Holy Scriptures, although these were partially supplied by occasional importations.

"Letters and solicitations were continually sent to friends in Germany, begging them to obtain and send out materials and outfit for printing. At length, in 1738, after much correspondence, a small supply was obtained from old friends in Halle. There being no printers among the German settlers, these materials were placed in the hands of Sower as one most capable of making proper use of them, although he was not a printer 'by trade.'

"Immediately he commenced printing, completing an almanac for 1739, a volume of hymns partially compiled by his talented though eccentric friend, Conrad Beissel, and one or more other works. Any news obtainable on which he might rely he also printed, at first in form of a 'broadside,' and then in a periodical or newspaper form, monthly, and, finally, weekly, until it had a circulation of 4000 copies. In the meantime he continued his regular medicinal business, and the demand for his specifics became so great that long lines of Conestoga teams, waiting their turns for obtaining supplies, would be formed, at certain busy seasons of the year, in front of his place of business.

"Bibles in the German language were difficult to obtain, although, as already stated, a limited number were imported. He became so impressed with the importance of supplying this want that in 1740 he determined to commence the great work of setting the type and printing an edition of the German quarto Bible, which was completed and published in 1743. Stereotyping had not been invented and the magnitude of the undertaking at that time can now be scarcely estimated. Only forms of four pages could be set up at a time, on which the sheets for the whole edition would be printed, when the types were distributed before commencing the next form. Finding his supply of type insufficient even for this, he contrived moulds and commenced casting his own types. He also made paper, compounded his own printers' ink, bound his books, besides various other employments in which his services could be made useful. Indeed, like a sensible immigrant in a new country, he refused no employment in which his ready ingenuity and abilities were needed. He enlarged and increased his business of publishing until his publications in the German and English languages numbered over two hundred different works, mainly of a religious character.

"Open fireplaces, besides consuming wasteful quantities of fuel, did not always fulfil their purpose; so he invented portable six-plate or box stoves, even before Franklin's iron fireplaces were made. He also made tall, eight-day 'grandfather's clocks.'

"About 1752 his only child Christopher (2d), in addition to his clerical duties, began to take active part in the publishing business and preparation of medicines, finally assuming entire charge when his father died in 1758.

The descent of the publishing business of the present firm of Christopher Sower Company is an interesting one. The heritage, according to the American Printer, can be clearly traced to Christopher Sower (1st). He died in 1758, and the business was continued by Christopher Sower (2d), and by him transferred to his son Samuel, whose son subsequently became the well-known type founder of Baltimore. In 1799 David, Sr., another son of Christopher Sower (2d), assumed direction of the business and transferred it to Norristown. He was succeeded in 1816 by his son and namesake, who in 1842 was in turn succeeded by Charles G. Sower, son of David, Jr. In 1844 he transferred his business to Philadelphia, first establishing himself on Vine Street, below Third Street. In 1847 his establishment was removed to the west side of Third Street, below Race Street, where Mr. Sower united with himself William H. Barnes and conducted business under the title Sower & Barnes. The next move of the establishment was to Third Street, below Arch Street. In 1871 a location on Market Street was taken and retained until 1888, first as Sower, Barnes & Co., then as Sower, Barnes & Potts, and, finally, as Sower, Potts & Co. In 1888, just one hundred and fifty years after Christopher Sower (1st) received his printing materials, the business was incorporated under the title Christopher Sower Company. A short time subsequently the location of the establishment was changed from Market Street to 614 Arch Street. Charles G. Sower is president, J. Miles Jamison secretary, and David Bentley treasurer of the Christopher Sower Company.

The tablet measures four feet by two and a half feet, and is handsomely ornamented. It bears the following inscription:

"In memory of Bishop Christopher Sower, Bishop of the Church of the Brethren. Born 1721; deacon, 1747; minister, 1748; bishop, 1753; died, 1784. Only son of Christopher Sower, who was born 1693 in Laasphe, Germany, and came to America 1724. Published first Am. quarto edition of Holy Bible, 1743. Died in Germantown, 1758."

THE STORY OF A GREAT PUBLISHER.*

THE first two volumes relating the history of the great publishing house of Blackwood were noticed in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, November 13, 1897. They had been almost completed by Mrs. Oliphant just before her death, on June 25th of that year. In them she had given the history of the founding of the Blackwood publishing house, and of Blackwood's Magazine, by William Blackwood, and she had decided to devote a third volume to the life and work of John Blackwood, the youngest of the sons who followed their father's profession, and the one to whom the longest life was granted. In this volume Mrs. Oliphant was to have had the aid of a daughter's recollections of the details of the life of an honored father, and much of the material had already been gathered by Mrs. Gerald Porter. Upon the death of Mrs. Oliphant she was persuaded to put her facts into permanent shape, and the result is the present volume, which, while lacking the peculiar charm of all of Mrs. Oliphant's biographical work, has the impress of truth and is full of information of greatest interest. John Blackwood was editor of "Maga" for years, and his associations with almost all the best-known writers of his day have invested his name with special glamour. He was born December 7, 1818, and was the sixth son of William Blackwood. At the age of ten he entered the High School at Edinburgh, where he worked well and obtained many prizes. Latin was his strong point and history his favorite study. At a very early age his father and his brother Alexander discovered in John signs and indications which led them to suppose that of all the family he was the one most likely to assist in lightening their publishing labors in years to come, and in very early days he was jokingly called "the little editor." In early manhood he travelled on the Continent and learned French and German thoroughly. In November, 1838, John Blackwood was placed with Messrs. Whitaker to learn the practical details of the publishing business, and in 1840 he was given charge of the branch of Blackwood business which his brothers had started in Pall Mall. Here he first became known to the literary world as the representative of a well-known name, and formed acquaintances and literary connections which resulted, in most cases, in ties of the closest and happiest friendship. His real work as an editor did not begin until a few years after; but from the start he was constantly near the fountain-head of all that was interesting the world politically and socially both at home and abroad, and he kept his brothers constantly informed of all that was important for them to know, while making connections for them with Samuel Warren, Walter Savage Landor, Bulwer-Lytton, and many others who were making their mark in the literary world. In 1845 his brother Alexander died, and John was called to Edinburgh to relieve his brother Robert of cares and responsibility, and to take the editorship of Blackwood's Magazine, which he kept until his death in the autumn of 1879.

By means of letters written by himself and to him, we get an excellent idea of John Blackwood's generous way of regarding all men—always willing to see the best there was in everyone, and always merciful to those who were less morally and intellectually gifted than himself. Friendship contributed largely to his happiness, and few men had more friends so true and tried. The most fruitful period of the Victorian literary era was comprised in his time of active work as editor, and this third volume of the history of the Blackwood house is full of incident and anecdotes of authors appealing to the general reader. Trollope, George Eliot, Laurence Oliphant, and Lever stand out among the many well-known names. Almost all the books with which their names are identified are criticised and described in the letters of Blackwood. Especially interesting are the letters written to him in which the writers of the day weighed each other's work.

The volume was needed to round out the work begun by Mrs. Oliphant, and it completes a history of publishing and of authors that will be of great value in studying the period of Victorian literature.

OBITUARY NOTES.

Frederick Beecher Perkins, well known as a literary man and librarian, died at Morristown, N. J., on the 3d inst. He was born in Hartford, Conn., in 1828, and was the son of Thomas C. Perkins; his mother, who survives him, is a sister of Henry Ward Beecher. Mr. Perkins was a member of the class of '50 at Yale, but left college in 1848 and began the study of law. He was admitted to the bar at Hartford in 1851, and a year later he entered the Connecticut Normal School, where he was graduated the same year. He taught school for a time, and held other posts in Hartford until 1854, in which year he came to New York and became connected with the New York Tribune, remaining until 1857. Returning to Hartford he became assistant editor of Barnard's American Journal of Education, and was appointed librarian of the Connecticut Historical Society. From 1868 until January, 1870, he assisted the late George R. Cathcart in the editorship of the American Publisher and Bookseller, a monthly "record of American and foreign literature," published chiefly for the book trade. Early in 1869 Mr. Cathcart sold out his interest to Mr. Perkins, who edited and published the periodical alone until the beginning of the following year. Later he became secretary of the Boston Public Library. From 1880 to 1887 he was librarian of the San Francisco Free Public Library. While there he published his "Rational Classification of Literature for Shelving and Cataloguing Books in a Library." He was editorially connected with various papers and magazines. Among his writings are "Life and Work of Charles Dickens;" "President Greeley, President Hoffman, and the Resurrection of the Ring, a history, by Pharaoh Budlong" [pseud.;] "Burlington, 1872;" "Scrope, or, the Lost Library;" "Congressional District Vote Map of the United States;" "Check-List for American Local History;" "Devil Puzzlers;" "My Three Conversations with Miss Chester," and the fourth edition of Putnam's "Best Reading." His short stories are especially remarkable for their brilliancy and cleverness. He was as noted for his historical and antiquarian knowledge as he was for his knowledge of books and of literature generally. He leaves two children—a son, Thomas, and a daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Stetson, a poet. One of his sisters is Mrs. Edward Everett Hale.

The Rt. Rev. John Williams, Bishop of Connecticut and Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Church in America, died at Middletown, Conn., on the 7th inst. He was born in Deerfield, Conn., August 31, 1817. He was consecrated a bishop October 29, 1851, and for years assisted Bishop Brownell in the administration of the diocese of which he subsequently became bishop. He was for some years president of Trinity College and subsequently dean of the Berkeley Divinity School. His literary works include many valuable contributions to The American Church Quarterly Review, The Churchman, and other periodicals, a charge on "Everlasting Punishment" (1845), "Ancient Hymns of Holy Church" (1845), "Thoughts on the Gospel Miracles" (1848), "Paddock Lectures on the English Reformation" (1881), "Bedell Lectures on the World's Witness to Jesus Christ" (1882), historical sermons in "The Seabury Centenary" (1885), and "Studies in the Book of Acts" (1888). He also edited, with additional notes, in 1864, an American edition of Bishop Harold Browne's "Exposition of the Thirty-nine Articles."

IRVING BROWNE, a well-known lawyer and writer, died at his home in Buffalo, N. Y., on the 7th inst. He was born at Marshall, Oneida County, N. Y., in 1835, and was for many years editor of The Albany Law Journal and of the "American Reports." He was also a Shakespearian scholar of repute. Among his published works are a translation of Racine's comedy "The Suitors," "Humorous Phases of the Law," "Short Studies of Great Lawyers," "Elements of the Law of Domestic Relations," "Judicial Interpretation of Common Words and Phrases," "Law and Lawyers in Literature," "Iconoclasm and Whitewash," "The Character of the Nurse's Deceased Husband in Romeo and Juliet," etc. Before his last illness he was engaged in writing the American notes to the series of "English Ruling Cases," now in its sixteenth volume.

NELLIE CARROLL, who owned three book and periodical stores in Chicago, died in that city on the 9th inst., aged thirty. Miss Carroll was the eldest of ten children. Her father's death threw the care and maintenance of the family on her shoulders. She worked for her uncle, a plumber, then for a bookseller. In a year or two she bought out her employer and started out on her own splendidly successful career. She contracted consumption while a girl, and nothing but an indomitable will kept her alive. Her estate is valued at $30,000.

FRANK H. STEPHENS, bookseller, died at Binghamton, N. Y., January 16. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1836, and when quite young went to Binghamton. He was first a clerk in a dry-goods store, and then he went into the book business on his own account. Later he was associated with G. S. Perry. When the firm dissolved, that of Stephens & Miller was formed. About six years ago this firm in turn was dissolved, Mr. Stephens taking Mr. Miller's place in the business.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE Rev. Dr. John Watson ("Ian Maclaren") will give a reading in New York in the Waldorf-Astoria ball-room on the evening of March 3.

REV. E. H. HALL, formerly minister of the Unitarian church in Cambridge, has written a book of special interest to students of ecclesiastical history. It is entitled "Papias: A Study from the Second Century." Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will be the publishers.

A YEAR ago the president of the Cercle Français of Harvard University endowed a French lectureship in the university for the purpose of bringing over from France each year a man of letters to lecture before the university on some subject relating to French art, literature, or science. The first series of these lectures was given by M. Réné Doumic. This year the lecturer will be M. Edouard Rod, who will treat of "The History of French Dramatic Poetry," in eight lectures. Mr. Rod will also deliver lectures in many other American colleges, including Yale, Princeton, Columbia, the University of Pennsylvania, Cornell, Williams, Vassar, Bryn Mawr, Adelphi and Packer institutes in Brooklyn, and several French clubs. Mr. Rod is a young man, having been born in 1857 in Nyon, near Geneva. He made his first appearance in French literature as a champion of Zola in 1879, in a pamphlet about the novelist's "L'Assommoir." This was followed by several novels, but the first book really to disclose his talent and his real personality was "La Course à la Mort," published in 1885. He was also one of the founders of the Revue Contemporaine, and was appointed professor of foreign literature at the University of Geneva, at the same time keeping up his literary activity, especially in the domain of criticism and biographical studies, although he did not cease in his production of novels. After Mr. Rod the Cercle Français of Harvard expect M. Paul Bourget, of the Academy, to lecture in 1900.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

A NEW financial journal, Wall Street Topics, has just made its appearance in New York. Howard Irving Smith is editor and publisher.

TENNANT & WARD, New York, announce for March 1 a new monthly magazine, the Photo-Miniature. The first number will treat of Modern Lenses, and each issue will be a like monograph pertaining to the theory or practice of photography.

PAUL LEICESTER FORD has written a story of the American Revolution, entitled "Janice Meredith," which will be published serially in The Bookman. The first instalment will appear in the March issue, which is expected to be ready on the 25th inst.

Rhodora is the name of a new monthly journal published by the New England Botanical Club under the editorship of Dr. Benjamin Lincoln Robinson, Curator of the Gray Herbarium of Harvard University. Its aim is to further the study of the local flora. Among the contributors to the initial number are Dr. Robinson, Merrit L. Fernald, and Hollis Webster, of Harvard University.

THE first number of Bird-Lore, the new bimonthly magazine published by The Macmillan Company, and edited by Frank M. Chapman, assistant curator in the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, contains articles by John Burroughs, Miss Merriam, and others well calculated to attract the rapidly growing number of bird students. In addition to general articles, book reviews, and editorials, there are departments for "Young Observers," "Teachers and Students," and the Audubon Societies, of which Bird-Lore is the official organ. The latter is under the charge of Mrs. Mabel Osgood Wright, the author of "Birdcraft," "Citizen Bird," etc. The illustrations include a full-page photograph of John Burroughs before his study fire, and numerous pictures of wild birds photographed in life, which not only possess great interest in themselves but are noteworthy as feats in photography.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish next week the long-expected "Letters of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett Barrett."

GEORGE REDWAY, London, will publish shortly a new book by G. C. Leland ("Hans Breitmann,") entitled "Have You a Strong Will?"

J. F. TAYLOR & Co., 66 Fifth Avenue, New York, will publish by subscription the Westminster edition of "The Novels and Poems of Charles Kingsley" in fourteen medium octavo volumes.

GINN & Co. will publish at once, in their Latin and Greek School Classics, the sixth book of the Odyssey, edited, with introduction, notes, and vocabulary, by Charles W. Bain, of the Sewanee [Tenn.] Grammar School.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY will issue at once Edward Marshall's "The Story of the Rough Riders," illustrated with many engravings from photographs taken on the field and with numerous artistic drawings by R. F. Outcault.

FUNK & WAGNALLS have just published a volume of "Anecdotes and Morals," by Dr. Louis Albert Banks, containing over 500 interesting anecdotes, with forceful lessons that will be found useful by public speakers, preachers, and teachers.

THE AMERICAN UNITARIAN ASSOCIATION, 25 Beacon Street, Boston, has printed for free distribution a pamphlet of twenty-eight pages, entitled "A Plea for Sincerity in Religious Thought," by the Rev. Joseph Henry Crooker, author of "Jesus Brought Back" and "Problems in American Society."

M. F. MANSFIELD & A. WESSELS, New York, will publish at once an exact reproduction of the (1886) Lahore edition of Kipling's "Departmental Ditties and Other Verses." The volume will resemble the original as to type, paper, binding, etc., and the edition will be limited to 250 copies, attested.

THE executors of "Old Sleuth" (Harlan P. Halsey) have sold all the plates and stock of the Old Sleuth Library to the J. S. Ogilvie Publishing Co. By this transaction about 135 sets of plates and 200,000 books were turned over to the Ogilvies, who will supply this series to the trade direct and not through the news companies.

F. T. NEELY, New York, will shortly issue "The Mark Twain Story Book," with a biographical sketch of Mark Twain, by Will M. Clemens; "Theodore Roosevelt, the American, his life and work," also by Will M. Clemens; and three works of fiction—"Tom Huston's Transformation," by Mrs. R. J. Love; "Thad Perkins," a story of early Indiana, by Frank A. Myers; and "Tanka," by T. H. Bean.

THE next volume in Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s Cambridge edition of the poets will be devoted to Milton. Its editor is William Vaughn Moody, of the University of Chicago, a comparatively recent graduate of Harvard, and it is said that his work has been done with rare success. This volume will be followed shortly by an edition of Keats, prepared by the general editor of the Cambridge series—Horace E. Scudder.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co., New York, have received a supply of Sir Henry Thompson's "Food and Feeding," the 9th enlarged edition of which was taken up almost immediately on publication. They will issue in a few days the second edition of Justin McCarthy's "Leo XIII." in the Public Men of To-Day series. For this edition Mr. McCarthy has written an additional chapter and made several minor corrections in the text.

DYRSEN & PFEIFFER, 429 Fifth Avenue, New York, have published a volume of verses by Dr. L. Conrad, entitled "Grüsse an meine Freunde in New York, zum Besten des Deutschen Hospitals." The volume is attractively gotten up and will be welcomed as an interesting souvenir of one whose best years were given to the service of medicine in New York by the many patients who in after years became Dr. Conrad's firm friends.

THE CHISWICK PUBLISHING CO., 23 Duane Street, New York, of which Thos. J. Carey is now manager, have just published No. 1 of "Travellers' Yarns," a collection of anecdotes and "goaks"; also, "Cushing in a Nutshell," a vest-pocket guide for deliberative assemblies, based on the highest authorities and adapted to general use by W. E. Hallenbeck. They announce a revised and corrected edition of "Spanish at Sight, a practical system on the most simple principle for self-tuition, with English pronunciation of every word," by A. M. A. Beale, and lessons in Spanish phonography by Fred. R. Guernsey.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have just published the long-delayed volume of "Book Auctions in the 17th Century," by John Lawler, compiler of the Ashburnham and Sunderland sales catalogues. The volume deals very fully with the origin, method, and progress of selling books by auction. The prices given for notable books, and the books which were most in demand at that period, are specially dealt with. The auctioneer's quaint introductions and terms appear in full, and the chronological table of the auctions is given in the index. They have nearly ready Dr. James Orr's Morgan Lecture, entitled "Neglected Factors in the Study of the Early Progress of Christianity."

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, has just brought out the fifth impression of "Euphorion," which, most people agree, is Vernon Lee's most successful book. Of those who have not dipped into "Euphorion," by the way, we wonder how many there are who know what "Euphorion" means. The so-called "superogatory" is often useful, and therefore we do not hesitate to explain that "Euphorion" is the name given by Goethe to the marvellous child born of the mystic marriage of Faust and Helena. Vernon Lee takes Faustus to be the impersonation of the Middle Ages, Helena the impersonation of Antiquity, and "Euphorion," therefore, the impersonation of the Renascence. Hence Vernon Lee's studies of the antique and the mediæval in the Renascence are appropriately named.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. announce an English translation of one of M. de Bergerac's own books, which no doubt will be interesting news to admirers of Rostand's much-discussed play. Soon after its appearance in Paris in the seventeenth century Bergerac's book was brought out in London, bearing the imprint of Henry Rhodes, 1687, and entitled "The Comical History of the States and Empires of the World of the Moon." The new edition, which will simply be called "A Voyage to the Moon," will be edited by Curtis H. Page, of Columbia University, and will be illustrated with four quaint contemporary engravings. The text, with the exception of a few verbal changes, will be that of 1687, "newly Englished by A. Lovell, A.M." What makes this tale of M. de Bergerac particularly interesting is the fact that from it M. Rostand drew the long speech of Cyrano de Bergerac in the third act of the play, where the Gascon keeps the Duke from entering the house by fascinating him with the story of his trip to the moon.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly "Methods and Problems of Spiritual Healing," by Horatio W. Dresser, author of "The Power of Silence," etc. This book is expected to prove of interest to all who are investigating the problem of mental cure, or cure by suggestion. It makes a careful study of the phenomena of metaphysical healing, and is the result of a long series of careful investigations of the subject. In connection with the publication of this new volume, Messrs. Putnam have arranged to take over from George H. Ellis, of Boston, the publication of the entire series of the works of Mr. Dresser, of which new editions will shortly be in readiness. This series comprises the following titles: "The Power of Silence," "The Perfect Whole," "The Heart of It," "In Search of a Soul," "The Voices of Hope." They announce as in preparation "Historic Towns of the Middle States," including Albany, Kingston, Newburgh, Saratoga, Pittsburgh, Tarrytown, Philadelphia, Princeton, Wilmington, Schenectady, Brooklyn, and New York City, to be issued uniform with "Historic Towns of New England"; "History of the Territorial Expansion of the United States," by Charles Henry Butler; a volume on "Volcanoes," by Prof. T. G. Bonney, which will form No. 5 in their Science Series; "Industrial Cuba," by Robert P. Porter; "Miss Cayley's Adventures," by Grant Allen; and "Shakespeare in France," by J. Jusserand.

HENRY FROWDE, of the Oxford University Press, has just published a quarto volume entitled "The Master E. S. and the 'Ars Moriendi,' a chapter in the history of engraving during the 15th century," with facsimile reproductions of engravings in the university galleries at Oxford and in the British Museum, by Lionel Cust, Director of the National Portrait Gallery. The illustrations are collotypes from engravings of the greatest importance and interest, which will now, for the first time, be rendered generally accessible by accurate facsimiles of the exact size of the originals. They are as follows: (1) The unique set of eleven copper-plate illustrations to the "Ars Moriendi" by The Master E. S., in the Douce collection now in the university galleries at Oxford; (2) The all but unique set of eleven copper-plate engravings from the originals of The Master E. S., executed by The Master of St. Erasmus, and now in the Print Room of the British Museum; and (3) The exceedingly rare block-book (of twenty-four pages) acquired by the Trustees of the British Museum at the Weigel sale in Leipzig in 1872, and now in the Library of the British Museum. This has hitherto only been reproduced by inferior processes. Mr. Cust, in an introduction of twenty-one pages, discusses the relation of these sets of prints to each other. He accepts and confirms the conclusions of Dr. Max Lehrs, Director of the Cabinet of Prints and Drawings in the Royal Museums of Dresden, that the unique series of the engravings at Oxford is the true editio princeps of the "Ars Moriendi," which played so important a part in the life of the fifteenth century; that the designs must be regarded as belonging to the earlier work of The Master E. S., and that the illustrations of the block-book are little more than enlarged copies.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce the early publication of Professor H. Morse Stephens' second, revised, and enlarged edition of his "Syllabus of European History, 1600–1890," with bibliographies. To each lecture in the syllabus is appended a bibliography of authorities, secondary and primary, for the use of both students and teachers. These bibliographies are not exhaustive, but contain the titles of the principal primary authorities, and of the best secondary authorities in English, French, and German. They will also publish at an early date a supplement to the abridged edition of Bryce's "American Commonwealth," by F. H. Clark, of the Lowell High School, San Francisco, entitled "Outlines of Civil Government," which supplies additional information by means of documents printed entire or in abstract, by reference to other books easily accessible in school or public libraries, and by abstracts of general laws establishing county and township governments; "A Brief Introduction to Modern Philosophy," by Arthur Kenyon Rogers, who attempts to show how the problems of philosophy arise from the presuppositions of our ordinary beliefs and practical needs, and what are the most significant solutions that have been given to them by modern thought; and a series of four "Child-Life Readers," by Etta Austin Blaisdell, Supervisor of Schools, Brockton, Mass.; the scope and contents of which may be gathered from the titles, which are: (1) "Child Life," (2) "Child Life in Tale and Fable," (3) "Child Life in Many Lands," and (4) "Child Life in History." The new volumes announced for publication in the spring in Macmillan's Classical Series are "Selections from Plato," edited by Lewis L. Forman, Instructor in Greek at Cornell University; "Selected Letters of Pliny," edited by Elmer Truesdell Merrill, Professor of Latin Language and Literature at Wesleyan University; and "Selections from the Greek Lyric Poets," Vol. I.—"The Melic Poets," edited by Herbert Weir Smyth, Professor of Greek at Bryn Mawr College.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE sixth dinner of the Booksellers' League will be given at the French Restaurant, 111 W. 25th Street, New York, on the evening of the 15th inst., at 6:30 sharp. Ernest D. North, of Charles Scribner's Sons, will give an informal talk on old book from the point of view of a dealer, and also of a collector, with a word on some notable private libraries in New York and vicinity. Those who wish to attend must give word to Frank Appel, at Brentano's, 31 Union Square, not later than the 13th inst.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

HAVE RECENTLY PUBLISHED:

BEERS'S ENGLISH ROMANTICISM—XVIII CENTURY.

By Prof. HENRY A. BEERS. With gilt top, 12mo, $2.00.

Literature:—"The author presents in himself a rare combination—a scholarly and historical knowledge, which places at his command a seemingly inexhaustible fund of literary data, and a keen and appreciative taste. The style of the book is happily easy, and a certain characteristic humor runs pleasantly between many of the lines. . . . Always interesting and lucid, his analyses are clear and profound, and his lighter details of literary happenings are often delightfully amusing. The book is a notable example of the best type of unpedantic literary scholarship."

WALKER'S DISCUSSIONS IN EDUCATION.

By the late FRANCIS A. WALKER, President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Edited by JAMES P. MUNROE. 8vo, $3.00 net, special.

The author had hoped himself to collect these papers in a volume. They are very fresh, incisive, and broad in treatment, and are grouped under Technological Education, Manual Education, The Teaching of Arithmetic and College Problems (including College Athletics). A Valedictory closes the book.

OXENHAM'S GOD'S PRISONER. A Story. 12mo, $1.25.

N. Y. Commercial Advertiser:—"A very intense sort of book—as, indeed, it would have to be to carry out effectively the central idea. . . . Contains many thrilling scenes and strong delineations of emotion."

N. Y. Times, Saturday Review:—"A romance of adventure carried out to its ultimate degree. . . . It is the ingenuity of the romance-maker which is so remarkable. . . . As good a piece of artistic work as we have seen is shown on the cover."

GODFREY'S POOR HUMAN NATURE.

A Musical Novel. 2d Impression. 12mo, $1.50.

Bookman:—"It is curiously convincing. The characters, too, are peculiarly real. . . . Each and every one stands out with vivid distinction, and is not soon to be forgotten. . . . The portrayal of local life, particularly that appertaining to operatic circles, is full of freshness and interest. . . . It is well written, it is nobly felt, it is altogether an admirable work."

PUGH'S TONY DRUM.

With cover and illustrations in color by WM. NICHOLSON and JAMES PRYDE. $1.50.

Life:—"There is a good deal more to Edwin Pugh's pathetic story . . . than the striking pictures by Wm. Nicholson . . . who succeeds in making visible and actual with a few broad strokes and splotches, the personality of the 'London Types' in this story. But Mr. Pugh also has a style of his own, and simplicity is the crayon with which he sketches . . . He is an artist in simple statement. He never slops over, or entices you to tears. . . . All the minor characters are drawn with the same firm touch of a realist who has a heart."

A Revised Edition of a Book for Young and Old.

LUCAS'S A BOOK OF VERSES FOR CHILDREN.

Over 200 poems from 80 authors. With illustrated title-page and cover-linings in color by F. D. BEDFORD, two other illustrations, and elaborate binding. 12mo, $2.00. (Descriptive circular free.)

Critic:—"We know of no other anthology for children so complete and well arranged."

EIGHTEENTH CENTURY LETTERS.

Edited by R. BRIMLEY JOHNSON. With gravure portraits. Half vellum, 12mo, $1.75 net per volume.

Swift, Addison, and Steele. (Poole.) One volume.

Johnson and Lord Chesterfield. (Birkbeck Hill.) One volume.

MRS. VOYNICH'S THE GADFLY.

HOPE'S RUPERT OF HENTZAU.

Illustrated by Charles Dana Gibson. 6th Impression. $1.50.

A Revised Edition of

CHAMPLIN AND BOSTWICK'S YOUNG FOLKS' CYCLOPÆDIA OF GAMES AND SPORTS.

The following articles have been fully revised in accord with the latest official rules: Cycling, Baseball, Football, Golf, and Whist, and numerous other improvements, including the addition of a number of new illustrations.

WELLS' HER LADYSHIP'S ELEPHANT.

With cover by Nicholson. 5th Impression. $1.25.

They Will Publish in February

LAVIGNAC'S MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Edited for America, by H. E. KREHBIEL, and translated by WILLIAM MARCHANT. With 94 illustrations and 510 examples in musical notation. 12mo.

A brilliant, sympathetic, and authoritative work covering musical sound, the voice, musical instruments, construction æsthetics, and the history of music.

STACPOOLE'S THE RAPIN. A Novel. 12mo.

Rapin is Parisian studio slang for a professed student of art who has neither the talent nor energy to succeed. There were exceptional reasons to make this Rapin more interesting than Rapins in general. The story is, on the part of one of the chief actors, an idyll; on the part of the other, something else. The characters range from the Bohemians of the Latin Quarter to the nobles of the Faubourg and the Elysees, are all bold types, and drawn with exquisite clearness and finish.

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

THE SCAPEGOAT.

A Romance and a Parable. By HALL CAINE, author of "The Christian," "The Deemster," "The Manxman," "The Bondman," etc. New and revised edition. Uniform with the author's works. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This new edition will present itself as practically a new book. It will be found to differ materially from the edition heretofore published, which was issued some years since without the benefit of the author's revision. This powerful romance and expressive "parable" will be certain to obtain a greatly enlarged meed of popularity.

"This book in its present form is new to American readers, although a book under the same title, telling practically the same story, was published in America seven years ago. That was just after the passing of the Copyright Act, and the effort to meet the conditions of the new law seemed to require that the romance should be published in what I know was an immature and wholly unsatisfactory form. This was the form in which it was being published serially in English and American journals, without the revision usually considered necessary for any piece of writing before its appearance as a book, and especially desirable in the case of the present work. . . . When health and opportunity allowed, I did my best to make the story worthy of the reception it had received by an effort to lift its literary execution to the level of its artistic motive.

"With these alterations and with amendments made very recently I am now offering 'The Scapegoat' to American readers practically, I think, as a new book, certainly as a book which is in great part new."—From the Author's Preface to the New Edition.

PUERTO RICO AND ITS RESOURCES.

A Book for Travellers, Investors, and others, containing full accounts of Natural Features and Resources, Products, People, Opportunities for Business, etc. By FREDERICK A. OBER, author of "Camps in the Caribbees," "Crusoe's Island," etc. With maps and illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge writes the author: "You have brought together in a small space an immense amount of most valuable information, which it is very important to have within the reach of the American people at this time."

NUNEZ'S SPANISH READERS.

With Vocabularly and Questions in English on the Text By J. ABELARDO NUNEZ. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth. Two Volumes. Volume I., 65 cents. Volume II., 85 cents.

"No less enthralling than 'Two Years Before the Mast.'"

THE CRUISE OF THE CACHALOT,

Round the World After Sperm Whales. By FRANK T. BULLEN, First Mate. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling writes the author: "It is immense—there is no other word. I've never read anything that equals it in its deep-sea wonder and mystery, nor do I think that any book before has so completely covered the whole business of whale-fishing, and at the same time given such real and new sea pictures. I congratulate you most heartily. It's a new world that you've opened the door to."

WINDYHAUGH.

A Novel. By GRAHAM TRAVERS, author of "Mona Maclean, Medical Student," "Fellow Travellers," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"The author draws her characters with the clever strokes of the successful artist, and the life of her heroine is, in and of itself, so immensely interesting that the story never for a moment palls. . . . Aside from its moral and intellectual charm 'Windyhaugh' is brightly written, and has that keen sense of enjoyment which belongs to any genuine delineation of life."—Boston Herald.

THE KNIGHT OF THE GOLDEN CHAIN.

An Historical Romance. By R. D. CHETWODE, author of "John of Strathbourne." No. 257, Appletons' Town and Country Library. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50c.

The success of "John of Strathbourne" represented a promise which is fully sustained in this new romance of adventure in the England of the twelfth century. Mr. Chetwode is a spirited story-teller, and his pictures of the curious contrasts and strange conditions of the stormy time which he has chosen invest his tale with an unusual interest.

THE STORY OF THE COTTON PLANT.

By F. WILKINSON, F.G.S., Director of the Textile and Engineer School, Bolton. A new volume in the Library of Useful Stories. Illustrated. 16mo, cloth, 40 cents.

In clear and simple language the author tells the story of cotton, tracing its progress from the plant to the thread. The early history of cotton, the various phases of its growth, and the processes of preparation and manufacture are lucidly described.

NOTES IN SEASON.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, Ltd., announce a new edition of W. S. Caine's "Picturesque India," with an additional chapter on Burma, by the Rt. Hon. George N. Curzon. The volume will contain 200 original illustrations.

HENRY HOLT & CO. announce for immediate publication an "Elementary Algebra," by George W. Evans, of the English High School, Boston. At each turn of the subject the departure is made from problems, and the book contains an unusually large collection of new exercises.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "The Letters of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett Barrett, 1845–1846"; "Ragged Lady," a new novel, by W. D. Howells; "Short Rations," a collection of clever and charming sketches, by Williston Fish, of American army life at West Point and in garrison in a Minnesota fort; and "Philip," etc., the eleventh volume of the biographical edition of Thackeray's complete works.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. have in preparation a new edition of Miss Wormeley's translation of Balzac's works, which will include some matter not in the earlier volumes, and will be illustrated with nearly one hundred photogravures of drawings made specially for the work by French artists. Among their announcement of forthcoming books are "The Kinship of Souls," by Rev. Reuen Thomas; "Each Life Unfulfilled," by Miss Anna Chapin Ray; three volumes in the collected library edition of the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale's works; "A Boy in the Peninsular War, the services, adventures, and experiences of Robert Blakeney, subaltern in the Twenty-eighth Regiment, an autobiography," edited by Julian Sturgis; and new editions of Mrs. Anna Bowman Dodd's "Cathedral Days" and "Three Normandy Inns."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish at an early date "The Gospel for a World of Sin," by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, which, in a certain sense, is intended to be a sequel to the author's "The Gospel for an Age of Doubt," of which a sixth and revised edition was published in October, 1898; also, a work on the economic and ethical development of the human race, by Prof. Franklin H. Giddings, of Columbia University, entitled "Democracy and Empire." They will publish in March a new edition of Hamlin Garland's "The Rose of Dutcher's Cooly," hereafter to be known as "The Rose of Dutcher's Coulé," by Hamlin Garland, who has revised the story and added a new chapter. This will be followed by new and enlarged editions of Garland's "Main Travelled Roads" and "Prairie." In June they will bring out "The Trail of the Gold Seekers," a new book by Garland, which is the literary result of his trip over the trail last year, when he led a pack train from Ashcroft, British Columbia, to the Stickeen River. In the fall they will publish another new book by Garland, entitled "Boy Life on the Prairie."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. will publish on the 18th inst. "The Wire Cutters," a story of Texas, and of an embroilment over the shutting off of cattle from springs by wire fences, by Mrs. M. E. M. Davis, author of "Under the Man-Fig"; "A West Point Wooing, and other stories," many of which relate to episodes of West Point life, by Mrs. Clara Louise Burnham; an important little book by Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace Society, urging and showing the practicability of "The Federation of the World;" "Fields, Factories, and Workshops, or two sister arts, industry and agriculture," by Prince Kropotkin, who discusses in this book the advantages that civilized societies would derive from a combination of industrial pursuits with intensive agriculture, and of brain work with manual work; the twelfth volume of Sargent's "The Silva of North America," dealing with the coniferæ; and a new issue, in the Riverside Paper Series, of Florence Converse's novel, "Diana Victrix." They have nearly ready "The Life of Edwin M. Stanton," secretary of war during Lincoln's and Johnson's administrations, written, with the sanction of the Stanton family, by Hon. George C. Gorham, for some years secretary of the United States Senate,

A romantic story of the twelfth century, during the reign of King Stephen of England. The many battles and disputes that arose from his uncertain title to the throne form part of the narrative. The hero is a young nobleman who willingly suffers for a crime committed by his elder brother in order to save their estates. After imprisonment and torture he makes his escape, falls in with gypsies in the forest, meets a "little maid" who becomes his partner in adventure, and goes through many exciting and dangerous experiences before he wins his spurs and his knighthood.

A lover who cruelly jilts her, and a rich aunt to whom she is companion and who makes her life miserable by her intense selfishness, are among Maria Talbot's misfortunes. Her story opens at a summer resort in Switzerland, and has its concluding scenes at Brighton and London. It is in Switzerland she meets John Harland, a charming literary man, whose friendship offsets the neglect of her worthless lover. Also among her blessings is a rich American girl, who speaks a most wonderful jargon. A false French maid, who forges a will and almost succeeds in depriving Maria of her aunt's fortune after her long years of servitude, is a well drawn character.

This is the initial volume of a system of philosophy based upon natural science. "The general purpose of the entire work," says the author, "is to rationally connect the scientific knowledge of the ancient spiritual schools with the proved facts of the modern school of physical science. It is to give to modern science a motive for its knowledge and to religion a reason for its faith. It is to equip every honest and earnest student with a scientific and exact knowledge of spiritual laws, principles, forces, and activities, and enable him to personally demonstrate his knowledge to others. The specific object of this volume is to present, elucidate, and illustrate the universal spiritual principle of sex in nature. The individual relation of man and woman occupies the body of the work, covering that relation in its mathematical, harmonic, and ethical development in two worlds of matter, life, and intelligence.

Scott, Hugh S., ["Henry Seton Merriman," pseud.] Young Mistley. N. Y., A. Mackel & Co., 1899. c. 2+318 p. D. cl., $1.25. [447

The hero is a brilliant young Englishman who resigns a commission in the army to engage in diplomacy. With an older man he goes on a mission to Central Asia, which is so successful that the lives of both are threatened, first by the Russian government, and second by the Nihilists. A young Russian woman, a member of a secret society, follows "young Mistley" to England and attempts his life. With this intrigue is a pretty love-story, a pleasant picture of English domestic life, and some telling lessons in self-sacrifice.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 18, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

ABERRATIONS OF COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION.

THERE are few Federal laws to which more crazy amendments are proposed than to the copyright law. At almost every session of Congress one or more "impossible" amendments are offered that are either promptly pigeonholed, or, if they have the backing of a constituency that cannot be immediately ignored, are allowed to die gradually of inanition. The latest and most extraordinary of these measures is a provision tucked away in a Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Appropriation bill, the text of which is as follows: "That on and after July 1, 1899, no person shall be entitled to a copyright unless the copies deposited with the Librarian of Congress of such copyright, book or other article or the photograph deposited of a work of the fine arts shall be of such a substantial and permanent paper or substance and ink or impression as shall be according to such standard as shall be from time to time established and approved by the said Librarian."

The pernicious ness of this measure does not perhaps, at the first glance, strike the layman or superficial reader who may think that the ostensible purport of the amendment is to secure a high standard of legibility and permanence in all works deposited in the Library of Congress. But its menace to the right of property, which is really the principal question at issue, will become apparent when it is pointed out that inasmuch as no provision is made as to the method of publication of these standards, and as the law requires that two copies must be deposited with the Librarian of Congress on or before the day of first publication, any error in not complying with standards would necessarily result in a loss of the copyright.

The provision was passed by the House, whose committee very likely did not consider it, as it was inserted as a "rider" or amendment to an appropriation bill to which it has no legitimate relation whatever. But when the bill came up in the Senate, on the 8th inst., attention was directed to this provision, with the result that it was laid over until the following day; when it again came up the provision was stricken out to be considered in conference. Meanwhile, the Publishers' Copyright League, ascertaining that the provision might possibly be retained in the bill, directed its counsel to file a protest against alterations of the copyright statutes, which clothe the Librarian of Congress with the arbitrary power not only of establishing standards but of altering them, which is really the most objectionable feature of the proposed measure.

As the Publishers' Copyright League points out, articles of great literary value are frequently printed as experiments, and the value of the copyright is not apparent until after publication. It would therefore be manifestly improper to charge every publisher and author with the duty of selecting paper of special quality and presswork of a particular grade in order to insure his copyright. It would be exceedingly difficult, if not altogether impossible, to fix justly any absolute standard; and it would be palpably unjust to empower the Librarian of Congress, or any official, to fix arbitrarily such standards as he pleased and to alter them whenever he pleased. As there is no provision made for publishing the required standards, this amendment would make it necessary for every one wishing to copyright a work to communicate in advance with the Librarian of Congress and ascertain from him what quality of paper, type, ink, binding, etc., would be required on the proposed date of publication. Even then there would be no assurance that such requirements might not be changed before that date. Such a system would be intolerable, and would certainly result in a general breakdown of copyright — for which end, indeed, there is a suspicion that it has been designed.

The Copyright Leagues and all others interested in the matter will therefore do well to watch this provision during every movement until the bill is through conference committee and through both houses. Though its reappearance under the circumstances would seem unlikely, it would be difficult to foretell whether the agent that secured its admission to an appropriation bill might not by the same subtle influence, or subtler "pull," secure its triumph in the end.

A. C. McCLURG & CO.'S STORE DESTROYED BY FIRE.

THE five-story brick building at the northwest corner of Wabash Avenue and Madison Street, Chicago, occupied by A. C. McClurg & Co., was, with its contents, totally destroyed by fire on the 12th inst., entailing a loss estimated at nearly $640,000, the greater portion of which was on the stock. As is well known, this firm always carried a large and choice stock of books, many of those in the famous "Saints' and Sinners' Corner" being unique and hardly to be replaced. All these were lost.

The fire was the worst the Fire Department of Chicago has had to contend with in years. It started on Sunday morning about ten o'clock by the explosion of gas which had escaped, it is conjectured, in the third story. The flames spread with amazing rapidity, and before the first engine arrived were pouring out of the windows of the second, third, and fourth stories. A general alarm was sent in and soon fifty engines and other apparatus were at work. The firemen from the first had no hope of saving the building, the floors in which were beginning to fall, causing the walls to bulge, and in about two hours after the fire started the building and its contents were a heap of smoking ruins. Considerable difficulty was experienced by the firemen at first on account of the low water pressure, many of the hydrants being partly frozen up, and it was nearly twenty minutes after the fire broke out before the pressure was great enough to carry the streams to the third story. To add to the difficulty of the situation the temperature was several degrees below zero and a bitter north wind was blowing. Many of the firemen were severely frost-bitten. A. C. McClurg & Co.'s stock was insured for about $350,000.

The history of the firm of A. C. McClurg & Co. might be said to date as far back as 1848, for it had its origin in the book business conducted at that early day by S. C. Griggs in Lake Street. It was with this firm that General McClurg began his experience in the book business, and laid the foundation for his remarkably successful business career. In 1866 he returned from the War of the Rebellion and became a partner in the firm.

Two years later a fire destroyed their stock and the store was reopened in State Street, a few doors north of Madison Street. The locality was then known as "booksellers' row," two other book establishments occupying adjoining buildings. Then came the big fire of 1871, and the business was removed temporarily to the residence of Egbert L. Jansen, in Wabash Avenue, near Twelfth Street.

In 1872 the firm of S. C. Griggs & Co. dissolved partnership. S. C. Griggs devoted himself exclusively to publishing, and the firm of Jansen & McClurg was formed to continue the retail business, the store being located at 39 and 41 Lake Street. At that time the firm was doing a yearly business of very large proportions, its trade even before the big fire amounting to $500,000 annually. The business continued to grow steadily, and in 1884 it was found necessary to secure more commodious quarters. It was then that the firm leased the Rutter building. In 1886 Mr. Jansen retired, and the firm took its present name, Frederick B. Smith becoming a partner.

In the volume of its business and the amount of its stock the firm has been recognized for years as one of the largest in the country. More than 350 persons were employed in the store and as travelling salesmen, and the trade extended from Pennsylvania to Oregon.

The publishing department of the firm represents but a small proportion of the annual business, General McClurg stating that $100,000 would cover the transactions in that line.

The firm has always contracted for its printing, and is thus fortunate in not losing the plates for its various publications. A large stock of plates is in the keeping of local printers and also with Eastern firms. The card-engraving business of the stationery department was another feature of the trade enjoyed by the firm, and the destruction of the card plates left in the keeping of that department will be a heavy loss.

"It is impossible to state what our future course will be," General McClurg is reported to have said to a representative of the Inter-Ocean. "For the present we shall have headquarters in the Edson Keith building, at 166–172 Wabash Avenue. Our books and papers were in the vaults and we hope they were not damaged. We shall secure a wareroom, order new supplies, and fill orders that come to us as promptly as possible. A new building, planned to suit our business, would, of course, be the ideal thought; but even should we conclude to build, a place to do business in for the present will be necessary. Our business demands an entire building, and the offers that have so generously been made thus far are for no more than one story."

In the reorganization it is possible that General McClurg may retire, leaving the business to younger men. He has a beautiful home, a good income, and his friends declare that his remaining years should be passed free from the cares of business.

ROSTAND DENIES THE CHARGE OF PLAGIARISM.

EDMOND ROSTAND, author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," appeared on the afternoon of the 11th inst. before Oliver Bodington, United States Commissioner, to take evidence in the case of Gross against Palmer and Mansfield. Rostand stated that he had never heard of or even seen Gross's "Merchant Prince of Corneville" until the present action was brought, and, moreover, that as early as 1896 he had related to Coquelin a full outline of his play of "Cyrano de Bergerac." To this Coquelin was prepared to testify, and this was before "The Merchant Prince of Corneville" had been written. "Besides," added Rostand, "Cyrano is an historical character, and all the episodes in his career are recorded in history." Rostand submitted very good-naturedly to cross-examination. He stated that the charge of plagiarism was absolutely false, and ridiculed any idea of resemblance when passages of "The Merchant Prince of Corneville" were translated to him. Rostand gave his evidence voluntarily, and as his counsel, Henry Cachard, announced, there was no law which could compel Rostand to give it, but he did so merely out of good-will to an American actor who was impersonating "Cyrano" in the United States.

"It appears," says the Paris correspondent of the New York Tribune, "that Rostand's testimony was a delightful literary treat.

Under cross-examination he related his entire career as a dramatist; how he formed a 'Cyrano' library, and how, as early as August, 1895, at Luchon, he wrote the famous fencing ballade and also the presentation of the cadets of Gascony. He said it was during a rehearsal of the 'Princesse Lointaine,' at Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's Theatre, that Coquelin, who was present, asked him to write a similar play for him. Rostand replied: 'I have a character already for you; it is Cyrano, and will fit you like a glove.' Rostand began writing the play piecemeal, and Coquelin learned it by heart as it proceeded until it was produced in December, 1897. When asked if he saw no resemblance between the balcony scene in 'Cyrano' and the balcony scene in 'The Merchant Prince of Corneville,' he said: 'No, not at all; no more than between it and the balcony scene in "Romeo," or hundreds of others that have been used by playwrights since Shakespeare, and even before. What is original in the balcony scene of "Cyrano" is that the man who is substituted for the real suitor is himself in love with the woman.'

"M. Rostand's testimony was full of wit and repartee and overflowing with sparkling humor that Commissioner Bodington and all the lawyers with difficulty repressed their merriment during the whole proceedings, thus forming a little Parisian cause célèbre."

CANADIAN AUTHORS' SOCIETY.

At a meeting of leading newspaper and literary men held in Toronto on the 6th inst., an association was formed under the title of the "Society of Canadian Authors," for the purpose of promoting literature in Canada. George W. Ross was called to the chair, and in an address considered the copyright question at some length. He suggested that the society to be formed should make representations with a view to securing modifications of the bill which Lord Herschell at the last session introduced into the House of Lords, and which would come forward again this year, which aimed at consolidating the imperial copyright law. He suggested a number of amendments, after which it was decided to organize the society for the purpose of promoting literature in Canada A provisional committee was appointed, consisting of Prof. Goldwin Smith, George W. Ross, Professor Mayor, Sir G. R. Parkin, James Bain, Jr., Oliver Howland, Byron E. Walker, and Bernard McEvoy, secretary.

A NEW PAPER COMPANY.

The Great Northern Paper Company has been organized with a capital stock of $4,000,000, to compete with the International Paper Company. It proposes to build mills on the Penobscot River, in Maine, where it has purchased about 260,000 acres of timber lands and lakes tributary to the Penobscot. Among the large contributors to the capital stock of the company are Col. Oliver H. Payne, Col. Augustus G. Paine, Meylert M. Armstrong, Augustus G. Paine, Jr., Walter S. Gurnee, John G. Moore, and Grant B. Schley of New York City, and Garrett Schenck, Edward H. Haskell, and the Messrs. Ames of Boston. The corporation will operate under a special charter granted by the legislature of Maine.

COPYRIGHT IN RUSSIA.

A scheme for the protection of literary property in Russia has been formulated by the Commission which is revising the Civil Code. By its terms the copyright in any work will be vested in the author or his heirs and assigns for a period of fifty years. No limitation to the right of translating works published abroad by Russian or foreign writers is recommended, but native writers are to enjoy the exclusive right to translate their own works for ten years from the date of publication, provided that they bring out a translation within the first three years. Very strong provisions are urged against the piracy either of Russian or of foreign books, and it is recommended that the courts of justice should be empowered in assessing damage to reckon the extreme loss occasioned by such acts of spoliation. Curiously enough, an exception is to be made in the case of foreign musical works, on the ground that the development of music in Russia might be impeded if the reprinting of foreign music, whether authorized or not, were prohibited.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

George Egerton is finishing a new novel, to be entitled "The Hazard of the Ill."

Phil May is preparing a series of sketches portraying types of London street singers.

The Hon. Dorman B. Eaton is at work upon a volume entitled "The Government of Municipalities," which the Macmillan Company will publish in the Spring.

Tolstoi has completed a new novel, entitled "Resurrection," which is to be published during the present year. The proceeds of the sale of the book will be devoted to settling the Doukhobors in their western homes.

Edward Heron-Allen has written a so-called final study of Edward Fitzgerald's version of "Omar Khayyám," with the object of showing once for all how far the poem may be regarded as a translation, how far an adaptation, and how far an original work.

Edward Marshall, whose "Story of the Rough Riders" is shortly to be published by the G. W. Dillingham Company, has been compelled to have one of his legs amputated at the hip joint in order to save his life. Mr. Marshall was wounded in the charge of the Rough Riders at Guasimas.

Louis Rhead, who, in connection with his brother, George Rhead, of London, furnished the elaborate illustrations for the handsome edition of Tennyson's immortal "Idylls of the King" (published by R. H. Russell in New York), has in his possession the following acknowledgment from Queen Victoria, which shows her regard for the undeniably clever and striking work which has made the decoration in this volume so effective: "The Private Secretary is commanded to convey The Queen's thanks to Mr. Louis Rhead for his letter of the 3d inst., and for the accompanying copy of his edition of Tennyson's 'Idylls of the King,' which he has so kindly presented to Her Majesty. Sir Arthur Beggs is to add that The Queen prefers to keep the book in the ordinary binding.

OBITUARY NOTES.

ALFRED A. HORN, at one time Chicago manager for D. Appleton & Co., died in El Paso, Tex., January 23. His remains were taken to Grand Rapids, Mich., for interment.

ADELGITHA BLACKWELL, the wife of Ernest E. Lemcke, senior of the firm of Lemcke & Buechner, died at her home at Orange, N. J., on the 13th inst., aged fifty. We extend our sympathy to our friend and colleague.

WE note the death, at her residence at 204 W. Rittenhouse Square, Philadelphia, on the 14th inst., of Mrs. Josephine Craige Lippincott, widow of J. B. Lippincott, the founder of the publishing house of that name, and mother of the second generation now directing the affairs of that house, seventy-six years of age.

EDWARD C. BIGMORE, for thirty-three years associated with B. F. Stevens, of Trafalgar Square, died in London, Eng., January 28, sixty-one years old. He was for a time joint author with the late Mr. Wyman of a valuable bibliography of printing, and he translated into English Bouchot's "Le Livre," to which book in its English form he added considerably. He was well known in the trade and at London salerooms.

C. C. BACKUS died at his home in New York City on the 14th inst. from cerebral apoplexy. Mr. Backus was born in Charlton, N. Y., March 13, 1816. At the age of twenty-four he engaged in the book and publishing business at Utica, N. Y., as one of the firm of Bennett, Backus & Hawley, who also issued there the Baptist Register, which became subsequently the Examiner of New York City. For thirty years he has been well known as an accurate student of the Bible.

HENRY JONES, ("Cavendish,") editor of the card department of the Field and of the pastime department of the Queen, and the well-known authority on whist, died in London on the 15th inst. Henry Jones, who as "Cavendish" had an international reputation as an authority on card games, was by profession a surgeon, and was a member of the Royal College of Surgeons. He was born in London, November 2, 1831. He received his general education in Kings College School and St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and practiced surgery in London from 1852 until 1869. He then relinquished his practice to devote himself to literary and editorial work on his favorite subject of games. In addition to his work on the Field and the Queen, he wrote treatises on whist, piquet, ecarté, billiards, tennis, croquet, and many minor games.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE ASSOCIATION OF EMPLOYING BOOKBINDERS gave its annual dinner at the Hotel Savoy, New York, on the evening of February 13. Though the weather was decidedly unfavorable the attendance was good, and the exercises even more enjoyable than on any previous occasion.

GINN & CO. will publish shortly "Prinz Friedrich von Homburg," by Heinrich von Kleist, edited with notes and an introduction by Prof. John S. Nollen, of Iowa College. The edition is designed for advanced classes, and intended to facilitate the study of the work as literature.

W. H. WAGSTAFF, who was associated with the American branch of Cassell & Company for twenty-seven years, prior to 1893, after an absence of five years has returned to the book trade and joined the staff of W. T. Belding, the manager of the American branch of Cassell & Company, Limited, at 7 and 9 West 18th Street, New York.

THE President, on the 15th inst., sent to the Senate the nomination of Samuel June Barrows to be Librarian of Congress. Mr. Barrows now represents the Tenth district of Massachusetts in the House of Representatives, but his term will expire March 4. His appointment was urged by Secretary Long, Senators Hoar and Lodge, and by a number of librarians and others.

D. C. HEATH & CO. have just ready a somewhat abbreviated edition of Dumas's "La Tulipe Noire," adapted for Freshmen in college or for second-year pupils in high school. They have in preparation for their English Classics series books 1, 6, 22, and 24 of Pope's translation of the "Iliad," edited by Prof. Paul Shorey, of the University of Chicago; also, "Macaulay's Essay Upon Addison," edited by A. P. Walker, of the Boston English High School.

THE BROTHERS OF THE BOOK, Gouverneur, N. Y., have in preparation a reprint from The Fortnightly Review for April, 1881, of a little-known essay by Robert Louis Stevenson, entitled "The Morality of the Profession of Letters." Only a limited numbered edition will be printed, a portion of which will be offered for subscription. The "Brothers" have just published for private circulation as a "Valentine" a reprint in brochure form of Graham R. Tomson's beautiful bookish poem, "Old Books, Fresh Flowers."

J. M. BOWLES, 234 Cornhill, Boston, announces for early publication an interesting addition to the literature of art education, entitled "Composition," by Arthur W. Dow, curator of the Japanese paintings and prints in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and instructor in composition in the art department of the Pratt Institute and the Art Students' League. The volume will be illustrated with many compositions, including students' work, drawings, and arrangements by the author, and fine examples of Japanese and European art.

LEE & SHEPARD will publish in the spring Gen. O. O. Howard's new book, "Henry in the War," which was promised for the holidays, and a revised edition of the same author's "Donald's Schooldays"; "Fighting in Cuban Waters," by Edward Stratemeyer, the third volume of the Old Glory Series; "Grant Burton," a story for boys, by W. Gordon Parker; "Wee Lucy's Secret," by Sophie May; and "The House of Sixty Closets." They will publish next month "An Undivided Union," which Oliver Optic intended should be the last volume of The Blue and Grey Series. His notes and partly completed chapters for this story were carefully extended and finished by another hand to form a story after the author's design.

AT the dinner of The Booksellers' League, held at the French Restaurant at 111 West 25th Street, New York, on the evening of the 15th inst., Mr. E. D. North, of Charles Scribner's Sons, discoursed entertainingly on old and rare books. He considered the subject from the point of view of the dealer and also of the collector, under the following heads: Fading Fads, Famous Fields, Private Libraries in Greater New York, Vagaries of a Collector, Defence of Old Book Collecting, and Famous Hunting Grounds. Mr. North's remarks were followed by short talks from E. W. Johnson, A. Growoll, John A. Holden, and others. The annual meeting of the League will be held on the evening of March 3. The fourth annual dinner will be given March 15 at the rooms of the Uptown Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York. Interesting speakers have been secured to present their views on the subject of the "Making and Marketing of Books." The price of the tickets has been fixed at $2. Tickets may be had of W. H. Parker at Dutton's, 31 West 23d Street.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish next week a novel entitled "The Daughters of Babylon," by Wilson Barrett and Robert Hichens, based upon Mr. Barrett's play of the same name. They expect to publish at the same time a story entitled "The Taming of the Jungle," by Dr. C. W. Doyle, who was born in 1852 at Landour, a little hill station in the Himalayas. His father was killed in action in the Sepoy War of 1857–58, while leading a regiment of native cavalry, which he had been commissioned to raise by the government of India. Dr. Doyle lived in India for a number of years; proceeding later to England, he studied medicine and graduated with honors. For several years he has practised in America, and his literary work is rapidly obtaining recognition. They will publish shortly a volume of stories of city life by Charles Bloomingdale, Jr. ("Karl," of the Philadelphia Press), under the title of "Mr., Miss and Mrs.," which are said to be thoroughly modern in tone and clever in treatment; "A Trooper Galahad," by Capt. Charles King, U. S. A.; "The Wind Jammers," a novel, by T. Jenkins Hains; and "The Altar of Life," a novel, by May Bateman.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have in press for early issue "Tales of the Malayan Coast," by Rounseville Wildman, U. S. Consul at Hong Kong, whose connection with the stirring affairs in the far East, his association with Aguinaldo, the Filipino chief, and his intimate connection with Dewey's victories and the progress of the war in the Philippines, will give to his stories an especial interest. Of equal interest will be the history of the War of 1898, prepared by Elbridge S. Brooks, under the title of "The Story of Our War with Spain," which will give a comprehensive and consecutive story of the war, its causes and its progress, told for young people in the attractive manner that has made all Mr. Brooks's "stories" of history prime favorites with young readers, and with their elders as well. Besides these, they announce a new "Pepper" book by Margaret Sidney, entitled "The Stories Polly Pepper Told," which will introduce all the old friends of the Pepper family in a new field—and yet the old field, for it takes place in the famous "little brown house"; and "Germany, her people and their story," a popular history of Germany, from its discovery by the Romans to the present day, by Augusta Hale Gifford, wife of Hon. George Gifford, U. S. Consul at Basle, and sister to Senator Eugene Hale, of Maine.

THE W. B. CLARKE COMPANY, Boston, will publish in advance of its performance under the direction of Mrs. Jeanette Edmondson Walker, at Sanders's Theatre, Boston, in March, Thomas Heywood's play "Fortune by Land and Sea." Hitherto it has been very rare, copies of the Barron Field edition selling for $125 and upward. The play was originally produced under the management of Philip Henslow, Viscount Southwark's bailiff, usurer for actors, speculator in plays, and owner of the Boar's Head. The published play will be prefaced by notices of Heywood, with notes on certain other Heywoods with whom he is often confounded; of Henslow, a very interesting figure, and of Barron Field, one of the most indefatigable Shakespeareans. The volume will be bound in blue boards, with white labels. The play was first printed as a quarto in London in 1655. They will also publish at once an interesting little book, for which Israel Zangwill has furnished a genial and sympathetic "Foreword." The author, Miss Mary Antin, is a Polish Jewess, and wrote the story of her journey to the United States immediately after her arrival in this country, at the age of eleven years. Two years later she translated it into admirable English, and it is now published under the title of "From Plotzk to Boston."

FOREIGN NOTES.

GRANT RICHARDS, London, will publish in the summer W. J. Stillman's "Life of Crispi."

BLACKWOOD & SONS will publish shortly "The Autobiography and Letters of the Late Mrs. Oliphant." The work was all but finished at the time of her death, and it has since been edited by her friend, Mrs. Coghill.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, London, will publish shortly a monograph entitled "1812—Napoleon I. in Russia," by Vasili Verestchagin, the Russian painter. It will be illustrated with reproductions of fifty of the author's paintings.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, will publish for the Johnson Club a volume of papers that were read at the quarterly suppers held in Johnson's old haunt in the Cheshire Cheese Tavern. The writers include Augustine Birrell and Dr. Birkbeck Hill.

ACCORDING to the London correspondent of the New York Times, "not only Cecil Rhodes but Sir Richard and Lady Burton will be identified among the characters in Morley Roberts's novel, 'A Son of Empire,' which Mr. Hutchinson will publish in the spring."

THE GROSVENOR PRESS are publishing by subscription an important work entitled "The Imperial Gallery of Portraiture and Biographical Encyclopædia," edited by William Lawler Wilson. It will contain about seven hundred portraits of prominent men and women, and each portrait will be accompanied by a biographical notice, the whole forming an index to the persons of distinction extant throughout the British Empire.

GEORGE BELL & SONS have nearly ready a limited edition of an important work on "Westminster Abbey—its History and Architecture," illustrated with over 70 large collotype plates from recent photographs. An architectural account of the abbey buildings has been contributed by J. T. Micklethwaite, architect to the Dean and Chapter, while H. J. Feasey is responsible for the historical text. An appendix by Edward Bell, on the earlier sepulchral monuments, is also included in the work.

HENRY FROWDE (the Oxford University Press) has just published the second volume of Edmund Payne's "History of the American Continent." The first volume of this work created a great deal of interest several years ago, dealing as it does, with climatic and biological conditions in an original and striking way. He will publish at once for the Cambridge University Press a work entitled "Cases in International Law during the Chino-Japanese War," by Sakuye Takahashi, a professor in law in the Imperial Naval Staff College of Japan. It will have a preface by Professor Holland and an introduction by Professor Westlake.

GEORGE REDWAY, London, will publish the amusing series of articles on "Odd Volumes and Their Book-Plates," which have appeared in the journal of the Ex-Libris Society. Walter Hamilton will there reveal himself as the writer of the booklet, of which only 150 copies are to be offered for sale. This series will be republished uniform in size and style with the well-known and much-sought Opuscula of the "Sette of Odd Volumes," with a biographical introduction by the Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, M.P., and "The Physician," an original play in four acts by Henry Arthur Jones, author of "Judah," "Michael and His Lost Angel," "The Rogue's Comedy," and others.

W. & A. K. JOHNSTON, Edinburgh, have published a third edition of the valuable "Historical Geography of the Clans of Scotland," by T. B. Johnston and Col. James A. Robertson. The work has been edited by William Kirk Dickson, who has also prepared for it a "Narrative of the Highland Campaigns." The work was first published in 1872, and soon went out of print; a second edition also was shortly exhausted and the work has been out of print for many years. Both authors being dead, the publishers induced Mr. Dickson to undertake the labor of revising and correcting the text and the notes, as well as the maps and the plans. Two documents have been added which afford much interesting information as to the state of the Highlands between 1715 and 1745—General Wade's report of 1724, and an tract from a "Memorial Anent the True State of the Highlands," attributed to Lord President Forbes. A new map has been added to illustrate the uprising of 1715, and a few portraits have also been added.

PICK-UPS.

ILLUSTRATING the absurdities that sometimes crop out in the bookselling business, the following examples may be of interest: An order was received by the publishers for a copy of "Nonsense in America," which was finally translated to mean "The Rulers of the Sea," which had the sub-title, "Norsemen in America." Again, "Raisins and Beans" was ordered, and "Rosin the Beau" supplied. "Foil and Sabre," a treatise on fencing, filled an order for "Toil and Labor." "The Knickerbocker Club of North Africa," was ordered for "The Knockabout in North Africa." A well-known bookseller in Boston had in his window a set of Dickens, 15 vols., half calf, marked seventy-five cents per vol. A countryman seeing the sign and reading it hastily, entered the store, and approaching a salesman who is never without his little joke, said: "I'll take that Dickens," and passed out seventy-five cents. The salesman remonstrated that the price was seventy-five cents a volume, whereupon the countryman thought a while and said: "I ain't much on books, but they looked as though they mought be worth seventy-five cents, an' I thought I'd have 'em;" and then ejaculated: "Say, who is this fellow Dickens, anyhaow?" "Oh," said the salesman, "he was a contemporary of Thackeray and lived down by the Boston & Maine Station."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.
